A Newspaper's City Room.
Uncle Sam's New Ax.
Much Chopping Needed.
Beer? Yes. What Else?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE CITY room of a newspaper on election night is an interesting place, and exciting, even when you have seen it, year after year, for a long time.

Dozens of "copy readers" sit in groups at different tables, sifting news from guesses, many young men are answering telephones and running, solemn editors are preparing bulletins and deciding what is happening.

What seemed to have happened as when this was written in the city room of the New York American at half past six last night was the expected victory for Gov. Roosevelt.

Most definite news came from Massachusetts, which belongs to Roosevelt, apparently.

MANY AMERICAN mothers are glad that Gov. Roosevelt's mother is still with him. It is a fine thing for an American mother to hear that her son, after long years of earnest preparation and public service, has been elected President of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt's mother lives to witness a realization of a hope that doubtless was in her mind when her boy, Franklin, was a baby.

THE NUMBER of actual voters in the United States yesterday was greater than ever before. More than forty million "free and independent citizens" spent the day in school, taking one of the lessons in self-government that will stretch over hundreds of years before our self-governing education is complete.

ASSUMING, AT this hour, that Gov. Roosevelt has been elected, you may say Uncle Sam is like a farmer who has bought himself a new ax.

Every new ax is bright, shiny, full of promise. But getting a new ax and cutting down the trees are separate things.

There are big and tough trees in our national forest of problems. DEPRESSION. UNEMPLOYMENT. BOOTLEGGING. ORGANIZED CRIME.

"BEER IS coming back," undoubtedly. What about things more important than beer—prosperity, resumption of industrial activity, work in factories, mills, mines, and the old pay rolls with high wages?

What about the foundation of the nation, the farming population, and its welfare?

MRS. E. H. HARRIMAN, widow of a great American railroad builder, is dead. Her husband left a will that, in few words, gave everything he had, more than a hundred million, to his wife and thus proved his sound judgment.

Mrs. Harriman gave large sums, generously and intelligently, for public purposes, in addition to promoting enterprises in which her husband was interested. And what is more important, she has set an excellent example as owner of a great fortune.

WHILE THE Supreme Court on Monday was considering the case of the seven Alabama Negroes, condemned to death, so-called "radicals" outside the capitol attempted to picket the court, to impress their views on the judges.

The police "clubbed freely" these supervisors of Supreme Court justices. Many were hurt, fourteen arrested.

These particular radicals and all others should realize that the Supreme Court requires no assistance in settling questions of constitutional law. That is their business.

A NEW trial was ordered for the seven Negroes, by the way, on the ground that they had been deprived of the right of counsel. Two of the nine justices, McReynolds and Butler, dissented, saying that the young Negroes, convicted of attacking white girls, had not been deprived of any of their rights.

IN BIRMINGHAM, Ala., a crowd of two thousand described as "Communist Negroes," dispersed when pamphlets from the Ku Klux Klan were scattered among them.

They had gathered to take action in the case of the seven youths convicted, but changed their minds when they read:

"Negroes of Alabama, Alabama is a good place for good Negroes, and a bad place for Negroes who believe in racial equality. Ku Klux Klan."

A ROYAL commission, appointed to investigate the British dole, its results and consequences, reports in favor of the dole. And you can understand why.

In England men out of work receive as compensation for a condition which is not their fault a small amount each week to keep their families going and feed their children. This keeps money in circulation, the men have money to spend in shops. Business goes on, and England is reported to be "coming back."

THIS COUNTRY, according to reports, is either GOING BACK or standing still. Our ten or twelve millions of unemployed have nothing to spend, and storekeepers can tell you what that means.

You cannot, efficiently, help the unemployed through amateur organizations or political machines. There is waste and bad management in such spending, not to mention handing relief money to political favorites that need no relief.

To help a family out of work, the best plan is to give some money directly to the father

REPUBLICANS LOSE 10 ASSEMBLY SEATS BY UPSET

By MARK SHIELDS

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, in an unprecedented political upset, yesterday swept Allegheny County by a majority which may reach 40,000.

In the anti-Hoover landslide, Roosevelt carried not only the city of Pittsburgh, but also secured the advantage in the boroughs and townships outside the city.

President Hoover carried only the Second, Fifth, Seventh and Twenty-eighth Wards with certainty, but appears to have landed the Fourteenth. The remaining 27 wards went to Roosevelt.

In the list of Roosevelt wards were sections heretofore ruled easily by Republican leaders.

Caught in the Democratic landslide were not less than 10 Republican candidates for the Legislature, though Republican district leaders were making desperate efforts to save something out of the wreckage by the old trick of holding back returns.

Among the party casualties were the Fourth and Fifteenth, labeled as the political property of Senator James J. Coyne.

Roosevelt	187,403
Hoover	150,367

Caught in the Hoover debacle, Senator James J. Davis lost his home county to Lawrence H. Rupp, his Democratic opponent. Davis ran ahead of Hoover, but appears to have trailed in Allegheny County by 20,000.

Rupp	167,659
Davis	145,668

Outside districts matched the city in the swing to Roosevelt. Of the 268 districts in the boroughs of the county, 260 gave Roosevelt 57,926 and Hoover 55,575.

Norman Thomas trailed far behind, his vote being about a tenth that of the Republican presidential candidate.

OUTSIDE CITY

Districts outside of the city of Pittsburgh, counted on by Republican leaders to swing the county to Hoover, trended into the Democratic column to furnish a vote upset without parallel in recent history.

In the Congressional fight, Twing Brooks, Democrat, of Sewickley, was leading the incumbent, Edmund F. Erk, 30,912 to 29,770, in the Thirtieth District; Harry A. Estep, Republican, of the Thirty-third District, with 154 of 171 districts totaled, was trailing Henry Ellenbogen, Democrat, by more than 5,200 votes. Ellenbo-

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Keystone State of republicanism today had withstood one of the strongest Democratic assaults since 1860 to hold a place with five other states in the Hoover column.

In the face of the heaviest Democratic vote ever cast in Pennsylvania, President Hoover had polled 1,350,564 votes to 1,191,510 for Gov. Roosevelt in returns from 7,254 districts of a total of 8,199.

With one-ninth of the election divisions unreported, Mr. Hoover maintained a lead of slightly less than 160,000.

Gov. Roosevelt's vote from eight-ninths of the districts was more than 100,000 above the record-breaking total polled by Al-

STOCK PRICES UP, DOWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—After pushing higher in the first few minutes, the stock market slipped back rather sharply in a moderate selling flurry today, only to recover part of its losses as the session wore on and turned extremely dull.

The market backed and filled uncertainly, and after the early trading was left largely in the hands of professional traders. Brokers who attempted to interpret the market's response to the election had little success, in view of its indecisive action. Morning selling was said to be partly profit-taking on the rather sharp advances of the three sessions prior to election.

Stocks gained no support from commodities.

A number of the alcohol and so-called "wet" stocks had advanced rather substantially prior to election, and did not extend their gains materially today. National Distillers ran into profit taking sales, and lost ground moderately.

Virtually complete tables of all Allegheny County voting districts are printed—exclusively today in the Sun-Telegraph—on pages 14 and 15.

Roosevelt Pledges Restoration In First Address Since Victory

Replies to Hoover Congratulatory Telegram

UEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking from his New York home, this afternoon made his first public radio address to the world since he was elected.

His address was broadcast throughout the nation over the National Broadcasting Company network and carried by short waves across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to Europe, South America and Asia.

President-elect Roosevelt said:

"My friends:

"I am glad of this opportunity to extend my deep appreciation to the electorate of this country, which has given me this great vote of confidence.

"It is a vote that had more than mere party significance. It transcends party lines. It became a national expression of liberal thought. It means, I am sure, that the masses of the people of this nation firmly believe that there is great and actual possibility in an orderly recovery, through a well-conceived and actively directed plan of action.

CITES CONFIDENCE

"Such a plan has been presented to you and you have expressed approval of it. This, my friends, is most reassuring to me. It shows that there is in the nation unbounded confidence in the future of sound agriculture and honorable industry. This clear mandate shall not be forgotten. I pledge you this and I invite your help, the help of all of you, in the happy task of restoration."

President-elect Roosevelt this afternoon setn the following telegram to President Hoover:

"The President,
Palo Alto, Cal.

"I appreciate your generous telegram for the immediate as well as for the more distant future. I join in your gracious expression of a common purpose in helpful effort for our country."

"Signed,
Franklin D. Roosevelt."

WIRE TO GARNER

"Honorable John N. Garner,
"Uvalde, Tex.

"I rejoice with you in the opportunity for public service afforded by this great victory of

Ford's Home Town Goes to Roosevelt

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Returns from Dearborn, home of Henry Ford and many of his employes, gave Gov. Roosevelt a 7 to 5 lead over President Hoover.

Ford, in a radio address, urged the re-election of President Hoover and the Ford Motor Company, in a circular to employes, advocated the President's re-election, although disclaiming any attempt to "control any man's vote."

UPSETS IN YESTERDAY'S VOTING

Notable upsets in yesterday's election included:

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, was defeated by former Gov. Fred H. Brown (Dem.).

In Idaho Senator John Thomas (Rep.), trailed James P. Pope (Dem.).

America's New Leader

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT . . . AMERICA'S PRESIDENT-ELECT

Will Retire to Private Life, Hoover Says

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—President Hoover, as final returns from the election came into his home today, told newspapermen that he would return to private life after next March 4.

Arising late today after what he termed his longest night's sleep in years, the Chief Executive was smiling when he received correspondents in the living room of his home.

He said he hoped to remain here until next Saturday and then return to the national capital by way of the southern route across the continent. This vacation, however, he added, will depend upon the course of events in Washington.

The President said he had received from President-elect Roosevelt an acknowledgment of his telegram of last night, conceding defeat in the election and promising to dedicate himself "to every helpful effort.

Literally thousands of telegrams have poured into his home, he said, most of them hopeful in tenor and expressing a determination in favor of four years of constructive work.

The Chief Executive said he had not determined finally what he would do after leaving the White House next March 4, but added that in any event he would leave Washington and probably would return to California.

In congratulating the New York Governor on his landslide victory, President Hoover wired:

"In the common purpose of all of us, I shall dedicate myself to every possible helpful effort.

"I congratulate you on the opportunity that has come to you to be of service to the country and I wish for you a most successful administration."

La Guardia Beaten In Congress Race

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Representative La Guardia (Rep.) who has represented the Twentieth Congressional district since 1923, was defeated for re-election yesterday by James J. Lanzetta, Democratic lawyer, on the basis of complete unofficial returns for the district.

Sunday Movies Win In St. Clairsville

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 9.—By a vote of 603 to 590, St. Clairsville today approved Sunday movies. A year ago Sunday movies were beaten by one vote.

DEMOCRAT SWEEPS 42 STATES; REPUBLICANS LOSE CONGRESS

A swift glance at the election surprises:

Roosevelt, in winning the presidency, swept 42 states. He will poll 472 electoral votes to Hoover's 59, a record majority. Latest tabulations by the Associated Press give Roosevelt's popular vote as 15,882,109, with 11,515,098 for Hoover, a Roosevelt plurality, on the incomplete returns, of 4,367,011.

Roosevelt carried the city and Allegheny County.

Congressmen Erk, Estep and Campbell were trailing Democratic opponents.

Senator Davis won, but his margin was greatly reduced, and he lost even his home district in Carrick.

The Democrats captured decisive control of the House and Senate. Six "Old Guard" Republican Senators were beaten.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic party have been given a mandate in the conduct of national affairs for the next four years such as has been given but rarely, if ever, in the political history of the nation.

Belated returns today only served to emphasize the magnitude of the Democratic sweep in yesterday's election—a sweep that put Gov. Roosevelt in the White House by a record-smashing popular and electoral vote, that made President Hoover the worst-beaten candidate in history in a two-party contest, that gave the Democrats a greater degree of control of Congress than any party has ever had, and installed Democrats in most of the state governments.

Gov. Roosevelt's electoral vote reached the amazing total of 472, or 106 more than necessary for election, and exceeding by 28 the high-time figure of 444 rolled up by President Hoover in 1928. The experts were convinced at that time that 444 never would be surpassed.

President Hoover carried six states and a total of 59 electoral votes, or 28 less than Smith four years ago.

In the campaign that preceded the election, Gov. Roosevelt preached the gospel of "the new deal."

There will be a new real in earnest in Washington after March 4, for in the Republican debacle there disappear from the national stage some of the most dominant political personalities of this generation.

DRYS ROUT COMPLETE

The famed Old Guardsmen of a dozen congresses and national conventions yielded to the "new deal"—Senator "Jim" Watson, of Indiana; Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah; the witty George Moss, of New Hampshire, and Senator Wesley Jones, of "five and ten law" fame. The list is long and filled with names that have flecked the front pages of newspapers for decades.

The route of the drys on the prohibition issue was complete.

Not only did the Democrats—committed in platform and promise to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and modification of the Volstead Act—win clear and undisputed control of both branches of Congress by history-making figures, but all of the States that voted on the repeal of their own enforcement laws, decided to do so.

Given a mandate and the control of Congress necessary to carry it out, it means the death knell of prohibition. At least the death knell of prohibition "as is."

What system of liquor control is to take its place remains to be

CONGRESS RULE TO DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The largest Democratic Congress in all the history of the republic was elected Tuesday on the crest of Franklin D. Roosevelt's precedent-shatering victory.

The Democrats will have overwhelming majorities in both the House and Senate of the Seventy-third Congress.

In the House, they will have the greatest majority of their party's history—one that may even exceed the record-smashing majority won by the Republicans in the Harding landslide of 1920.

At the same time, candidates pledged to speedy legalization of beer and resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment won a smashing victory.

RESULTS KNOWN EARLY

The wet avalanche so closely followed the Democratic sweep that the result was a foregone conclusion long before the issue had been settled in all senatorial and congressional elections.

So overwhelming was the vic-

Slemp Loses Bet, Must Deliver Coal

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—C. Bascom Slemp, former Congressman and secretary to Calvin Coolidge when the latter was President, must pay an election bet by transporting a ton of coal from Scranton, Pa., to Washington in five hours.

Slemp met on Hoover with John F. Costello, a stipulation being that the coal must be delivered from the mine to the capital in five hours. The coal will be taken by truck to Philadelphia and from there to Washington by air.

Three Republican Congressmen in Allegheny County apparently have been swept to defeat in the Democratic landslide in Allegheny County.

In the Thirtieth District, on the face of incomplete but unofficial returns, Twing Brooks (Dem.), defeated Edmund F. Erk (Rep.), by approximately 1,000 votes.

In the Thirty-third district, Congressman Harry A. Estep, Republican, was defeated by Henry Ellenbogen, Democrat, by 5,000, and by a like majority Matthew A. Dunn, Democrat, defeated Congressman Guy E. Campbell in the Thirty-fourth District.

In each case the sitting Congressmen were victims of the wave of straight-ticket voting which flowed through the county, voters in their anxiety to lodge a protest against the Hoover administration, and to make it effective, putting only one mark on the ballot.

ERK DEFEAT UPSET

The defeat of Erk was the real surprise of the congressional contests. It had been recognized that Dunn and Ellenbogen, defeated in the primary for Republican nominations, but winning places on the Democratic ticket, were formidable contenders against their Republican opponents, but in advance election forecasts Brooks, a newcomer to politics, was conceded little chance against Erk.

In the Thirty-second District Councilman M. J. Muldowney, Republican, apparently has defeated Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democrat, and Congressman Clyde Kelly, in the Thirty-first District, with both Republican and Democratic nominations, was an easy winner over Leo Guthrie, Repeal candidate.

Democrats in State Win 10 Congress Seats

Some of the most familiar faces in the Pennsylvania delegation to the National House of Representatives will be missing as a result of a partial swing in the state to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Democracy.

Out of a total of 343 seats, the Democrats appeared to have captured 10, with four others going to candidates who were on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. This gave the Republicans 20 clear victories.

There are only three Pennsylvania Democrats in the present House of Representatives.

TEMPLE BEATEN

Gone will be the dean of the Pennsylvania delegation, Representative Henry W. Temple, of Washington, a dry, who was swept to defeat by Charles I. Faddis, of Waynesburg, running on the wet Democratic platform.

Congressman A. M. Wyant, of Greensburg, was defeated by William M. Berlin, Democratic-Jobless candidate.

Samuel A. Kendall, of Meyersdale, the Republican incumbent, lost in Fayette and Somerset Counties to J. Buell Snyder, Democrat.

Milton W. Shreve (Rep.), veteran Congressman from the Twenty-ninth District, fell by the wayside in yesterday's election. Unofficial returns indicated that Charles N. Crosby (Dem.), Meadville, beat Shreve by about 1,500.

McFADDEN VICTOR

One of the most complete victories was registered by Louis T. McFadden, incumbent, running on the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition tickets in the home congressional district of Gov. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot.

Congressmen elected in Pennsylvania were:

First—*Harry C. Ransley (Rep.-Dem.).
Second—*James M. Beck (Rep.-Roosevelt Progressive).
Third—*Alfred M. Waldron (Rep.-Roosevelt Progressive).
Fourth—George W. Edmonds (Rep.).
Fifth—*James J. Connolly (Rep.-Roosevelt Progressive).
Sixth—*Edward Lowber Stokes (Rep.).
Sixth—Robert L. Davis (Rep.), short term.
Seventh—*George P. Darrow (Rep.).
Eighth—*James Wolfenden (Rep.-Liberal).

tory of Democratic candidates who adhered to the national platform that it is probable that 2.75 per cent beer will be made legal by the "lame duck" session of Congress which convenes on December 5.

RECORD IN SENATE

In the Senate, Democrats won the largest plurality in their party's existence, and their majority will be either 22 or 24 after next March 4. If 22, they will tie the majority they held away back in 1855. If it is 24, it will be greater power than the Democratic party ever before held in the Senate.

The returns indicated a House lineup of:

299 Democrats.
106 Republicans.
2 Farmer-Laborites.
28 contests doubtful.

The Senate returns indicated:

59 Democrats.
36 Republicans.
1 Farmer-Laborite.

The Democratic majority in the new House may range anywhere from 163 to even 200.

ELECT 28 SENATORS

The Democrats elected 28 out of 34 Senators in yesterday's contests, with two decisions still doubtful. They swept through the House elections like a runaway train going downhill. They gained 11 seats in old Republican California, picked up six more in Illinois, seven more in Pennsylvania, nine more in Ohio, six more in upstate New York and three in Indiana to sweep the Hoosier state clean.

The new House chosen in Tuesday's election apparently will vote to submit straight repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the states, but it appeared doubtful whether the Senate would do so without some specific prohibition against return of the saloon.

FAVOR BEER

Based upon the election and the present attitude of members, the Senate will have at least 57 members out of 96 ready to vote to legalize 2.75 per cent beer.

The election will bring 27 new wets and five drys to the Senate, with two senatorial contests still in doubt.

At least 67 Senators will vote to submit modification of the Eighteenth Amendment, while 54 would vote for straight repeal. Some changes are expected.

The standing of the House of Representatives early today was:

For straight repeal, 269; for submission of a modified amendment, 18; "bone dry," 37, with 110 contests either unreported or the attitude of the successful candidates in doubt.

While many observers claim that the anti-prohibition victory was merely a part of the Democratic landslide, the wets scored notable victories in the most important wet and dry battlegrounds of the election.

Democratic Sweep Surprises Curtis

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Vice President Charles Curtis was bewildered by the overwhelming Democratic landslide, he admitted today as he passed through Chicago en route to Washington. He said:

COMFORTABLE NIGHT

Roosevelt spent a comfortable night and arose at 9 o'clock, declaring himself to be greatly refreshed and ready for whatever the new day might bring forth. He ate breakfast with evident relish and seemed more concerned with the health and spirits of those about him than about himself, although it was admitted that the strain of the campaign had been great.

The President-elect, a tired but happy man—a man who suddenly seemed to realize the heavy responsibility which the American electorate had imposed upon him—went to bed shortly before 3 o'clock this morning without making any formal statement on his smashing victory.

RECEIVES RETURNS

Mr. Roosevelt had spent the night in a private room at Democratic national headquarters in the Biltmore Hotel receiving the election returns and personal congratulations from a host of friends and notables, such as "Al" Smith, Owen D. Young, John W. Davis, John J. Raskob, John F. Curry, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey.

As he left the Biltmore at 1:45 o'clock this morning on the arm of his son, James Roosevelt, and surrounded by a heavy police guard, ringing applause broke loose and re-echoed through the corridors of the hotel. For, throughout the night, some 2,000 men and women, in evening attire, had taken part in a great "victory celebration" and nearly all of them remained to bid Mr. Roosevelt a rousing good-bye.

The Democratic candidate, on the strength of these incomplete unofficial figures, had carried 27 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties, including the ordinarily impregnable Republican stronghold of Allegheny. This county, of which industrial Pittsburgh is the center, rolled up a total of 186,442 votes for Gov. Roosevelt to 150,188 for Mr. Hoover in 924 districts.

While Roosevelt was making making these unprecedented inroads on the Republican forces, Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, was giving Senator James J. Davis a similar battle, trailing him by 168,000 votes with returns complete from 6,890 districts.

Rupp's vote of 1,043,339 was only a little more than 20,000 under the total received by Gov. Smith four years ago. At that time Smith carried three counties.

G. O. P. OFFICE HERE DESERTED

If it had not have been for William S. Vare, Pennsylvania, stronghold of Republicanism, would have gone for Roosevelt.

The Allegheny County organization fell right down on its face. Headquarters in the William Penn Hotel was as deserted at midnight as a country schoolhouse in harvest time.

With a battery of telephones and clerks falling over each other at 8 o'clock, when the returns started, it had some of the old-time earmarks of a Republican headquarters. At midnight, except for a few hangers-on, Republican County Chairman William H. Coleman was alone. He occasionally answered a telephone bringing in more bad news.

Shortly after midnight, asked for a statement, Coleman said:

"Well, there isn't much to say, except that it's a Roosevelt landslide, and our county has evidently gone the way of the rest of the country."

Mayor Charles H. Kline was in for a few minutes early in the night. State Senator James J. Coyne also dropped in but did not stay long. He had his own battle to look after.

PINCHOT SCORES G. O. P. LEADERS

MILFORD, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's independent Republican Governor, last night broke his silence of months to assert that "Republican national leaders asked for defeat, and they got it."

The election returns the Governor interpreted as a "mandate to the Republican party to discard its false gods, reorganize its lines and return to the principles of Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt."

His statement said:

"The Republican national leaders asked for defeat, and they got it. They were warned that Hoover's renomination meant disaster, but Wall street and the power interests insisted—and the leaders listened to their masters' voice.

"They are reaping exactly what they sowed.

"This overturn is the revolt of the Republican rank and file against blind and selfish leadership which betrayed the people to serve concentrated wealth."

New Mexico Favors Roosevelt by 13,000

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—New Mexico voters, some of them casting ballots under the eyes of National Guardsmen, have heeded the pleas of Senator Bronson Cutting, Republican, for support of Gov. Roosevelt and swept the state's Democratic candidates into office to boot.

Gov. Seligman, Democrat, who ordered the troops into several counties, was re-elected.

The state gave Roosevelt 22,838 and Hoover 13,400. Senator Cutting made two speeches in behalf of Roosevelt. He was not up for re-election.

Roosevelt Guarded By Secret Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Secret service operatives were on duty today guarding President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service, said. Moran said that secret service men had been assigned to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, and were ordered to permanent duty last night when it became evident that he would be victorious over President Hoover.

Moran would not divulge the number or the identity of the men assigned to the victorious Democratic candidate.

determined. The fighting on that will be long and bitter.

ALL WEST DEMOCRATIC

Not a state west of the Alleghany Mountains is to be found in the Hoover column. Mr. Hoover even lost his own state of Iowa by an overwhelming plurality, as well as his adopted state of California.

The Republican debacle encompassed the defeat of scores of Republican senatorial and congressional candidates, and assured that the new Congress will be Democratic in both branches. And not by any narrow margins.

It was a Democratic sweep of unprecedented and unpredictable proportions. Apprensive as they were, the Republicans did not anticipate anything as bad as what happened to them. Nor, in fact, did the Democrats dare hope for it.

1—The depression, which directly or indirectly, has affected every home in America.

2—The ruinous prices of such great basic commodities as wheat, corn and livestock in the West.

3—Prohibition. While not such an acute issue in the West, prohibition was an important factor in the wet states of the eastern seaboard. The Democratic pledge in the platform for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize beer attracted thousands of votes.

As a fourth contributing cause, the Republicans put down "general unrest" born of the hard times, and "general desire for a change."

In any event, Gov. Roosevelt's electoral majority cracks all existing records, and quite probably his popular majority will, too. It was variously estimated today at from 7,500,000 to 10,000,000, as against 6,276,000 for Mr. Hoover in 1928.

Gov. Roosevelt's plurality in New York alone was in excess of 700,000 votes. Two years ago when he carried New York for Governor by 750,000 they acclaimed it as a political miracle which was not likely to be repeated.

The outcome was apparent almost from the time the first New York returns began to be tabulated. Like a snow-ball rolling down hill, the New York trend became country-wide, and state after state fell into line.

On the Far West coast, surrounded by personal friends, President Hoover recognized it so early that it seemed he must have had a premonition of what was in store for him and his party.

CONGRATULATES RIVAL

While Gov. Roosevelt was still scanning the returns in Democratic headquarters in New York, Mr. Hoover bowed to fate and sent a telegram of congratulation to his successful rival. He congratulated the President-elect upon the opportunity for service to the country which has been accorded him and expressed a desire to be helpful.

Because the returns from the West and Far West were still incomplete, Gov. Roosevelt went to bed at 2 a. m. without replying to the President's message. The reply will be dispatched some time today.

The pluralities by which the Democratic ticket carried normally Republican states were little less than astounding.

Many of them went nationally Democratic for the first time in their history. In that group, for example, was Idaho, the home of Senator William E. Borah, who stayed off the stump for Hoover. Borah campaigned the state vigorously for his Republican colleague, Senator John Thomas, who was soundly defeated.

G. O. P. "BLUE BOOK"

The roster of Republican states carried by the Democratic candidates reads like a G. O. P. blue-book — Iowa, Kansas, California, Oregon, Utah, Idaho, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia, New Jersey, Colorado, Wyoming, the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nevada. All were for Hoover four years ago. All were for Roosevelt today.

It is the first time since Franklin Pierce's selection in 1852 that a successful Democratic candidate for the presidency has captured a majority of the popular vote. Tilden did in 1876, but lost out in the electoral college.

Dramatic Courses Open To Hoover in Defeat

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Dramatic courses are open to Herbert Hoover in his remaining time as President, but he alone can say whether any will be taken.

Actual precedent is against startling action. Few departed Presidents have done anything but get along as best they could with Congress until March 4 brought freedom from office. Occasionally, as in the case of President Taft, they arranged to keep the incoming President informed and familiar with critical developments on which action might be required immediately uopn assuming office.

But history records two proposals, both mentioned in the final days of this campaign, which are free to President Hoover's hand if he wishes to employ them.

Woodrow Wilson, say biographers, thinking defeat possible in 1916, resolved to turn over the presidential office immediately after election day. It can be done simply enough.

Abraham Lincoln, during the closing months of his first term, feared defeat, and he proposed to call in his successor for co-operation during the final months.

But both won, and the extraordinary plans came to nought.

Factors which revived the classic Wilson and Lincoln traditions, now were found in the problems of the day and to some extent the attitude of the candidates. President Hoover for months past likened today's situation to war. Again and again in his final campaign speeches he spoke of the last months of this term, in event of his defeat, as time virtually thrown away.

Once, by Lincoln's Shrine in Springfield, Ill., he spoke of that statesman's plan. But he said no word of his own intentions.

'Defeated,' Goodnough Freed for P. S. C. Job

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—C. Jay Goodnough, Emporium, speaker of the state House of Representatives, was happy today in defeat.

Friends and political opponents combined to achieve his defeat for the Cameron County legislative seat he has held since 1914.

As a result, he will be able to accept, on December 1, his appointment to the Public Service Commission.

In the unique battle to snatch defeat from certain victory, a late-starting Democrat won the legislative berth. The final unofficial vote was:

John Schwab (Dem.), 1,129; Dr. L. L. Lathrop (Rep.), 893, and Goodnough, 117.

Goodnough, twice speaker of the House, was the only candidate whose name was printed on the ballot. Lathrop was indorsed by Goodnough and the county Republican organization and an intensive sticker campaign was launched to elect him. Schwab entered the fight later.

Goodnough's complete triumph at the April primary had threatened to jeopardize his appointment to the commission. The law prohibits a Legislator from accepting such appointments during his term in the General Assembly and Goodnough held the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition nominations

Roosevelt's Qualities of Leadership Praised By Former Navy Secretary

Daniels Predicts New President Will be Fighter

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
War Time Secretary of the Navy.
Written Expressly for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"There's a new face at the door, my friend," will be said in Washington on the Fourth of next March when Franklin D. Roosevelt, newly elected President, walks into the White House to hang up his hat (he will have to buy, borrow or steal a new one, insomuch as his campaign hat was worn out on his long trips) for four or eight years, probably the latter. There will be an encore.

The White House will not be a strange place to him. His first glimpse of that historic building was when at the age of 5 he paid a visit to what will soon be his home. His father, James Roosevelt, and his mother took the boy with them when they called to visit Mr. Roosevelt's close friend, President Cleveland.

Franklin was wearing a sailor suit, giving promise of his future career in the Navy Department. It must have been a day when there was trouble ahead or when he "had Congress on my hands" or he was tired of the responsibilities that sat heavily upon the President.

Mr. Cleveland put his hand on the boy's blond head and said:

"I'm making a strange wish for you—a wish no one else would be likely to make . . . I hope you'll never be President of the United States."

Had Other Plans

Later his mother said:

"That was quite the last thing Franklin's father or I should have thought of then.

"Right at that time Franklin's chief ambition was to go to sea when he grew up. Admiral Nelson was his hero. Instead of the usual little boy's desire to be a street car conductor, our son wanted to be a captain of a big ship and sail the sea."

When he became Assistant Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson administration his youthful ambition was gratified when, as representative of the Navy in Europe during the World War, he was for the time being officially in command of not merely one "big ship," but a division of dreadnaughts and 400 other ships of the American Navy operating in European waters, and 30,000 Marines and 200,000 officers and men of the naval force and 44 aviation stations and units overseas, located all the way from Ireland to Italy.

The 5-year-old boy, when Grover Cleveland warned him against wishing the job he will soon administer, was thinking more about sailing ships than official honors, but not since he reached manhood has he desired Grover Cleveland's wish to come true. Quite the contrary. Maybe he will later on, but that is in the lap of the gods. The chances are that having reached his highest ambition, he will have a "corking good time." He has resources in play and comradeship which did not relieve the pressure for Mr. Cleveland.

Frequent Caller

He visited the White House when his fifth cousin, Theodore, was President. He was often there when he was a member of the Wilson administration. He has been a guest there under every President from the day his father took him to see the other New York Governor who patted him on his head.

When Franklin Roosevelt was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and I was Secretary we posed together one day, at the request of a photographer, for a picture on the portico of the War, State and Navy Building. It overlooked the executive offices adjoining the White House.

The picture shows the Secretary serious of countenance, while the Assistant Secretary has a broad smile from ear to ear. Later, when they were examining the picture together the senior said to the junior:

"I am looking serious, Franklin, because I know I can never reach the White House. It is not for any Southerner of my generation. You are grinning because you think you can and expect to move over some fine day."

The voters yesterday decreed his dream (he had it then but did not avow it) should come true. His proud mother and wife and family (the Roosevelts believe in big families) will soon be at home in the big house from which will irradiate cheer and hospitality.

The country has been pecu-

Dolly Loses Hard Won Place to Mrs. Garner

Mrs. Gann's Social Status Decided By Voters

(ASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—AP.) th this election with more men running than ever before and more women voting than ever before, the ballots flying thick and fast decided one momentous feminine question not offered for the voter's X—the future social status of Mrs. Dolly Gann.

Her own very strenuous campaigning over, Mrs. Gann returned to the Capital to await the verdict.

Upon the re-election of President Hoover and her brother, Charles Curtis, as vice president, depended the social precedence which her brother obtained for her by State Department decree and which she has enjoyed during this administration as Curtis' "official hostess."

The election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner meant the vice-presidential place of honor would go to quiet, society-shunning Ettie Garner, who would rather write her husband's letters than go to the most glittering function on the calendar.

No one of the hundred women stumping to get themselves elected has worked any harder than Dolly Gann, who was given a share of credit for saving her brother's place on the Republican ticket at the convention in Chicago, and has campaigned unceasingly since.

But no matter which ticket won, the keen edge was forever gone from the "Gann-Longworth" controversy on who should sit highest at dinner, Dolly Gann, the sister to the Vice President or Alice Longworth, which ran through the newspapers as this administration opened.

As late as the Chicago convention last June, the Gann-Longworth affair still was on, with Alice, who wouldn't be interviewed, reported campaigning against Curtis and Dolly openly battling in his behalf.

But whatever rivalry may have wetted the activities of the two, it was all for the Republican cause in the end.

Declaring against the Democratic candidacy of her distant cousin, Franklin Roosevelt, Alice Roosevelt Longworth threw the full weight of her influence in behalf of the ticket that carried social prestige for Dolly Gann.

GARNER YAWNS AT VICTORY

UVALDE, Tex., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—John N. Garner, Vice President-elect of the United States, didn't go fishing today. He was occupied with a deluge of telegrams pouring in on him. He did not attempt to answer all of them, but had a good time reading them.

Garner went to bed at 10 minutes before 9 o'clock last night. He listened to radio returns until his usual bedtime, then excused himself from a large group of friends.

During the night his son, Tully, awoke him and said:

"Father, Mr. Hoover concedes the election to Mr. Roosevelt and you."

Garner replied, yawning:

"That's what I'd been waiting to hear."

Residents of Uvalde were rather dazed. They hardly knew what to do with a Vice President.

Long after Garner had gone to bed, they paraded around his home. But he was asleep. He did not know that they demonstrated. It was too late for him.

But Mr. Garner was in his pecan grove when the sun came up. He always is an early riser.

Michigan Beating Dry Law by 2-1 Vote

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The proposal to repeal the state prohibition law and substitute a liquor-control board system, appeared to have carried. Returns were fragmentary, but they were from the normally dry rural districts and they showed a lead of more than 2 to 1 for repeal.

Vare Loses His Own Ward in Bitter Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9. —(INS.)—Despite the plurality piled up for President Hoover, so bitter was the battle in Philadelphia that William S. Vare, Republican boss, lost his own ward, the Twenty-sixth, by approximately 2,800 votes, unofficial returns indicated.

The Twenty-sixth is known as one of the regular wards and is located in South Philadelphia. Many of the residents are Italians.

Man Who Preached To Coolidge Dies

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Rev. John Taylor, 72, blind Presbyterian minister whose services at Bdule, Wis., in the summer of 1928, were attended by former President Coolidge, died at a Duluth hospital last night after a lengthy illness.

'FIRST MOTHER' TELLS HOPES

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Some one told Mrs. James Roosevelt, the 78-year-old mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt, last night that she was the first woman since Mary Washington to see her son elected President of the United States. Her rejoinder was:

"You know Franklin is only 50. He looks older tonight, but that's because he's tired."

After it became apparent that her son had been elected, Mrs. Roosevelt bade him good night. She said:

"I never thought particularly about my son being President, but if he's going to be President, I hope he'll be a great one."

No Ballot Cast By Bishop Cannon

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Times Dispatch says that Bishop James Canon, Jr., who led a victorious fight for President Hoover in Virginia and other southern states in 1928, did not vote in yesterday's election.

He did not appear in person at his precinct in Blackstone, Va., the paper says, and did not cast an absentee ballot.

Will in Eight Words Disposes of $1,200

An eight-word will on a bit of paper made by M. D. Pfeil, 82 South Twenty-fourth street, was filed for probate today. It read:

"I will everything I own to my father."

Husband's Victory Doesn't Keep Her From Working

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9o—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt opened a course in graduate civics today at the Junior League clubhouse, just as if she had not been made first lady of the land elect.

Standing before a group of 100 smartly-gowned young women who had come to learn about the duties of citizenship, Mrs. Roosevelt exhorted them to exercise their power and assume responsibility in the government of the country.

Addressing the class, she said:

"Government is a human thing. Government has to take into consideration the many different kinds of lives that are led in this country. Most of us accept government as something aside from what touches our daily lives, but none of us is untouched by government."

Earlier today she had made these statements:

"I am glad Franklin has been elected because he wanted to be," she explained, a dignified and entirely human figure in a dull blue dinner gown, which was not purchased officially for the occasion. She added:

"You are always pleased to have anyone to whom you are devoted have what they want, but an election at a time like this is a responsibility and an extremely serious thing to undertake.

"I never thought much about it until now. If it was going to be, I felt, it would be. I neither doubted nor hoped. It would make no difference. Life is always full, you know."

GOV. ROOSEVELT PRAISED BY DANIELS

liarly fortunate in the wives of its presidents, and the transition from Mrs. Hoover to Mrs. Roosevelt will be for one lady of grace to be succeeded by another.

"There is nothing I love as much as a good fight."

These words, uttered by Roosevelt when, at the age of 28, he was elected in 1910 to the State Senate in New York, illustrate the spirit of the man. It marked him as a boy in prep school, at Harvard, and was in evidence when he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy and as Governor of New York.

He was readier to fight at the drop of a hat when he was younger, for experience has taught him that important victories can be won without fighting, PROVIDED always that behind the velvet glove there is knowledge that cold steel is ready to be brought out when needed. He has never adopted the motto of T. R., his fifth cousin—or, is it fourth?—"Speak softly and carry a big stick." He has an innate charm of manner surpassing all other Roosevelts, which makes it unnecessary to admonish him to "speak softly."

Virile Qualities

Naturally, he speaks with a courtesy and a winning way (if "winsome" were not a word for the gentler sex, it would be descriptive) that immediately creates an atmosphere of friendliness. Indeed, he is so cordial and approachable that upon first acquaintance the impression conveyed may be that one so amiable lacks the virile qualities which lie behind a disposition that irradiates companionship. When as a young man, friendly and enthusiastic, Roosevelt entered the New York State Senate, there were "old stagers" who had no conception that behind his joyous personality there lay the stuff of which fighting men are made. He soon undeceived them. He showed that a man could smile and smile, and, behind the pleasantest countenance, fight and fight till victory for the causes and principles he carried nearest to his heart was assured.

Run over in your mind the list of presidents who have carried through great programs. They have generally been the soul of courtesy, but back of that courtesy was the heroic stuff to do and dare for something that was the very marrow of the incumbent of the White House.

Great Presidents

If Franklin Roosevelt had any Presidential heroes they are this sextet — Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Wilson. The first was conspicuous for his freedom from overstatement or slopping over. He combined wisdom with determination and poise.

Jefferson's philosophy and tact seemed inconsistent with his fixed and irrevocable purpose to change the Republic from the Federalistic to the Democratic tack.

Old Hickory's "by the eternal" tells the story of the most successful and masterful political Chief Executive who has sat in the White House.

Lincoln's "malice toward none; with charity for all," was not inconsistent with waging a great war to prevent the division of the Union.

Theodore Roosevelt's strenuosity for "my policies" and notably war against "the malefactors of great wealth" placed him high on the roll.

Wilson's scholarship and apparent absorption in letters were not inconsistent with the qualities of the forthright "fighting man for his principles and a commander-in-chief in a war in which he stood for, to quote his own words:

"Force! Force to the utmost! Force without stint or limit! The righteous and triumphant Force which makes light and law of the world, and casts every selfish dominion down in the dust."

His Philosophy

When Wilson used these fighting words, Franklin Roosevelt was his Assistant Secretary of the Navy and was in spirit and effort in complete accord with fighting to make "Right the law of the world." That doctrine, with Old Hickory's famous "I take the responsibility" and Jefferson's demand for "a wise and frugal government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another," and "which shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned," comprehend the political action of Franklin Roosevelt.

If you would look to find the philosophy of government which is of the very warp and woof of Gov. Roosevelt it would be revealed in the lives of these great presidents and in his own declarations of principles enunciated from coast to coast in the campaign which ended on Tuesday. He regards a campaign pledge as "a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the party when entrusted with power."

Pledges Tell Story

Read his pledges and you can foretell what is going to come to pass at Washington in the next four years. However, though he loves nothing as much as a good fight," experience has taught him that conference and discussion by men who have the same goal, and mutual adjustments, win more victories than conflict. As Governor of New York he has won most of his victories for humane and just laws by round table discussions and agreements. All the time it has been known that if these fair delightful ways did not bring to pass the principle and policy at issue, he was ready to "go to the people," ready to risk all for the cause nearest his heart. Washington will learn this if it does not already know it.

The next installment of Josephus Daniels' story of Franklin D. Roosevelt will appear in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

Fifth Ward Leader's Trial Postponed

The trial of David Roberts, Fifth Ward political leader, and former assistant custodian of county property, charged with tax receipt frauds prior to the September primaries last year, was postponed until next Monday in Criminal Court today. The Commonwealth asked for the delay.

STATE TICKET OF G. O. P. WINS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Charles A. Waters, of Philadelphia, present Auditor General, won a sweeping victory for State Treasurer over L. B. Shannon, of Brookville, Democrat, and Senator Frank E. Baldwin, of Austin, was elected Auditor General over Wilson G. Sarig, of Temple, Berks County.

Judge William B. Linn, of the Supreme Court, was re-elected over Edward C. Higbee, of Connellsville, Democrat, and the three Republican candidates for Superior Court—Judge William M. Parker, of Oil City; Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Pittsburgh, and Arthur H. James, of Plymouth, were easy victors.

and mother of that family. They know best how to spend it.

BARONESS ISHIMOTO, in America to investigate birth control methods, thinks Japan's problem of surplus population may be solved by birth control.

She will be disappointed. The mothers in Japan will continue producing surplus babies, more than the little islands can hold, just as the mothers in Germany have long been producing eight hundred thousand new German population each year, a fair-sized nation every little while.

THERE OUGHT not to be any "surplus population problem" yet, for the earth is not really populated, although certain districts are congested. All human beings on this earth could stand at the same time on Staten Island, in New York Harbor.

The state of Texas, intensively cultivated, could feed them all, and have food left over for export to the planet Mars. Van Loon reminds you, in his excellent new "geography" that the total population "2,000,000,000 if they averaged 6 feet high, 18 inches wide, 12 inches through, could be put inside of a box half a mile wide, half a mile long, half a mile high, and tucked away in a corner of Grand Canyon."

Ambitious Japan will continue producing more ambitious Japanese, and find room for them somewhere. Just at present, Manchuria is the place. There is much unused space in Asia. Tens of millions of acres, now worthless, can be made fertile by irrigation and fertilization.

MANAGERS OF the United States Secret Service, looking ahead, are preparing for a double duty, the protection of the President in office and of another President expected to take office next March, and entitled to Secret Service protection in the meanwhile.

CHARGE ERRORS IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Numerous complaints of errors in registrations were received at the Elections Board here as estimates put the voting in Cuyahoga County at more than 380,000.

Although the balloting was run off free of the usual election day fights, the complaints concerning the mistakes in recording the registrations became so heavy at a late hour that an order was sent out from the Elections Board to permit every one to vote whose name was on the printed poll lists.

Frequent discoveries of errors were made during the day, but the situation was not regarded as serious until a late hour when scores of persons swarmed into the Elections Board office demanding their rights to vote.

Forty-two special inspectors were dispatched to each of the 1,120 polling places in the county to instruct booth officials of the order to permit all persons to vote if their names were on the lists, even though errors had been discovered.

10 DEMOCRATS LEAD HERE FOR LEGISLATURE

Ten Democratic candidates for the Legislature from Allegheny County may have been elected in yesterday's election, the success of the minority party being scattered through city and suburban districts.

Until yesterday Allegheny County had a solid representation of 27 Republicans in the lower branch of the General Assembly.

A break in Republican solidarity appears to have occurred in the Seventh District, North Side, where John L. Powers and Clair E. McGinniss, on the face of incomplete returns, lead Representatives James P. Rooney and James Wettach. McGinniss was high man, with Rooney in third place, slightly ahead of Wettach.

STADTLANDER TRAILS

In the Eighth District, Representative William F. Stadtlander is trailing both John O'Keefe and Walter R. Seymour. Former Magistrate Edward M. Hough is high man in the district on the basis of incomplete returns, and may be the lone Republican member from the North Side in the next legislative session.

In the Sixth District John Kane, Democrat, seems to have edged out Dr. W. L. Renne for one of the three legislative places, the other two going to Republicans.

In the Tenth District all four Republicans, Representatives James H. McClure, Frank J. Riddle, James H. Steel and William J. McBride, are in danger, their Democratic opponents, George V. Beech, William L. Callahan, James L. Quinn and George F. Craddock, making a strong race. Riddle was the low Republican in this district, with Quinn the high Democrat.

STEEDLE IN DANGER

In the Twelfth District, Representative Joseph G. Steedle, mentioned as a probable candidate for Speaker of the House, was leading the Republican candidates, but was in danger, along with James J. Westwood and Robert K. Boyer, his Republican running mates. John O'Rourke had both Democratic and Republican nominations and was elected.

In the Thirteenth District, Francis X. McCulloch and Herbert E. Williams, the Democratic candidates, were making a strong race against their Republican opponents, Brown and Walker, but were trailing on incomplete returns.

State Democrats Gain 14 Seats in Assembly

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Democrats gained 14 seats in the State House of Representatives among the first 120 members whose election was reported today.

The party representation for 120 of the 208 seats was:

Republicans 82, Democrats 36, Socialists 2.

The districts reported included 41 seats in Philadelphia, where Democrats gained seven, but included only five in Allegheny where straight ticket votes gave Democrats three of the first five reported.

The present membership is 184 Republicans, 22 Democrats and 2 Socialists.

TEXAS ELECTS 'MA' FERGUSON

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The lone star flag of Texas was lifted high today in the national parade behind Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner.

A mountain of ballots registered overwhelming indorsement of the New York Governor and "Cactus Jack," a native son who has represented the state in national councils for 30 years.

As the climax of a bitter campaign Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, who six years ago was sent into temporary retirement when she sought a second term as chief executive, was returned to the governorship.

With more than one-third of the returns tabulated, Mrs. Ferguson held a majority over her Republican opponent, Orville Bullington, lawyer and capitalist, that officials of the Texas Election Bureau said would not be overcome.

On the face of returns from 134 counties, one complete, Roosevelt led by 219,495 votes, Mrs. Ferguson had 183,104 to 119,560 for Bullington.

Eighteen Democratic district congressmen, including Speaker Garner, were elected, as were three congressmen-at-large, Sterling P. Strong, of Dallas; Joseph Weldon Bailey, of Dallas, and George B. Terrell, of Alto.

Dead Man Elected To State Assembly

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 9.—Yesterday's election in the Lancaster Second Legislative District created rather than filled a vacancy.

Included among the three Republican Assemblymen elected was the late Representative Thomas J. Brown, of Mt. Joy, who died last week.

A special election will be held to select Brown's successor.

Republican leaders chose to campaign for Brown's election rather than take the second legal alternative of a sticker campaign for another party candidate.

12 DIE, 103 HURT IN HURRICANE

HAVANA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Twelve persons were killed, 103 injured and a number of houses were destroyed today as a heavy storm struck Camajuani in the Province of Santa Clara.

National police in Camajuani reported they were providing first aid, but had been unable to make an official estimate of the dead.

In Jatibonico, Province of Camaguey, smokestacks were toppled, electric power plants damaged and communications hampered.

From the coastline the storm swept into the interior of Camaguey. Barometer readings indicated that the worst of the storm probably would be felt later in the Province of Santa Cruz.

Three steamers were in distress today in seas off southeastern United States, two the victims of a hurricane which struck Cuba today.

They were the British freighter Phemius, leaking badly about 375 miles northeast of Cape Gracias a Dios, Nicaragua; the American freighter San Simeon, south and east of the Phemius, reported out of danger after it called for help; the American steamer Tachira, engines broken, off the Florida coast, rescue ship was standing by.

Cipher Told Old Adage Of Fool and His Money

Cipher No. 7

And this is why we have ciphers!

ASCOA	STRNF	PISUE	OUNEO	AECOR
DCMCI	TNAAI	TOIVS	DENME	IDREA
TTNTS	XINIS	SDX

Today's Puzzler Gives Different Idea, Somewhat New

"A fool and his money are soon parted."

Yes, cipher fans, that was the answer to yesterday's sticker. Did we say sticker? Well, we didn't mean it.

The first edition of yesterday's Sun-Telegraph was hardly on the streets before the fight started between election fans and cipher fans to see who'd buy the first copy of the newspaper.

Spurred by Cipher No. 5, which stumped almost everybody, and by promise of an easier puzzle, the cipher fans swarmed to the newsstands to try again. The first copy of the first edition was hardly sold before cipher fans began telephoning the cipher editor and complaining because the cipher was so easy they had decoded it already and had nothing to do last night but listen to the election returns.

So today Cipher No. 7 will give you a slightly new idea in puzzlers and hold you up a little longer. If you solve it in 10 minutes or less, let the cipher editor know. It's too easy for clues—unless knowing that it's a transposition affair and that letter frequency won't help much, is a clue.

Meanwhile, late returns keep coming in from the Sunset cipher as well as from the foolish one of yesterday. Solvers (with aid of tips) include: Bennett Packer, 742 Cherokee street; George M. Heintsh, Jr., 13, 6915 Yorkshire road; Paul Stoker, 631 Hampton avenue, Wilkinsburg; S. A. Palmer, 1513 Laketon road; A. S. Isaacs, 1605 Denniston avenue; H. S. Shelmire, Oakmont; E. F. Dickey, 86 Brentwood road; Mrs. Harriet Richardson, 2622 Norwood street; Milton G. Lehman, Jr., 5464 Darlington road; Frank Balowitz, Wilmerding; Alma Amdler, 208 Maple Terrace, Mt. Washington; F. A. Beam, 3100 Versailles avenue, McKeesport; E. E. Burns, 648 Center avenue, Avalon; Dr. G. R. Winters, 112 Colhasset street; F. L. Metzger, 557 Dawson avenue, Bellevue; M. S. McEdlew, 73 McNunn avenue, Crafton; Paul H. Schwartz, 408 Eureka street.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Medical World Hopes for Scarlet Fever Prevention

Of all the contagious diseases of childhood, scarlet fever is the one most feared. It is a dreaded ailment because of its possible complications. Parents ask questions regarding it. I have received many requests for information concerning the value of serums and vaccines in the treatment and prevention of scarlet fever.

Dr. Copeland

We are indebted to Doctors Dochez and Dick, whose brilliant work has awakened the hope of a cure and prevention of this disease. These scientists have developed the so-called "scarlet fever anti-toxin."

Though this toxin is not successful in all cases, it appears to be of tremendous value in the majority of instances. It is injected into the vein of the sufferer and aids in preventing complications. Five thousand "units" of the anti-toxin serum are injected into the vein. If injected into the muscles, 10,000 units are necessary. Your doctor will attend to this.

The vaccine is administered to children who are found susceptible to scarlet fever. This is determined by the "Dick test." This test for scarlet fever is similar to the "Shick test," used to determine a child's susceptibility to diphtheria.

If the Dick test causes a skin reaction, it is called "positive." This means that if the child is exposed to scarlet fever, he will contract the disease.

The scarlet fever vaccine is given only to children who show positive reaction to the Dick test. Four or five doses of the vaccine are given at weekly intervals. In the great majority of children receiving these injections, protection is given against scarlet fever and this lasts for at least one year.

Many mothers object to this form of vaccination because they fear their children will suffer pain and discomfort. The discomfort suffered is negligible compared to the danger of scarlet fever. We must not be too soft hearted in such matters.

To prevent discomfort, apply wet dressings of boric acid solution to the arm. No serious reactions have been reported after the use of this vaccine.

Please bear in mind that scarlet fever is a contagious and serious disease. The heart, kidneys and other vital organs of the body may become involved and permanent disabilities result.

Every precaution should be taken to isolate a scarlet fever patient. Great care must be taken to guard the baby and other young members of the household from the germs of scarlet fever and other infectious diseases.

Progress has been made in the treatment and relief of scarlet fever, but unfortunately the number of sufferers is entirely too large. If you live in a community where scarlet fever is prevalent, take advantage of this protection against the disease. Consult with your physician or call at the public health station. You will be given advice and instruction.

Answers to Health Queries

S. E. C. Q.—What should a girl of 19, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 135 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

"—my skin became clear..."

—and you don't know what a happy day that was in my life." Then why not pause a moment and reason in a common-sense way the cause of many skin troubles. Such common ailments often result because of a lowered resistance below the skin surface—frequently due to lowered blood vitality.

Increase the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content and more of the life giving oxygen is carried to every part of the body—even to the skin. "Step up" the ability of the resisting cells to devour infectious pimple germs. Then you will have laid the foundation for a sounder physical condition.

S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. It is time-tested . . . tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of gratitude over several generations evidence its merit. Don't let anyone "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content. Two convenient sizes at all drug stores—the larger size is more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

The Junior League is interested in the right sort of entertainment for children, you've probably realized. For the past five years the Pittsburgh Junior League has presented children's plays and marionette shows.

This year, in addition to the free marionette shows given for the public school children, the League has a new project—educational films.

The pictures are to be produced from a child's point of view. The performance, known as the "Children's Hour," includes five one-reel films having the titles Spiders, Frigs, Seed Dispersal, Beach and Sea Animals and Jack and Jill in Songland.

Movie Nov. 19

But I must tell you where the showing will be—Saturday morning, November 19, at 11 o'clock in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club with everyone invited to attend.

The pictures, produced by the Electrical Research Products, Inc., are designed for children between the ages of 6 and 15.

Such distinguished men as Dr. W. H. Kilpatrick, professor of Education at Teachers' College, Columbia University; Dr. Arnold Gesell, director of the Yale Psycho Clinic, and Dr. Charlotte Buhler, professor of Child Psychology at the University of Vienna, form the advisory board of the Electrical Research Products.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

The Junior James Verner Scaifes—she was Mary Selden, of Minneapolis, a week ago—didn't receive all their wedding presents before the ceremony, a fashionable one.

When they entered their drawingroom on the train bringing them East, they found three occupants as gifts—two chickens and a little pig!

Noted at the Twentieth Century Club, where Clemence Dane, the distinguished English author, opened the lecture series this week:

Miss Dane, or Winifred Ashton if you wish her private-life name, just before she began to lecture, removed her ear rings, the long, dangly kind. When she finished her talk, she put them on again before leaving the stage!

Do you know why Dorothy Blaxter chose American beauty red for her debut gown? The Blaxter family had a rose in their garden this summer the very same shade, and Dorothy liked it so much that she matched it up for her coming-out frock.

Strange as it may seem in a young banker and sportsman, tall, dark and handsome Paul Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, has a genuine love of literature.

And when I say literature, I mean literature. To prove it, he's one of the few who really enjoy Virginia Woolf's stream-of-consciousness novel, "The Waves." Have you read it?

SLEEVES CONTINUE IMPORTANT IN NEWEST EVENING FASHIONS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Sleeves remain as part of the most formal evening mode, according to the clothes that Paris is turning out right now. Evening gowns done for the most elaborate continental dinners and evening receptions are often turned out with either drop shoulders which give the effect of sleeves, or else sleeves which frankly cover more than half of the upper arm.

TWO FORMAL evening gowns were chosen from the new Paris collections to illustrate the present use of sleeves in the evening mode. One, from Mirande, has sleeves which come from a widened shoulder line; the other, done by Chanel, has half sleeves which are important items in the makeup of the dress.

MIRANDE'S GOWN is done in red flamisole—heavy, silky crepe which has a supple quality in spite of its thick weave. She uses it in a floor-length gown which avoids every bit of draping possible—with the exception of a few close gathers to hold the fabric flat over the center-front of the waistline. Note how ingeniously these gathers mark the natural waistline, in spite of the raised line effected by the wide bolero. A bow of the fabric extends across the back and is visible at the sides.

* * *

THE CHANEL dress, of a soft white satin with a tiny, almost invisible design in its weaves, makes much use of gathers at the top of the sleeve and also around the waistline and hips. Note that in spite of the sleeves, the neckline is formally low and wide, and the skirt floor-length.

ALASKA SEAL COATS

(U.S. Government Stamped Pelts)
At the Unprecedented Price of $225

MADE-TO-ORDER — SIZES 12 TO 40

It has been our good fortune to make a special purchase of a limited quantity of Alaska Sealskins from this year's catch at the lowest price in our history. There are sufficient skins for 32 coats, no more—to be made to order in workrooms where precise and exquisite fur workmanship is a matter of course.

At the recent Paris Openings, the French couture enthusiastically sponsored Alaska Sealskin coats. Your coat may be selected for style from several interpretations of the Alaska Sealskin fashions shown at the Openings.

Alaska Sealskin has always been synonymous with elegance and durability. Not many years ago, similar coats sold for $1200.

The prominence of this fur in the fashion scene now presents a direct appeal to the thrifty woman with keen style sense who desires a combination of high fashion and utility at an agreeably low price.

An early selection is advised.

When you buy a dentifrice you cannot analyze the manufacturer's claims for yourself. But you can rely on the 75-year reputation of the House of Squibb, and on the Priceless Ingredient of every Squibb Product—the Honor and Integrity of its Maker.

Don't be careless about the choice of a dentifrice. See your dentist regularly. And at least twice a day give your teeth 5-way protection with Squibb's.

Still another treat is listed tonight—the opening episode of one of Conan Doyle's greatest Sherlock Holmes mysteries, to continue for several weeks, is presented over NBC-KDKA at 9 o'clock. The story concerns the mysterious disappearance of the father of Mary Marston, who later became Dr. Watson's bride.

LISTENING IN ON RADIOLAND GOSSIP

All radio eyes, for a time at least, will be watching David Ross, CBS staff announcer recently awarded the 1932 medal for good diction on the radio, presented each year by the American Academy of Arts and Letters . . . Watching, for one reason, because the medal is regarded by many announcers as an omen of ill luck . . . Not a few have absolutely refused to enter the competition. . . . Ross, who will be presented with the medal at ceremonies taking place in the auditorium of the academy in New York and broadcast over combined NBC and CBS chains, including the Pittsburgh outlets, WCAE and WJAS, tomorrow at 2:45, is the fourth announcer to receive the award. The previous winners are Milton J. Cross, 1929; Alwyn Bach, 1930, and John Holbrook, 1931.

Mr. Ross

Odd? . . . The music responsible for more blown fuses during radio programs than any other selection, according to Nobie Cain, NBC prodquction man, is the overture to "Oberon," by Weber . . . Just before the last movement a low soft note, lasting about 10 seconds, is played, followed suddenly by what is known as the "surprise" chord . . . and if the control engineer is caught napping, it's just too bad. . . .

Those NBC Songfellows got together after Accompanist McDermott heard the tenor voice of George Howard drift over two miles of water and made it his business to meet the strong-voiced fellow . . .

Gleanings . . . Once upon a time, Frank Crumit was a bond salesman—and then he became a chorus boy . . . Art Jarrett earned his first dollar as a musician in the Coliseum Theater orchestra in New York's Fordham section . . . Joe White, the Irish tenor, has a 2-year-old son, Graham, named after Graham McNamee, his godfather . . . One of Jessica Dragonette's ambitions is to become a painter . . . "Words of Love" is Wayne King's theme song.

Potter 5% Mortgage Certificates Yield Steady Income

IN these Certificates we offer an immediately available investment that affords both safety and assured income.

Every Potter Mortgage Certificate is secured by a group of first mortgages on owner-occupied homes and small income producing properties, universally regarded as the safest kind of investment security.

Great care is exercised in selecting the mortgages, every one of which is thoroughly investigated by the Company before being accepted. All mortgages and accompanying bonds are held in trust by the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company.

In addition to this "best security in the world," these Certificates are a direct obligation of this Company, so that the payment of both principal and interest is doubly assured.

Interest starts at once and is continuous from date of issue to maturity.

Issued in coupon form in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1,000, in maturities of three and five years.

COUNTY GOES DEMOCRATIC IN UPSET

Erk, Estep Defeated; Campbell Trails In Race

gen, listed on four parties, polled 31,963 to Estep's 26,746. Guy E. Campbell, of the Thirty-fourth District, with 217 of the 240 districts reported, polled 31,116 to a total of 35,501 for Matthew A. Dunn, blind State Legislator from Mt. Oliver.

Erk in the Thirtieth District claimed that final returns would put him ahead of Brooks, contending that there were discrepancies in the count which had been checked and showed changes in his favor.

In surprising Legislative upsets, Democrats appeared to have elected two members in the Seventh District on the North Side, Representatives James P. Rooney and James Wettach going down to defeat before their Democratic opponents, John L. Powers and Claire E. McGinnis.

In the Tenth Legislative District, with four members to elect, there was the chance that all of the new members would be Democrats, though the present membership from this district is entirely Republican. A similar overturn was forecast in the Twelfth District, which now boasts four Republican members, who late this morning had conceded their defeat by four Democrats.

STEEDLE IN DANGER

Listed in the probable Republican casualties in the Twelfth district was Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, prominently mentioned as a candidate for Speaker in the next House of Representatives.

In the Sixth district there was a chance that John Kane, Democrat, had been elected as one of the three members from this district, and in the Eleventh indications were that a Democrat might slide through as one of this section's two members.

Republican leaders, amazed at the overwhelming Democratic vote, gathered their scattered wits during the night in an effort to avert impending defeat after the ballot boxes had closed. The old trick of refusing to divulge returns was resorted to. In Rankin semi-official returns on the legislative contest were secreted, and the same situation obtained in the Second Ward of Pittsburgh. In the latter district leaders said they were for Senator James J. Coyne, leader of the district, and would not give out local results until he gave the word.

RETURNS SPEEDED

There was no disposition to hold back the returns on the presidency or the senatorship, in which the district leaders were little concerned, but they were spending their time and seeking every advantage on the congressional and legislative fights.

Early last night friends of Estep virtually conceded his defeat, but as the hours wore on there was engendered the hope that he might be saved out of the wreckage. The Democratic answer to this optimism was a determination to impound every ballot box in the district in an effort to protect the lead Ellenbogen had on the face of returns.

In the Thirtieth Congressional District, Brock, without previous political experience, appeared to have been a beneficiary of the wave of straight Democratic votes which swept the county. Brooks started with an early lead which fluctuated, but which, with only a few districts missing, seemed probably of reaching 800.

Dunn, in the Thirty-fourth, had the support of Father James R. Cox and the Jobless party. His lead over Campbell mounted early and continued to grow. Dunn's liberal record in the Legislature undoubtedly helped him against the Republican incumbent, himself first elected many years ago as a Democrat.

The sweep of straight Democratic votes was something against which the most valiant efforts of the Republican leaders could not prevail.

Seeing the trend of public sentiment, these leaders made no effort to persuade voters to the national Republican ticket, but sought to save local candidates. Even this was made difficult by the apparent determination of voters to register a protest vote against the Hoover administration, a determination so strong that the voters would not take chances on having their ballots invalidated by attempting to scratch the straight ticket for local Republican candidates.

In district after district, homes of Republican leaders, Democratic majorities were rolled up for Roosevelt, and in many instances with the Democratic presidential candidate went success for the local Democratic candidates.

Senator James J. Coyne, a power in city and county Republican circles, saw both the Fourth and Fifteenth wards, in which his power is dominant, swing into the Democratic column.

WALSH VANQUISHED

The First, home of Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh, went the same way, and the Third, bailiwick of John Verona, tumbled resoundingly into the Democratic column. Mayor Kline's ward, the Fourteenth, went for Hoover, but not due to any energy displayed by the Mayor.

Republican leaders could not believe the figures which flowed into headquarters during the night. When the first districts to report showed slender Republican pluralities, or majorities for Roosevelt, County Chairman William H. Coleman and his aides stuck to their prediction that the county would remain in the Republican column. Coleman early in the evening revised his pre-election estimate that the county would go 60,000 for Hoover, but refused until the last minute to admit the true pessimistic picture.

In Democratic headquarters there was an atmosphere of amazed optimism. County Chairman David L. Lawrence and his helpers had not in their most encouraged moments expected to carry three congressional districts and the legislators who seemed to be falling into their column. Quickly the forces of the Democrats were mobilized to protect the apparent victory.

POLL FORECAST UPHELD IN ELECTIONS

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The first tabulation of returns in the nationwide presidential poll of the Hearst newspapers published on Sunday, August 21, gave Gov. Roosevelt 481 and President Hoover 50 electoral votes.

That early measure of the presidential campaign appears to have been born out almost to a "T" by the returns thus far in hand from yesterday's election. Throughout the conduct of the poll, every effort was exerted to keep it conservative and free of extravagant claims for either candidate. That conservatism gave every stage gave President Hoover the benefit of the doubt wherever it existed.

CONSERVATIVE POLL

For that reason, the final analysis, while definitely forecasting a Roosevelt landslide, was conservative to the point of placing only 350 electoral votes to his credit.

On Sunday, August 21, the opening paragraph of the analysis of the first tabulation read:

"Two and a half to three months in advance of the November election, voters of the country appeared to be in opposition to the re-election of President Hoover."

The following day, this statement was made:

"Gov. Roosevelt can win the November election with a comfortable margin of electoral votes if he carries only those states that are giving 60 per cent or more of the votes thus far tabulated."

Early in September it was pointed out that President Hoover could not win even if he carried every state east of Illinois and North of Ohio and the Potomac.

FORECAST UPHELD

On September 2, it was asserted in a poll analysis that Roosevelt had the grain belt and the following day that he had the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast country.

From first to last, the Hearst newspapers' poll has consistently pointed to the certain election of Gov. Roosevelt and that in the face of vigorous attacks on its reliability by Chairman Sanders, Secretary Mills and other responsible spokesmen for the Republican campaign organization. It was openly charged by these Republican spokesmen that the poll was partisanly biased in favor of the Democratic nominee, but the result is all the vindication of such accusation that might be asked.

Alaska's Voters Join in Landslide

SEWARD, Alaska, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The political landslide in the United States extended into far away Alaska today.

Early territorial returns gave Anthony Dimond, Democratic candidate for delegate to Congress, a lead of almost 3 to 1 over James Wickersham, Republican.

New Governors

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Riding to victory with Roosevelt, the Democrats today had gained at least 10 new governors in Tuesday's elections.

In 34 gubernatorial contests, the Democrats won 25 races while the Republicans captured four and the Farmer-Laborites one, with four contests still in doubt. This represented a net gain of 10 gubernatorial chairs for the Democrats—in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The Governors chosen follow:

Colorado—Edwin C. Johnson (Dem.).

Maryland Returns To Democrat Fold

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Maryland returned solidly to the Democratic column and for the first time since 1916 gave its electoral votes to the Democratic candidates in yesterday's balloting. Senator Millard Tydings, dripping wet, was re-elected, and the state's five House seats given to the Democrats.

With only 60 precincts of the state's 1,571 total missing, Roosevelt was given 300,043, Hoover 174,644, and Thomas 9,108.

In the Senatorial race, the vote was Tydings 278,607, Williams 129,052. Tydings lost only Garret County of the state's 23 counties.

Nebraska Upholds Sen. Norris' Bolt

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Nebraska voters answered the plea of their insurgent Republican United States Senator, George W. Norris, by casting an overwhelming majority for Gov. Roosevelt.

Their votes also apparently elected Democrats to all state offices, a Democratic Legislature and possibly an entire Democratic Congressional delegation.

Roosevelt neared a 100,000 majority with more than half the precincts reported. His supporters predicted his lead would total 180,000 when the vote is all tabulated.

ROOSEVELT WINS NEW YORK BY 600,000; LEHMAN VICTOR

MANY G. O. P. 'STALWARTS' ARE OUSTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(A.P.)—In an unparalleled landslide, Franklin D. Roosevelt seized New York's 47 electoral votes for himself, while the complete Democratic state ticket rode into office in the quadrennial presidential election.

Coasting to victory on a plurality of 862,000 amassed in the metropolitan area, Roosevelt overcame an upstate advantage of 230,000 which accrued to President Hoover.

Returns from 8,564 election districts in the entire state (with New York City complete) for President give:

Roosevelt	2,485,626
Hoover	1,871,016

Swinging the state of his birth into the Democratic presidential column for the first time since 1912, Roosevelt almost doubled the New York City margin registered by Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

In New York City's 3,794 districts the count was: Roosevelt, 1,437,231; Hoover, 575,031. In 4,595 of the remaining 5,043 districts Roosevelt received 1,108,324 to 1,248,881 for Hoover.

LEHMAN VICTOR

Returns from 8,424 election districts in the entire state (with New York City complete) for Governor give:

Lehman	2,003,182
Donovan	1,086,002

The Democratic party increased its representation in the House from 23 to 29 out of the state's 45 seats. Representative Ruth Baker Pratt (Rep.), of the Seventeenth (Silk Stocking) District in New York City, whose candidacy had the personal endorsement of President Hoover, was defeated by Theodore Peyser (Dem.)

LA GUARDIA LOSES

Representative Fiorello La Guardia, Independent Republican, who has served in Congress since 1923, lost to James Lanzetta, Democrat city alderman in the metropolis.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, rich scion of the racing family and a Democrat, failed in his attempt to unseat his old Long Island friend, Representative Robert L. Bacon, Republican.

The former Republican senator, James W. Wadsworth, vigorous advocate of prohibition repeal, successfully climaxed his comeback campaign by gaining a House seat from the Thirty-ninth District.

Kansas May Enter Roosevelt Column

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Kansas, which has deserted the Republican standard only four times in its history, today indicated a strong intent to enter the Roosevelt column, but a Democratic governor was running second in a three-cornered struggle for that office.

Gov. Woodring, Roosevelt supporter, trailed Alfred M. Landon, Republican, by less than 2,000 votes.

Senator George H. McGill, Wichita Democrat, was being pressed closely by former Gov. Ben S. Paulen, who was behind approximately 6,000 votes.

The home state of Vice President Charles Curtis, on the basis of returns from more than half of the precincts, gave the Democratic presidential nominee a lead of about 33,000 votes.

In the congressional race, Miss Kathryn O'Loughlin, Democrat, who graduated into law after breaking broncbos on a Western Kansas ranch, held an approximate 6,000-vote lead over Representative Sparks.

Roosevelt California Lead Nearly 275,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—With approximately two-thirds of the state's 10,547 precincts tabulated today, Gov. Roosevelt was leading President Hoover in California by nearly 275,000 votes.

The count for 7,091 precincts was, Hoover, 535,030; Roosevelt, 806,296, and Thomas, 31,813.

With 6,598 precincts tabulated William Gibbs McAdoo, Democrat, had a plurality of almost 100,000 over Tallant Tubbs, Republican, his nearest opponent in a three-cornered race. The count gave:

Massachusetts Gives Roosevelt 115,000 Lead

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Riding the crest of the largest Democratic wave in recent years, Gov. Roosevelt today captured Massachusetts' 17 electoral votes by pluralities estimated at between 115,000 to 121,000. Al Smith had a plurality of 17,192 in 1928.

Gov. Ely was swept into office by a plurality of around 100,000 votes.

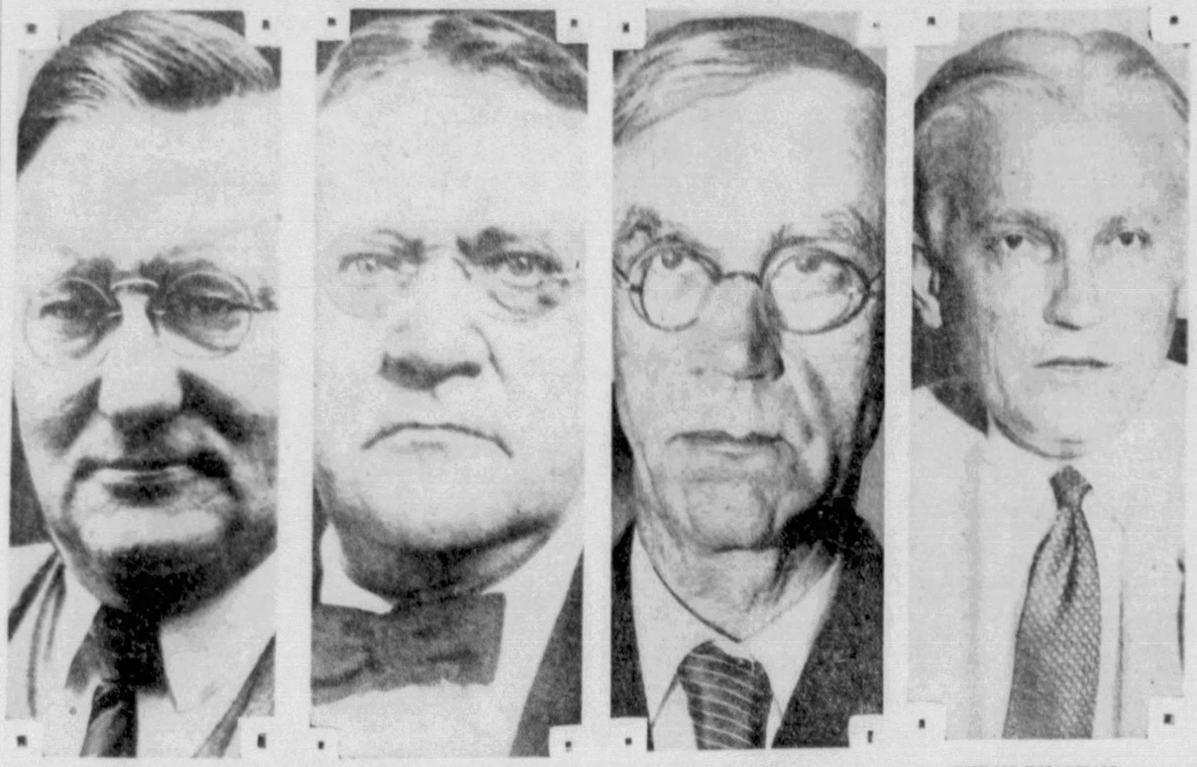
'5 and 10' Jones Defeated for Senate

SEATTLE, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—As Gov. Roosevelt's margin of victory mounted in Washington today the lead of the Democratic senatorial candidate apparently spelled defeat for Senator Jones, Republican author of the "Five-and-Ten" liquor law.

Roosevelt's lead over Hoover was 129,580 to 82,262, with 1,001 of 2,682 precincts reported. Jones had counted 82,262 votes to 103,508 for Homer T. Bone, Democrat attorney from Tacoma, in 827 precincts. With the defeat of Senator Jones came apparent repeal of the state's bone dry law. In 877 precincts, 116,874 voted for repeal and 57,224 for retention of the law.

Clarence D. Martin led his Republican opponent for governor, Lieut. Gov. John A. Gellatly, in returns from 886 precincts. The vote was 104,980 for Martin and 69,656 for Gellatly.

Four G. O. P. Senate Leaders Ousted in Landslide



JAMES E. WATSON — GEORGE H. MOSES — REED SMOOT — HIRAM BINGHAM

The four Republican Senate leaders, veterans all, ousted by the Democratic landslide from coast-to-coast: Indiana's Watson, New Hampshire's Moses, Utah's Smoot, Connecticut's Bingham. The new Congress is Democratic and decidedly anti-dry.

Democratic Wisconsin Plurality 250,000

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Wisconsin awoke today to the realization that, for a few years at least, it is to be ruled by the Democrats and not by the embattled Progressives or stalwart Republicans.

The landslide which gave Gov. Roosevelt a plurality of at least 250,000 votes over President Hoover also sent the Democratic gubernatorial candidate over the top. Mayor A. G. Schmedeman, of Madison, one-time minister to Norway, defeated Walter J. Kohler, former Governor and stalwart Republican, by about 80,000.

John B. Chapple, crusading editor who defeated the veteran John J. Blaine for the Republican senatorial nomination, was defeated by Ryan Duffy, Fond Du Lac Democrat.

Democrats also won virtually all the contests for congressional seats and for state offices.

Out of the state's 2,899 precincts, 2,256 gave Roosevelt 567,723 and Hoover 286,354. Two thousand and sixteen precincts gave Schmedeman 372,904 and Kohler 300,984. With 1,723 precincts reporting, Duffy's margin aggregated 80,000.

Hoover Nearly 5,000 Ahead in Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—With the exception of Congress, Republicans maintained their lead for their principal candidates in Delaware.

Figures from 170 of the 226 state districts gave Hoover 33,950 and Roosevelt 29,032.

Gov. Buck (Rep.) had 36,222 against 25,640 for his Democratic opponent, Landreth L. Layton. The totals for 170 districts were: Buck, 36,222; Layton, 25,640.

Wilbur L. Adams, Democratic candidate for Delaware's only representative in the national House, had a lead of 930 in the 170 districts over Reuben Satterthwaite, Jr., Republican.

Roosevelt's Michigan Lead Now 80,000

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—With more than half the state's 3,417 precincts heard from, Gov. Roosevelt this afternoon continued to increase his lead over President Hoover for the state's 19 electoral votes.

The vote for 1,868 precincts stood: Roosevelt, 482,656; Hoover, 402,984.

William A. Comstock, Democratic candidate for Governor, piled up an even larger majority over his opponent than the presidential candidate. His lead, with 1,914 precincts in, had increased to more than 125,000.

Sen. Barbour's Defeat Indicated in New Jersey

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Gov. Roosevelt's majority over Herbert Hoover crept up to the 100,000 mark today.

Returns from 2,393 districts out of 3,415 gave the Democratic standard bearer an 86,376 plurality. The vote was: 585,724 for Roosevelt to Hoover's 488,282.

The state also gave Representative Percy H. Stewart, Democrat, an apparent victory over United States Senator W. Warren Barbour, Republican, for the unexpired term of the late Dwight W. Morrow in the United States Senate.

Champ Clark's Son Elected to Senate

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Democrats have made a clean sweep of Missouri, returns from nearly half of the state's 4,234 precincts indicated today.

Returns from 2,311 precincts gave for United States Senator: Clark (Dem.), 511,974; Kiel (Rep.), 283,809; and 2,508 precincts gave for Governor: Park, 566,958; Winter, 341,665.

Tabulation of returns from 2,891 precincts gave Gov. Roosevelt 687,773; Hoover, 356,601.

For United States Senator, 2,749 precincts reported, the vohte was: Clark (Dem.), 654,219; Kiel (Rep.), 347,771.

For governor, after 2,939 precincts had reported, the vote stood: Park (Dem.), 670,137; Winter (Rep.,) 416,916.

Roosevelt and Kump Carry West Virginia

Returns from 911 of the state's 2,340 precincts gave him a majority of 21,828. The vote was: Roosevelt, 156,783; Hoover, 134,955.

Rocky Mountain States In Roosevelt Parade

DENVER, Col., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The Rocky Mountain region added its voice to the call extended by the nation today and to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Each of the four states—Colorado, Montana, New Mexico and Wyoming, which have been in the Republican column in presidential elections since 1920, gave pluralities to the Democratic candidate. As the count stood this morning:

Colorado—441 precincts out of 1,549, Roosevelt 57,471, Hoover 47,947, Thomas 1,653.

Democratic candidates for governor were leading in each of the states and state tickets were largely Democratic.

Alva B. Adams, Democrat, former United States Senator, was leading his Republican opponent, Karl C. Schuyler, Denver attorney, for the six-year Senate term.

With 444 precincts out of 1,549 tabulated, Adams had 52,125 votes to Schuyler's 49,098.

For the short term, to succeed the late Senator Charles W. Waterman, Schuyler was leading Walter Walker, Grand Junction, Col., newspaper publisher and former Democratic state chairman. The vote in 444 precincts was Schuyler 49,490, Walker 45,362.

President Loses Iowa, Native State, 100,000

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Iowa, continually in the Republican column in presidential years since 1856, save for 1912, today had turned its back on its native son, President Hoover.

With more than half the state's 2,435 precincts reported, Roosevelt had a lead of 103,262 over President Hoover.

Even in the county where Hoover was born, Cedar, he trailed in the first three of 23 precincts to report. These gave Roosevelt a margin of 616 to 523.

When a third of the state had reported, Louis J. Murphy, Democratic senatorial nominee, had more than a 40,000-vote lead over Henry Field, Republican. A fourth of the state's precincts gave Clyde Herring, Democrat, a lead of 5,500 over Gov. Dan Turner, Republican.

Borah Unable to Save Senator Thomas in Idaho

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—With well over a third of the vote tabulated, returns indicated today Gov. Roosevelt would amass a lead of between 25,000 and 30,000 in Idaho over President Hoover.

With him, every Democratic candidate on the congressional and state ticket ranged far ahead of his Republican opponent.

Senator John Thomas, whose cause was championed by his Republican colleague, Senator William E. Borah, while the candidate was ill with typhoid fever, was trailing Mayor James P. Pope, of Boise, Democrat, 29,547 to 36,236 in 332 of the state's 817 precincts.

Gov. Ross, candidate for his second term, had 40,394 votes against 26,502 for Byron Defenbach, Republican.

Democratic Torrent Ousts Reed Smoot

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—A torrent of Democratic votes that swept Reed Smoot, the dean of the United States Senate, from office and apparently took with him every other Republican aspirant from top to bottom of the state ticket, was piling up majorities early today that approached 10,000.

With less than half the state's 812 districts reported, Dr. Elbert D. Thomas, University of Utah professor of political science, had a total of 34,922 votes to 27,564 for Senator Smoot, who has served 30 years in the Senate.

In the race for Governor, Henry H. Blood Democrat, had a total of 34,705 against 26,337 for W. W. Seegmiller, Republican.

Illinois State Ticket Rides Roosevelt Tide

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Illinois today joined Democracy's triumphant march. The state gave Gov. Roosevelt a lead of 356,000 votes over President Hoover as 5,473 precincts of 7,211 reported.

The state ticket roared in with the Roosevelt parade. For the first time in 20 years, a Democrat was elevated to the governorship. William Dieterich, Congressman-at-large, was elected over his Republican opponent to join his Democratic colleague, James Hamilton Lewis, in the United States Senate.

Virginia Rejoins Democratic Column

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Virginia rejoined the Democratic march yesterday with such eagerness that Gov. Roosevelt was given the largest majority any presidential candidate has received since the Civil War.

The Democrats also made a clean sweep of all the state's seats in Congress in the first at-large race in the Old Dominion in 144 years.

With nearly 1,300 of the state's 1,686 precincts reported Roosevelt's majority over President Hoover was more than 93,000.

HOOVER BEATEN IN OHIO BY 80,000

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—One of the principal battlegrounds of the presidential campaign, Ohio today apparently had delivered a decisive victory to nearly every candidate on the Democratic ticket.

It was only the third time Ohio has turned away from the Republican fold in a national election in 76 years.

Returns from aproximately 6,561 of the state's 8,678 precincts gave Gov. Roosevelt a lead of 80,000 votes over President Hoover. The vote was Hoover, 862,443, and Roosevelt, 942,894.

25 HURT IN RIOT

The Ohio election was generally orderly, but was marred by a disturbance at St. Clairsville, where 25 persons were injured, two probably seriously, in a fight shortly after midnight in front of the Belmont County courthouse.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, apparently received nearly five times as many votes in Ohio yesterday as were given him four years ago. Returns from 1,750 precincts gave him 8,815, indicating his final total might be more than 40,000. Thomas' 1928 vote was 8,683.

Gov. White and Senator Bulkley both held pluralities greater than Roosevelt.

WHITE'S LEAD 140,000

In 5,648 precincts, White, 60-year-old veteran of the Klondike gold rush, had a majority over 34-year-old David S. Ingalls, of nearly 140,000. Senator Bulkley's lead in 5,486 precincts was in excess of 110,000 over Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, Republican.

Bulkley and Bettman both favored national prohibition repeal, as do most of the apparent Congressional winners.

Five Democrats and one Republican were victors in the 22 district congressional races, in which returns were complete enough to be decisive. Democrats were leading in most of the others, though in several the vote was close.

Louisiana Repeals Dry Law by 44 - 1

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Handing the traditional big majority to Gov. Roosevelt Louisiana today voted by a margin of more than 44 to 1 to repeal its own state prohibition law and to ask Congress to repeal the national dry act.

Gov. Roosevelt's lead was piling up at a rate of 15 to 1.

Man Feared Dead In Fire Located

Search for Marcel Marenghi, 45, believed to have perished in a fire which destroyed his home in Patton Township yesterday was discontinued by police and firemen last night. Neighbors informed the searchers that Marenghi had gone hunting several days ago.

Marenghi's outomobile, found in the garage adjoining his home, led police to believe that Marenghi perished in the flames.

SCIENCE PROVES VAPEX IS EFFECTIVE INHALANT

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drops of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

THESE tests prove that one inhalant, even at five times its price, would be far more valuable than the others. This inhalant is Vapex, and it now costs only 75c.

For Vapex kills germs always present during a head-cold. Far better than words, these photographs show you the extra protection and value that Vapex gives you. They prove that "imitations" of Vapex are seldom "just as good."

When you find yourself catching cold, breathe the refreshing Vapex vapor. It quickly relieves distress . . . clears the head, stops sniffling, lets you breathe easily. Safe to use for children. Easy to apply—just a few drops on the handkerchief and at the ends of the pillow.

WOMEN CENTER HOPES ON JOB IN CABINET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—One senatorship held, one governorship gained, a few seats secure in the House, today were women's election winnings—slight enough to focus feminine attention and hope on the possibility of a woman in the cabinet.

One of the arguments that Democratic women used against Hoover was that he had not rewarded his 1928 "woman-vote" with appointive posts. Their publications prophesied that a woman in the cabinet would be part of the "new deal" promised by Franklin Roosevelt.

WOMEN EYE CABINET

With Roosevelt's election, an avalanche in which women played a considerable part, the chance for "first woman at the cabinet table became paramount, comment centered on Frances Perkins, the New York woman who has ably served Roosevelt on his state labor portfolio, for Secretary of Labor. Mentioned also, but in connection with other posts, have been Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, and Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Wyoming Governor.

The women victors in the great upheaval that was yesterday's election, were, for the most part, veterans of many campaigns.

True, Hattie Caraway won her seat in the Senate on a one-year record there, but she had campaign-canny Huey Long's help on the Hustings.

'MA' FERGUSON WINS

Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, also bolstered by practical masculine political sagacity, that of her husband Jim, won her way back into the Texas Governor's chair.

First feminine defeat conceded nounced for the House of Representatives in this "Democratic year" was that of Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey's new Thirteenth District (lucky for her), the first woman Democrat ever to sit in the House.

First feminine defeat condeded in that body was that of Republican Ruth Baker Pratt, the wealthy woman representing rich mid-town New York. She lost to Tammanyite Theodore A. Peyser.

PRESIDENT HOOVER CASTING HIS VOTE AT PALO ALTO

VICTORY STIRS WORLD-WIDE COMMENT

Associated Press.

The prospect of complete Democratic control of the American government for the first time since it was ally or foe to most of the world in the great war found those nations looking toward the United States today for new views on war debts, disarmament, tariffs, the League of Nations and the Monroe doctrine.

Definite official comment on the election in foreign countries was not available immediately, but newspaper predictions were abundant. Reactions in foreign capitals follow:

London—Newspaper headlines indicated surprise at the extent of Republican defeat. Results were too late for comment except in the Daily Mail, which published an editorial entitled "Prohibition Doomed."

TOKIO PLEASED

Paris—Greater activity by the United States in world affairs and more sympathy for France was foreseen, but conservative papers warned against expecting too much. Pertinax, famous political writer, said Roosevelt would steer away from the League of Nations.

Tokio—Government officials said it would be impolite to comment, but the general reaction appears to be satisfaction in a change of administration.

Madrid—Newspapers praised what they calley Democratic "promises" of tariff reductions.

Berlin—Chancellor Franz von Papen recalled President Wilson's "14 points" by way of comment on the election and said the treaty of Versailles should be replaced by a "free and equal agreement."

Rome—Norman Davis, appointed American disarmament representative by President Hoover, continued talks with Italian officials and predicted important decisions at Geneva. He said he would go there despite the election result.

RESULTS JOLT COOLIDGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Former President Calvin Coolidge, attending a business meeting in the city today, seemed visibly shaken by the result of the election.

The former President, who only yesterday had predicted that President Hoover would be returned by a large majority, was reluctant to discuss the election. He commented:

"I really have nothing to say. After all, there's nothing that can be said about a landslide, especially one like this. I will make a formal statement later when I have had time to analyze the figures."

Lodge's Grandson Elected Legislator

BEVERLY, Mass., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., grandson of the late U. S. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, entered a career of politics with his election to the Massachusetts House of Representatives from the Fifteenth Essex district.

Russ See Roosevelt 'Friend at Court'

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—News of the election of Mr. Roosevelt was received with undisguised satisfaction here where the feeling is that his expressed open-minded view of Russo-American relations gives Moscow a potential "friend at court."

Officials withheld public comment and the feeling was that it will be some time before Mr. Roosevelt outlines his policy toward Soviet Russia. But in official circles there was more optimism than in many years regarding the relations between the two countries.

T. R. Jr. Silent On Cousin's Victory

MANILA, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Theodore Roosevelt, governor general of the Philippines and son of the late President, declined to comment today on the election to the presidency of his distant cousin, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

All Manila newspapers printed extra editions with the election results, which were hailed with apparent enthusiasm here because of the Democratic plank favoring Philippine independence.

Stimson Silent On Vote Outcome

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Sitting beside the radio in his home at Woodley, on the outskirts of the Capital, Secretary of State Stimson tonight heard the voice of an announcer declare that election returns indicated the 12-year reign of the Republican administration would come to an end in March. He told reporters through a press relations officer:

"I have no comment to make."

Hofstadter Wins Judgeship in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Despite large protest votes for two independent candidates, State Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, Republican, and City Court Justice Aron Stuer, Democrat, who received bi-partisan nominations, were elected to the Supreme Court bench.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

WASH OUT YOUR K-I-D-N-E-Y-S— SLEEP FINE

No More Getting Up Nights

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want. ©1932

$2,500,000 WELFARE FUND CAMPAIGN OPENS

POLITICS

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

The reduction in the normal Republican majority in Pennsylvania in yesterday's election cannot be attributed solely to dissatisfaction of the voters with the administration of President Hoover.

Unquestionably the dislocated economic situation, unemployment and the failure of the national government to act with greater foresight in relief, was responsible for a tremendous portion of the vote which went to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and other candidates on the Democratic ticket That is the story throughout the country.

But Republican leadership—or lack of it—within Pennsylvania also had much to do with the result. That is something the present leaders should recognize frankly, realizing that if they are not within the next year able to recapture popular fancy and confidence there will be a further overturn and a new set of gentlemen—and ladies—in the party management.

Pennsylvania could not enthuse at the spectacle presented at the last special session of the Legislature, when members milled about helplessly, and no strong hand could be found to bring productiveness out of discord. The blame falls not alone on the regulars or old-liners of Republicans. It had to be borne to some extent by Gov Pinchot, also listed as a Republican.

The Governor even in the campaign failed to furnish any leadership to those who have followed him zealously for years, declining to state whether he was for Roosevelt or Hoover, and adopting no public attitude on the race for the United States Senate and other important state offices contested yesterday.

Regulars Sad Sight In Dry Law Straddle

It is upon the regulars, however, that the greatest burden for lack of leadership rests. They controlled both House and Senate in the special session, they were in control of the delegation to the Republican national convention when the sad spectacle was presented of this Republican state being unable to make up its mind where it stood on the prohibition question.

This last criticism does not apply to such Pittsburghers as Joseph N. Mackrell and James H. Duff, to Morgan Kaufman, of Scranton, to Dan Burns, of New Kensington, and to some of the boys, but it does pertain to a number of wets-at-heart who followed State Chairman Edward Martin—whenever they could discover which way he was going.

Throughout the state there has been criticism of the Republican leadership — from Republican quarters. Whether it is justified or not, whether it is lodged because some local leaders did not receive the attention and coddling they thought their due, is not my business. But it was this sentiment which materially assisted in shearing votes from the Republican candidates yesterday.

For a result such as that registered in Pennsylvania could not be possible through Democratic votes alone. There are not that many persons registered as Democrats in the state. There was required the rallying of citizens who normally vote Republican tickets, but who were dissatisfied with the national and state situation, and were disposed to administer two rebukes at the same time. There was also needed the negligence of local leaders who would not work up a lather for the national or state tickets.

Legislature Session Offers New Chance

So far as the present leadership is concerned, much will depend upon the next session of the Legislature. That is certain to be a perplexing meeting of lawmakers, there will be confusion, and many issues to be fought out which will require a strong hand to bring order out of chaos.

If the session develops into nothing more than a dog-eat-dog battle between Gov. Pinchot and the regulars under present leadership, then that leadership may as well stack arms, strike the colors, and surrender unconditionally, to use some of the military terms popularized politically in recent months.

If, however, the leadership should galvanize itself into strength and forceful action, should furnish constructive direction, then there is a chance for it to recover from the events of yesterday. But no namby-pamby shadow boxing will suffice.

If there is not a change, look for a struggle for party leadership, centering itself in the next gubernatorial primary. It is no secret that Gen. Martin would like to be Governor, an ambition to which he is entitled, and worthy of any citizen.

But it also is no secret that Justice John W. Kephart, of the Supreme Court, also would like to sit in the executive chair at Harrisburg, and his friends today feel that the want of confidence expressed in the present guidance of the party—not a gesture directed solely at Chairman Martin, but at many county leaders who have lost the confidence of their followers—has patently improved the position of the jurist.

Justice Kephart is not one to temporize. He knows the book of politics, and he does not stumble over its reading.

Where the leadership of the Republican party in Pennsylvania shall lodge is a question to be determined by next spring.

It can be retained in its present hands if those hands exhibit a firmer wrist. Otherwise drastic changes are in the offing.

Three Democrats Who Ousted Veteran Pittsburgh Republicans From House Seats

CLYDE KELLY

MATTHEW DUNN . . . . . THE BLIND STATE LEGISLATOR ELECTED TO CONGRESS' HOUSE

HENRY ELLENBOGEN

ROBBER'S SHOT PERILS YOUTH

Willard Halloway, 22, of 5551 Aylesboro avenue, returned to his classes at Carnegie Tech today after a narrow escape from death last night at the hands of a burglar he discovered looting the home in which he lives.

Halloway, out during the early evening, returned to the home of J. O. Horning, to find the burglar working in a second floor bedroom. Sighting Halloway, the thief trained a gun on the youth and ordered him to keep quiet, then stepped to the telephone in the hall, which he attempted to disconnect.

The gun in the thief's hand slipped as the he stumbled and the weapon was discharged. The shot struck the floor in the hall, near Halloway, and the burglar, frightened, ran.

Hoover 'Greatest' Hurley Declares

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Conceding defeat for the Republican party, Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, last night paid tribute to President Hoover as "the greatest living American," and at the same time signified the Democratic victor will have his "unqualified support."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 9.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

If your side lost don't take it too much to heart. Remember there is always this difference between us and Italy. In Italy Mussolini runs the country, but here the country runs the president. As I dispatch this little message along late in the evening, it looks like the only thing can beat the Democrats is honest counting. Certainly brought out a big vote. Actually, women went to the polls that didn't have a new hat. Humiliation couldn't even stop 'em.

Yours, WILL.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Early in my career I achieved quite a reputation for bringing back rare and unusual birds. Birds were my first love in the realm of wild creatures—in fact, it was my bent for collecting them as a boy that led me to make a profession of scouring the world for wild life.

Not only is it true that birds were my first love, but also that after thirty-odd years they still hold a high place in my affection and interest. And of all the birds, the most interesting to me are the members of that heavenly species which are known as birds of paradise.

Oddly enough, the paradise bird is—scientifically speaking—merely an ornamental crow. The two species are, as it were, cousins. I suppose no experienced bird man ever looks at a paradise bird without marveling at the strange blood relationship between the most gorgeous of all feathered creatures and its humble, homely, commonplace relative.

On one occasion I was discussing this subject with Louis Roth, then with the famous Al G. Barnes circus, which had just purchased from me a few spectacular paradise birds I had recently brought back from New Guinea. Louis grew reminiscent on the subject of crows, recalling a "talking crow" which had been a very popular vaudeville feature some years before.

SUGGESTS EXPERIMENT

Of course, a talking crow is not a great rarity Many a farm boy has succeeded in training a tame crow to say a word or two. It was the thought of talking crows, however, that gave Roth the idea that he suddenly broached to me.

"Dammit, Frank!" he exclaimed. "Why not teach a paradise bird to talk?"

"Why not?" I parried flippantly.

But Louis persisted: "There's no limit to the amount of money a man could make out of it!" he declared. "Why, man alive, as a circus novelty for the freak shows, there's nothing to touch it! And it would go big in vaudeville while the circus was in winter quarters." (The movies had not yet submerged the two-a-day, which was still a highly lucrative field.)

I showed Louis some of the difficulties in the way of the proposed experiment, although he forced me to admit that his suggestion was not impossible. I pointed out that the paradise bird can only with difficulty be domesticated or tamed, that the bigger species are almost as wild and savage in the bird kingdom as the lion and tiger are in the realm of beasts.

"But tigers and lions can be tamed," Roth interrupted, triumphantly. "Why not this bird?"

It was a year later, at my compound in Katong, that

GIRL HELD UP IN CIGAR STORE

City-wide search was being made by police today for the gunman who held up Miss Sarah Spidge, a clerk in Russell's cigar store, at 810 Liberty avenue, last night.

The thug asked for a package of cigarets and when Miss Spidge reached for them, he pointed a revolver and commanded:

"Never mind. Give me the cash in the register."

Miss Spidge handed the thug $12. He disappeared in the crowded street. Miss Spidge told police that she previously had hidden a larger sum behind the counter.

TWO CHILDREN SAVED IN FIRE

A man was overcome by smoke, and two children were carried to safety early today when fire threatened the residence of Joseph Filia, 313 Bella avenue, Wilmerding.

The hands of James Botti, of 311 Bella street, were cut severely when he crashed a front window to awaken the Felia family after he had sounded a fire alarm.

Botti rushed into the house and carried out Peter Felia, brother of Joseph, who had been overcome by smoke. Meanwhile, Joseph Felia and his wife, Agnes, carried out their children, Consetta, 2, and George Felia, 1.

The fire started in the basement and was fanned by a brisk wind to other portions of the house. Fire Chief Thomas Hermy estimated the damage at $500. The cause of the blaze was not learned.

Connellsville Man Now Heads Dental Group

Dr. J. V. O'Donovan, of Connellsville, was elected president of the Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania at the business session of the fifty-first annual convention today in the William Penn Hotel.

Dr. D. L. Singleton, of Pittsburgh, was named vice president. Other new officers named were: Treasurer, Dr. R. B. Black, Pittsburgh; assistant secretary, Dr. O. S. Beatty, Butler. Dr. W. Earle Craig and Dr. W. F. Swanson, both of Pittsburgh, were re-elected secretary and historian, respectively. Retiring officers will be honored at a banquet tonight.

Dr. Craig reported 2,506 patients have been handled at the society's emergency clinic since its establishment in February. Children under 12 years and expectant mothers are treated upon recommendation of welfare agencies and at the expense of the society's members.

Proper foods for children was stressed by Dr. W. W. Brant, of the Children's and Magee Hospitals and the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. A. B. Vastine, of Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Pa., spoke on diseases of the gums. Pre-natal care to give babies healthy teeth was discussed by Dr. Harold A. Miller, of the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. J. K. Wampler and Dr. W. W. Booth cited the necessity of frequent examination of the teeth.

8,000 WORKERS SPREAD RELIEF APPEAL

Leaders Stress R. F. C. Warning; Solicitors To Comb District

The Welfare Fund's campaign for $2,500,000—to be used in caring for the destitute and the feeble, the handicapped of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County during 1933—opened today when more than 8,000 workers descended on offices and homes in their quest for funds.

The campaign will last until November 23, by which time the solicitors expect to have canvassed the entire district with greater thoroughness than has been achieved in any fund appeal in the past.

WARNING STRESSED

The amount sought will be sufficient only to carry social agencies not administering direct relief through the year of 1933. Budgets have been drastically curtailed, salaries cut, every economy instituted to make the small appeal possible.

Twelve millions, in all, will be needed to care for relief and social welfare during the entire year, according to estimates of relief leaders.

Warnings issued by Washington authorities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that funds for Pennsylvania will be withheld unless agencies and municipalities contribute more from their own resources to care for the emergency have been emphasized by relief leaders in their appeal.

PLANT DOUBLES QUOTA

All workers were encouraged today with advance word that H. J. Heinz Company employes have almost doubled their quota and that every employe is making an individual pledge. This announcement was made at the opening noon luncheon of downtown solicitors at the Chamber of Commerce. At these luncheons, the workers pay their own checks. Daily luncheons at which reports are to be gathered will follow.

Explanation of the "1 to 25" posters placed throughout the city has been given. Another card reveals that one twenty-fifth of the monthly income given over a period of six months and amounting to 2 per cent of the annual earnings is regarded by the Welfare Fund organization as a fair pledge for the average citizen.

We Held World's Largest Meeting Of Indignation

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Well, it was the world's largest indignation meeting.

It was the first time we had ever seen 46,000,000 lead pencils flashing in the sun.

We followed Mr. Hoover's advice not to vote for the wrong man.

We didn't. We slapped the capital X on Roosevelt and Garner. And X marks the spot where the body politic was found.

The Republicans should consider themselves very fortunate. They won't have to parade in the snow and rain on March fourth, 1933.

It was a long, difficult struggle like chasing a tarantula through a boatload of bananas. Those Republicans sure put up a tough battle. Removing a man from a government payroll is a major operation in any country.

It was the dingwattest campaign we ever listened to. If one-half those campaign charges are true, then there ain't a man in this country who ain't out on bail.

However, those harsh words will soon be forgotten. By next month, the hostile politicians will be shaking hands like sailors working the pumps in a pasteboard navy.

It's all over but the shouting. And that's a whisper.

Marland, Once Oil King, Elected to Congress

PONCA CITY, Okla., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—A colorful 57-year-old oil man and philanthropist who has made and lost a fortune in "black gold" will represent Oklahoma's Eighth District in the national House of Representatives.

E. W. Marland, dry Democrat, of Ponca City, defeated M. C. Garber, of Enid, veteran Republican Congressman in a district always heretofore Republican.

Born in Western Pennsylvania, Marland was graduated from the University of Michigan before he was 20 years old.

Twenty-three years ago he made his way to Oklahoma to survey what promised to be an oil producing state. Borrowing money, he drilled his first well near here. It was a producer.

He turned one of the largest oil deals on record in 1920 by securing the mineral concession to a 3,000,000-acre tract in Sonora, Mex. In 1928 he had holdings valued at $85,000,000. But the next year the Marland Oil Company financial report showed a $7,690,000 deficit and a year later Marland retired from active control of the company.

He now has left only the mansion built here three years ago and an income tax refund claim valued at $1,690,000. Mrs. Marland died in 1926. In 1928 he married Miss Lydie Roberts, his first wife's niece and his own ward.

BALLOT BOXES IMPOUNDED IN BITTER ESTEP BATTLE

2 JUDGES ACT ON CHARGE OF ELLENBOGEN

While the vote was unusually heavy and interest ran high there was practically no disorder.

In the Thirtieth Congressional District, scene of a bitter fight between Congressman Harry A. Estep for re-election and Henry Ellenbogen, however, ballot boxes of the Twelfth and Eighteenth wards were impounded by deputy sheriffs on a court order signed by Judge James H. Gray. Early today Judge Frank P. Patterson signed an order impounding the boxes in the Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Seventh, Eighth and Twentieth wards.

GRAY GIVES ORDER

The petition was presented by Ellenbogen, the Democratic nominee, who asked that all of the boxes be impounded. The request was refused by Judge Gray, who said he did not have authority. In ruling separately on particular districts, he issued an order for the impounding of the boxes of the Twelfth and Eighteenth wards and later ordered the boxes of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth wards be turned over to the custody of the sheriff.

Ellenbogen, charged the offices of Alderman Mike DeRosa, Jr., in the Twelfth Ward, and Thomas Jones in the Eighteenth Ward, were "unsafe and improper places for the custody of the boxes."

He charged Mike DeRosa, Sr., campaign manager for Estep, together with other Republicans, used the office as a loafing place.

MAKES COMPLAINT

He charged Alderman Jones, who is also the Morals Court magistrate, with "rabid partisanship" which rendered him unfit to act as a custodian of the boxes.

A complaint was made to Judge Gray that Constable George Arendas, of Wall, was challenging voters and "running the election." Investigation by Chief Clerk Jack Moore of the assignment room revealed that Arendas was merely asking voters to show their tax receipts.

BROOKS MOVES TO SPIKE FRAUD

Twing Brooks, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Thirtieth District, and Matthew A. Dunn, Democratic candidate in the Thirty-fourth district, elected on the face of unofficial returns, today served notice that they would take every legal step to preserve their victories.

Both claimed to have knowledge of attempts to tamper with the returns and warned that federal investigators had been brought into the district to insure a fair election and count.

80TH LEADER V. F. W. GUEST

Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, wartime Eightieth Division Commander, has accepted an invitation to attend an open meeting tonight of the newly-organized Robert D. Fleming Post No. 2454, Veterans of Foreign Wars, named in honor of a Bellevue soldier killed in action in France.

The meeting will be held in the Bellevue Borough Hall. County and national officers of the organization and business leaders of the borough are expected to attend. The public is invited. Entertainment has been planned by Chairman J. Herman Kerr.

Freed Convict Held In Robbery Attempt

A paroled convict from Western Penitentiary was in custody of police today as a suspect in the attempted robbery of the grocery store of J. W. Crow, 1827 Chateau street, North Street, early today.

The suspect, who told police he was Paul Malovich, 37, of 2008 Beaver avenue, was discovered in the store by Radio Patrolmen Hugh Friedley and Francis Carr. A bundle of cigarets and groceries was near an open rear door.

Asked to Hear Vote Returns; Robbed

Invited by three strangers to go with them to the North Side to hear election returns, George H. Conrad, of McKees Rocks, told North Side police he was robbed of $8 and forced out of the automobile in which they were riding at Eloise and Monterey streets.

Bellevue Hunter Killed in Accident

The body of Samuel Nicollotti, 42, of 4415 Luzerne avenue, Bellevue, killed in a hunting accident at Butler yesterday, had been brought to Pittsburgh today.

JOBLESS VOTE HERE GIVEN ROOSEVELT

How unemployment acted on the impulses of voters in the city was indicated by an analysis of the vote so far tabulated by wards, and a comparison with the effects of the depression.

Last week the Board of Public Education printed a map showing the percentage of unemployed by wards, with the Fourteenth and Seventh Wards suffering much less than the others in the city. It was the result of a survey made through the schools.

AFFECTS TREND

The Fourteenth and Seventh wards were the only two showing a decided Hoover surplus. The Eleventh and Fifth wards showed a slight trend to Hoover, with the Eighteenth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth and Thirty-first wards also in doubt.

The absence of complete tallies for all districts in these wards may be the reason for the Hoover balance.

Where a reasonably complete vote has been reported, the Roosevelt trend shows that the unemployed voted for him — the employed districts giving Hoover their support.

DEMOCRATS WIN JOBLESS

The Fourteenth and Seventh wards, on the map, are the two that show between 15 and 20 per cent unemployment; wards 26, 27 and 19 show between 20 and 30 per cent unemployed. The remaining wards show unemployed percentages of between 30 and 50 per cent.

It was on these, for the most part, that the large Roosevelt vote appeared.

The parallel followed throughout the county, as a rule, the hard hit McKeesport and Monongahela Valley from Swissvale, Rankin and Braddock out, giving Roosevelt and the Democrats substantial leads. In the industrial South Side, in the North Side, West End, Democratic votes aided in the revolt. In Bellevue, Mt. Lebanon and other relatively secure sections, economics played less of a role.

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 9.—(INS.) — The Principality of Monaco, one of the smallest independent states in the world, has been sold to France, Maurice Bouilloux Lafont, Minister of State, announced last night.

Under the terms of the treaty just concluded, France will pay $520,000 cash and $150,000 yearly forever to the family of Prince Louis of Monaco for the privilege of administering the principality and its famed Casino.

The treaty accords France the right to fortify the rock of Monaco. All residents, including many wealthy Americans, will be obliged to pay heavier French taxes.

LINDYS LEAVE RETREAT, VOTE

RINGOES, N. J., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh came here from their Hopewell home, six miles away, to cast their vote in the presidential election.

Mrs. Lindbergh received ballot No. 220 and the Colonel the next ballot in sequence. Neither would state who they hoped would win the election, but it is known the Colonel favored President Hoover's candidacy and Mrs. Lindbergh, daughter of the late Republican Senator Dwight W. Morrow, has always been Republican.

This was the first public appearance of the Lindberghs since the birth of their second son.

STATE SCHOOL HEADS URGE ECONOMY

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Changes in the school code to reduce the school cost in Pennsylvania by almost $25,000,000 in the next two years were proposed today at the opening of the annual education congress.

The proposed changes were drafted by the finance committee of the commission for the study of educational problems in Pennsylvania. This commission was appointed at last year's congress and was charged with drafting a 10-year plan for development of education in Pennsylvania. First reports from the commission on this proposed program will be made at the present session of the congress.

GRAHAM GIVES PLAN

The committee's proposal school economy program, presented by Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of the Pittsburgh public schools, follows:

1—Establishment of a new principle for distribution of state school subsidiaries by providing a teaching unit based on pupil ratios with quotas of $1,200 and $1,300 per unit, respectively, for eight-month and nine-month school terms.

2—Provision of temporary emergency relief by suspending annual increments in excess of salaries paid during the present year and provision for a 10 per cent reduction in teachers' salaries paid during this year.

PRESENT SYSTEM HIT

3—Amendment of the school law to provide that the state shall pay $200 annually for each school already permanently closed for a period not exceeding 10 years from the date of closing and that no district be reimbursed for additional schools closed in the future.

Dr. Graham explained that the present system of state school subsidies is based on population and number of teachers without regard to pupil enrollment. He said this system, established in 1921, has been criticised as unfair to the poorer districts and because it does not distribute state aid on the basis of relative ability to pay taxes. He said it also permits certain districts to get more state aid money by adding unnecessary teachers.

The new plan, he said, would eliminate these objections and would "be a real help to needy districts."

TALE OF GOLD CACHE DOUBTED

County Detectives John Geisler and Bernard Cunning today were inclined to disbelieve the $5,000 gold theft story of George S. Schnetzer, of Hawthorne Farms, Carnot.

Schnetzer had told friends that he dug up a pot containing $2,000 in gold coins in the woods October 4, and buried it in the cellar from which it was stolen. When detectives questioned him, he told them the pot contained $5,000 and that he dug it up last Thursday.

Schnetzer was taken to the woods, where he said he found the gold. He pointed out a place which the detectives said had no appearance of having been dug up recently.

VOTE FAKE LAID TO MINISTER

The Rev. W. W. Canton, Negro minister, was committed to the county jail last night by Alderman Robert H. Logan of the Fifth Ward after he was alleged to have attempted to vote from 134 Wooster street—vacant until yesterday.

The minister was said to have attempted to cast a ballot in the Second District of the Fifth Ward.

According to the information the Wooster street house became tenanted yesterday—election day—when a man named Amos moved in. Shortly afterward it was reported Canton attempted to vote.

Canton was held in default of $1,000 bail.

Philadelphia Votes To Keep Machines

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9. — (AP.)—Philadelphia voted yesterday in favor of the continued use of voting machines—saying "no" 249,545 times.

Under the wording of a referendum proposal—"Shall the use of voting machines be discontinued in Philadelphia" — a "yes" vote meant discontinuance; a "no" vote favored retention.

The proposal to discard the machines was backed by the Republican organization. It received 153,704 "yes" votes.

Slovak Head Sends Wire to Roosevelt

Upon learning of Gov. Roosevelt's sweeping victory in yesterday's election, the Rev. Father C. J. Hrganek, pastor of St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church, Homestead, sent the following telegram to the President-elect:

"Your election is our pride and hope for the poor working man. In the name of our Slovak Catholic Federation of America we congratulate you and greet you."

WILD CARGO

By FRANK BUCK

With EDWARD ANTHONY

Louis' suggestion came back to me as I was getting in shape another remarkable shipment of birds which I hoped to sell at good prices in Japan and America.

For days I found my mind recurring to the possibility of trying his experiment. Aside from the money to be made, I felt that the test would have a certain scientific value.

Finally, unable to dismiss the idea from my mind, I decided to try it out. I selected a splendid young specimen of the species known as the "greater bird of paradise," a creature of almost incredible loveliness, whose tongue is practically identical with that of the crow, and whose bill is the same shape and only slightly smaller in size.

My carefully conceived plan was to provide a feathered tutor for my pupil. For this purpose I took, not a parrot, but a hill mina, which is a much more adept talker than any parrot. This coal-black bird (about the size of an American magpie) is an inveterate mimic and will repeat almost any word or sound which it hears frequently enough. I selected a young one, separating it from all my other birds so that the only sound or phrase it would hear would be the one I wanted it to learn.

MINA LEARNS PHRASE

I planned to get the mina letter-perfect in the phrase which later I hoped it would teach to the paradise bird. This must be a phrase which, coming from a bird, would amuse the average American audience, and I decided upon the following: "Hello, how's business?"

Without much difficulty I got the mina, which I dubbed "Gabby," to repeat this phrase over and over. Whenever anybody came near Gabby's cage, the mina would flutter against the wire and fix its beady eyes on the visitor, shrieking in an unending repetition its call: "Hello, hello, hello. How's business? How's business?"

Each time Gabby would be rewarded by a bit of banana. And the visitor, whether it was one of my animal boys or a guest, was instructed to reply by repeating Gabby's own words and no others, so that as far as Gabby was concerned, there were no other sounds or syllables in existence.

When Gabby was satisfactorily schooled, I brought in the paradise bird which I had selected for my experiment, placing the two in adjoining cages. The paradise bird had been named the Earl of Dobo, his place of origin having been the forest near Dobo, nondescript capital of the Aru Islands.

Side by side the two cages hung for weeks. Gabby chattered volubly all day long, and the Earl of Dobo could not fail to be impressed with the fact that every time anybody came into the room Gabby's vocal effort was rewarded with a tasty gift of some enticing dainty.

INTEREST DEVELOPED

All visitors were instructed to go to the Earl's cage and repeat the phrase "Hello, how's business?" At the same time they would hold out a tiny piece of rambutan, a jungle fruit which the paradise bird craves beyond any other delicacy. But as long as the Earl remained unresponsive, he got nothing but a look at the morsel.

It was a month or so before the Earl showed that the idea had penetrated his conceited skull. He indicated plainly enough that he wanted the rambutan, and gradually he seemed to be learning that the way to get it was to make a noise like Gabby's refrain.

The New Guinea nobleman developed an interest in his chattering neighbor. He would cock his head to one side when Gabby started talking, and listen.

The next step—made a week later—was to put Gabby and the Earl in the same cage, a big square one measuring six feet on each side.

The Earl tolerated Gabby but he was not above making it plain that, if the mina could talk, he was talented, too. More than once, by way of reminding his chattering cage-mate of his own gifts, he would spread his plumes and strut and give his piercing jungle call at the height of Gabby's gabbling.

SUCCESS AT LAST

Once I got the Earl used to the idea of living with the mina, I busied myself with the job of trying to show him how to get an occasional morsel of rambutan.

I started with the word "hello," easiest of all words for talking birds to learn as has been demonstrated time and again with parrots. I would get the Earl's attention by holding out three or four shelled rambutans. He would fix his eyes greedily on them while I stood facing him, ambitiously repeating the word "hello" over and over.

For two months I worked steadily on this program, and finally I was rewarded by hearing the Earl, each time I came near his cage, making a determined effort to make a noise like that of the mina. It was a long time before he achieved anything beyond a mere noise. But presently the noise separated itself into two syllables, and day by day these two syllables grew more and more to resemble "hell-o."

Each effort he made was rewarded by a morsel of rambutan, and the Earl soon connected cause and effect. At least once every hour somebody would approach the Earl's cage, holding out a tempting piece of rambutan. Having found the key to obtaining this prize, the Earl would concentrate himself on the difficult task. His "hello" was now nearly perfect, and he was beginning to add other syllables, which would soon commence to sound more and more like "how's business."

TRAGEDY WIDOW PUSHES SEARCH

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Hoping searchers may find the body of her husband and daughter, victims of a boating accident off Sabaskong Bay, last Thursday, Mrs. Eymer Petersen, of Chicago, remained at Chabot Camp today, directing the search.

Four lives were lost when a motorboat carrying Mrs. Petersen, her husband, two daughters and their guide, Dennis Chabot, was tossed on the rocky shores of a tiny lake of the Woods Island. In the semi-darkness the small craft was swamped by a heavy sea and only Mrs. Petersen survived.

The Petersen family had arrived from Chicago for a short vacation and were en route to their lodge-camp when the boat capsized.

OWN GUN KILLS BOY HUNTER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Charles White, 14, of Wampum, first hunting victim of the season in Lawrence County, died in the Jameson Memorial Hospital, as a result of a shot from his own rifle, which struck him in the neck. He was wounded within 500 yards of his home but was not found until hours later by Kenneth Lannigan and James T. Bay, members of the searching party that sought him when he failed to return home at dark.

The charge shattered his vocal organs and he was unable to make any outcry, although conscious. Searchers passed within a few feet of him several times before he was found. He was wounded as he leaned on the barrel of the gun, while he kicked into brush to scare up a rabbit. The hammer of the gun accidentally caught on a twig.

Don't Drive a COLD in!

Treat a cold quickly, but intelligently!

Remember, a cold is a germ attack—an internal infection—and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Don't attempt to knock a cold merely with local or outside applications. External treatments can't reach the seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Don't attempt, either, to relieve a cold with a cure-all. A cold is a cold and calls for a COLD remedy. A preparation that's good for all kinds of ills and ailments besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. Many people take remedies that actually make a cold more difficult to relieve because these remedies are constipating and also make the system acid.

The thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine! As your doctor will undoubtedly tell you, he couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if he wanted to.

4 Important Effects!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is prompt and decisive relief for a cold because it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first step in routing a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies it against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for and anything less is inviting serious complications.

No Bad After-Effects

Grove's Bromo Quinine contains no narcotics and is absolutely safe to take. It produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or make the head ring or swim. Its safety, as well as effectiveness, has made it the standard cold tablet the world over.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane wrapped and is sold by every drug store in America. A few of the tablets taken promptly on catching cold will usually expel the cold overnight and banish the danger of its settling in your system. Therefore, at the first sign of a cold, take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A wise measure is to keep it within reach all winter. Be suspicious of any dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

ON GUARD!

So stands your safeguard...
your guaranty of foods of highest quality
...THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION

A personal message from the President of The Kroger Grocery & Baking Company to the millions of men, women and children who depend daily upon the food distributed through nearly 5,000 Kroger Stores

NEARLY two years ago, the executives of The Kroger Grocery & Baking Company asked themselves—"How can we guarantee that the foods in Kroger Stores can always be bought with the fullest confidence in their full-food, full-dollar value?"

That was at the outset of 1931. When too many places, as you now know, shouted "Bargains!"—but sold cheapness. Not only in foods. But in clothes that wouldn't wear. In furniture that wouldn't hold up. In washgoods that looked all right, but washed all wrong. The word value had lost its meaning.

This was the reason for the establishment of THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION. This was the beginning of months of testing and checking to prove the quality of foods. There was no precedent to follow—no other food retailer ever before had endowed such an institution.

Having the equipment to detect, and the authority to reject, any food not of the highest, tested quality, your FOUNDATION has determined the standards to which all Kroger-sold foods must always measure.

Today, a child can do the family shopping safely in any Kroger Store. A young mother can buy soup or cereal for her baby with assurance that it is good beyond question. A wife can serve the family workers with foods that are wholesome, satisfying—and honest. For the protecting arm of THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION is always on guard. Prohibiting any compromise with quality.

WELFARE FUND BUDGET REVEALS LOW OVERHEAD

Administration and Campaign Expense Combined Require Only 3½ Cents of Every Dollar Contributed. Compares Favorably With All Other Large American Communities.

QUESTION OF SALARIES AND EXPENSES DISCUSSED

A comprehensive statement covering the Welfare Fund's budgetary program for the coming year shows that the Fund's overhead will be 3.5 per cent of the $2,480,159.98 budget to be pledged in the November 9-23 campaign. This 3.5 per cent for overhead includes all campaign expenses and assures Allegheny County of retention of the honor of operating its community welfare organization at as low percentage as any other comparable American community.

The budget of $2,480,159.98 was adopted by the Welfare Fund council after an Endorsement Committee had personally inspected the work of every member agency and made a report to the budget committee which, in turn, brought every agency executive into committee hearing and minutely examined every item of every agency budget, approved drastic reductions in salaries and eliminated all projected activities that could be spared without actually crippling any particular organization. The budget committee's report was reviewed by the Board of Directors of the Welfare Fund and sent for final action to the Council.

The split-up of the budget, as officially adopted, is as follows:

HOW MONEY IS TO BE SPENT

12.1 per cent, or $300,000 for the Emergency Association. This will cover the cost of operation of the Association (less than 1 per cent), provide seed, ploughing and fertilizer for the Thrift Garden project in the spring, help to finance the Homeless Men's Bureau, and be drawn on for special items of relief which cannot be secured from public funds.

34.7 per cent, or about $857,000, for the budgets of 15 family agencies, providing relief and services of various types to individuals and families in Allegheny County.

14 per cent, or about $344,000, to 11 health agencies, providing clinic service, milk to children, medical care and treatment and nursing care.

11.2 per cent, or about $274,000, to 12 organizations caring for homeless dependent and neglected children, and giving special attention to problems of delinquency.

JUVENILE TRAINING COST

16 per cent, or about $394,000, to 18 agencies providing spare-time programs for the training of boys and girls, substituting development for delinquency.

3.5 per cent, or about $85,000, to three organizations co-ordinating the services of various individual agencies and supervising the social welfare program.

3.5 per cent, or about $87,000, to the Welfare Fund for campaign and administration costs.

5 per cent, or $125,000, for a contingent fund, the purpose of which is to cover the possible shrinkage in collection of pledges.

The cost of operation of the Welfare Fund this year, including campaign expenses, is 2.3 per cent of the total raised. The estimated cost for next year, on a budget reduced by more than half, is about 3.5 per cent.

As a result of a survey of operating costs in family agencies handling unemployment relief, the Welfare Fund has reached the figure, corroborated by an independent study of appoximately 8 per cent as the administrative cost of handling unemployment relief.

In the case of other Welfare Fund agencies it is necessary to make an individual study of each agency budget and define what is meant by overhead, in order to arrive at any intelligent figure.

IS SALARY OF NURSES OVERHEAD?

For example, the budget of the Public Health Nursing Association, which has been recommended at $150,000 for 1933, goes almost entirely into the salaries of trained nurses who are providing nursing care in the home to thousands of families unable to pay for such care. If this expenditure is classified as overhead, then this organization has a 90 per cent overhead. If it is classified according to what it really represents—that is, actual service to needy families—then the budget of the Public Health Nursing Association is almost 100 per cent direct service, with not more than 2 per cent for supervision and administration.

In the case of child-caring agencies, institutions caring for homeless children show a budget which ranges itself under the items of rent or upkeep of building, salaries of the small directing staff, laundry, food, light, gas, clothing, etc. There is no item in the budget called relief, yet in the true sense every dollar of this budget is being spent to care for homeless children and is actually relief.

The budgets of organizations doing what is called case work and foster home placement of individual children, classify mainly as board paid for the care of the children, and the salaries of the workers who must investigate each individual case, work out a [illegible] see that it is carried [illegible] to a successful conclu[illegible]e again we face the ques[illegible] these salaries overhead, or do they represent actual service given to solve problems of need? Any fair examination of the facts leads to the conclusion that they cannot be called overhead.

Y. M. C. A. BUDGET EXPLAINED

In the case of the Y. M. C. A., the major portion of its operating expenses is secured through memberships, dormitory fees and similar income. This income, however, does not meet the full expense of the organization, which conducts special classes and courses of instruction, develops a general recreational program, operates a free employment service, and is at present providing care to a number of young, homeless men free of charge. A trained staff is required to carry on a wide range of services provided by the Y. M. C. A. It is the small amount necessary to balance income against operating expenses which the Welfare Fund provides. Actually, more than this amount is spent in service to underprivileged boys and adults and in programs carried on outside the Y. buildings.

Normally, the Y. M. C. A. receives 80 per cent of its expenses from operating receipts and memberships. Businessmen's activities pay for themselves, dormitories and restaurants provide additional income over their own cost. At present, however, the income from these sources has shrunk considerably, many of the men living in the dormitories are being carried, though unable to pay rent, and at the same time the organization is making every possible reduction in the amount requested from the Welfare Fund.

ECONOMY OF PREVENTIVE WORK

In the case of both Y. M. C. A. and Boy Scouts it is believed that the dollars spent in education and development of character among boys and young men save themselves many times over in preventing the costly problems of delinquency, crime and maladjustment and in producing better mental and physical health in the community.

To the question of overhead, this additional fact may be added with regard to the whole program financed through the Welfare Fund: It is not fair to measure the total salary expense of Welfare Fund agencies against the contributions requested in the campaign. Many of the organizations secure a part of their income from small fees for service, endowment funds and the like. In order to arrive at any consideration of the relative importance of salaries against the whole program, it would be necessary, at present, to add to the gross budget of the organizations an estimate of the amount of relief from public funds which must be distributed in 1933. Only in this way could a true picture be secured. It would be just as fair to say that all salaries paid in agencies belonging to the Welfare Fund are completely covered by sources of income other than contributions—which is true—as to say that these salaries are paid out of contributions.

On the basis of the total disbursements made through Welfare Fund agencies, which will be necessary for 1933, including public funds, the total of all salaries in all agencies amounts to approximately 10 per cent of the total welfare budget.

There are other criticisms. One of them involves salaries paid to social workers. A recent careful study of salaries paid in social agencies in the Welfare Fund showed that these salaries are lower than salaries for comparable positions in the commercial field even after recent cuts. In addition, the budget committee of the Fund has recommended cuts in these salaries ranging from 25 per cent down to 15 per cent, and the budget of each agency has been reduced by the amount of this reduction.

SOLICITORS UNPAID VOLUNTEERS

All solicitors in the Welfare Fund campaign are people in the community who give their time and service free. Every dollar contributed goes toward meeting the budget which is presented on the back of the general folder.

At campaign report meetings, which are of vital importance in the proper handling of such a huge undertaking as this campaign, workers pay for their own lunches. The Welfare Fund is put to no expense for these meetings. The Chamber of Commerce provides the space for the meetings without charge.

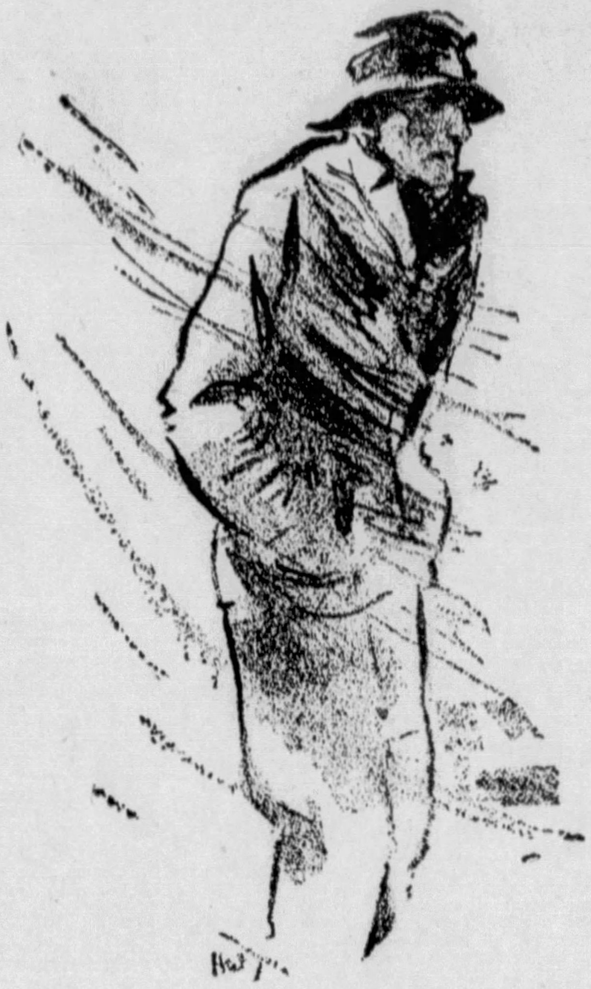
One story which has persisted for more than a year is the story that some individual gave an amount to a family agency, specifying it for a particular family. According to the story, the family received 40 per cent of the money given and the donor was told that the other 60 per cent went for overhead.

This story is not true. It has been heard from all parts of the county with varying amounts. In no case has it been possible to secure the definite name of the donor or the name of the family for which the money was given. Last year the board of directors of the Welfare Fund offered to give from their own pockets $100 to anyone who could submit facts proving the story. No one ever accepted the challenge.

HANDLING OF SPECIFIC DONATIONS

The Family Welfare Association maintains a separate bank account into which any sums given for particular families are placed. The funds in this account cannot be used for anything but relief. No family agency in the Welfare Fund would agree to give a specified amount of cash to a specified family. The agency would undertake to visit the family and provide what was needed in the way of food, clothing, fuel and payment of rent. If any of the amount given was left over, the agency would return it to the donor or, if the donor agreed, would spend it in relief to another family.

We Cannot Fail!



• Starting today, the Welfare Fund will make its appeal to every citizen in Allegheny County for support of a $2,480,000 budget.

• Whether you are business executive, wage-earner, clerk or house-wife, you need to know the facts about this appeal because you will be asked to contribute.

• What does the Walfare Fund do? Why does it need this money?

• The Welfare Fund was established by the contributors of this community to make sure that money given for charitable purposes is spent wisely and effectively. It is managed by representatives of the contributors. It is the most economical way that has been found yet to finance the work of social agencies. Its cost of operation for next year will be only 3.5 percent of the total amount to be raised.

• There are about seventy-five social agencies in the Welfare Fund. These agencies have their shortcomings like other human organizations, but the social agencies as a whole represent the only intelligent effort that has ever been made by the community to solve its social problems. Without this organized program the social and philanthropic work of the community would soon be in a state of confusion, duplication and waste.

• Because of conditions of unemployment the service given by each agency is needed more than it ever was before. The needs of the community have become so great that they cannot be met entirely from contributions as is normally done. Only a fifth of the total welfare budget of Allegheny County is coming from private contributions this year—the balance must be secured from public funds. Success in obtaining these public appropriations, particularly those from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will depend entirely on whether the community does its share voluntarily. For this reason, each contribution to the Welfare Fund has more than a double value.

• The feeding of hungry families must be continued at all costs, but if we stop with this we will accomplish little. The care of homeless children, the safe-guarding of health, the prevention of disease, the maintenance of sound character, are equally vital to the continued existence and security of this community and all of its citizens.

• This is not theory, or foolish idealism or unfounded statement. It is plain common sense. Every agency in the Welfare Fund has been carefully examined by a group of contributors, its program has been approved as a necessary piece of human service, and the figure of its budget set at the lowest amount on which it is believed the program can be carried on.

• Regardless of imperfections in this program, every citizen in Allegheny County has a direct obligation to support the Welfare Fund to the limit of his ability.

• It is easy to be generous when times are good, but now, when it means sacrifice to give, have we the faith, the courage, the sheer grit to stand by those who look to us for help? Every high principle, every fine impulse of our humanity is being put to the test. We cannot fail.

Rebel and You Will Not Be Treated Like a Doormat

Are you a doormat?

Do you give, and give, and give to someone else, and then expect to have a medal pinned on you for it?

Then listen while Bill tells you what happened to him, for being like that!

Dear Sally:

I am writing to you to see if you can give me some suggestions about ending the misery I have endured for the past 10 years. Here is my story.

My wife and I married when we were quite young, and I did everything I could to make her happy. I never stinted her. I gave her a beautiful home, and she has a large circle of friends. I was as good to her as I knew how.

WIFE STUBBORN

As the years went on, however, she grew indifferent and egotistical and extremely stubborn. And today I am considered poor, because I did not take advantage of business transactions that she objected to. I have seen some perfectly good deals that I could have been in on, put over by other people—deals I could have profited by if I could have had my own way. And here is another instance of her indifferent and obstinate nature.

A few months ago, after a strenuous seige of business that kept me closely confined, I had an attack of flu. I went home and wanted to be quiet, but she wanted to play the radio. I asked her to shut it off because I didn't feel well, and after many insulting remarks she finally did stop it. But in order to have her own way she began to play the piano and sing. My nerves were on edge and my head ached, so I asked her if she wouldn't sing and play some other time. Then she became perfectly venomous and began to slander me in a way that was entirely uncalled for.

UNAPPRECIATED

And she has become so haughty that she considers it a disgrace for her to sprinkle the lawn and the flowers. If I ask her to, she replies, "What? Me sprinkle the lawn? I should say not!"

I have never given her any reason to act like this. I have never looked at another woman. And I would like a little appreciation and affection; a little regard for the time and energy I have spent trying to please her, and give her a home and the other things she wants.

But if I don't give her all my money, if I keep out even a little for myself, she refuses to take any of it. And then there is the Old Nick to pay.

So, what am I to do? I can't go on this way. It is affecting my work and making me sick. Can you tell me some honorable way to put an end to my misery? Why does she act this way, when I have tried so hard?

BRUCE.

What'll you do?

Sit down, brother, and take a good look at yourself. You say you "haven't given her any reason to act like that." But the brutal truth is—you have. How?

By letting her walk on you until you taught her to despise you for a weakling.

WIFE DISAPPOINTED

No woman wants a weakling for a husband. She may rejoice in being boss at first, but inevitably she resents it. And there's a reason. Marriage implies protection for a woman. A woman desires and expects her husband to be strong. She feels cheated if he isn't, and she actually is cheated. There's something missing in the bargain. And so she's resentful, and takes it out on the spineless male who has allowed her to despise him.

You haven't been a big-hearted hero to your wife. You've just been a big disappointment. And she's mad and disgusted. That's why she bullies you. And perhaps, even yet, she hopes to jar you into showing some spunk.

Then show it, brother! Stop acting like a worm, and you won't be treated like one. Hang on to your own pay check and your own self-respect. Then maybe she'll respect you in return.

'He's All Right' a Conversational Panacea, Says Fay King.

IT HURTS MY FEELINGS WHEN HE PRAISES SOME OTHER GIRL TO ME!
I DON'T MEAN THAT I DISAIKE HER. I JUST DO NOT LIKE THE WAY SHE ACTS
WHO IS THAT GIRL WITH HIM? I'LL SAY SHE HAS CLASS, THAT BABY HAS!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Most of the spats between young couples spring from the thoughtless praise they give to another.

No girl likes to hear her boy friend rave over another girl's class and good looks. Nor does the boy friend enjoy hearing her rave over how handsome some other fellow is or how well he dances.

Think what you may, but say nothing, because you do not think nearly as much as you are likely to express.

I'd make it a taboo either to praise or to criticize anyone else to the one you love.

It only causes pain or starts an argument.

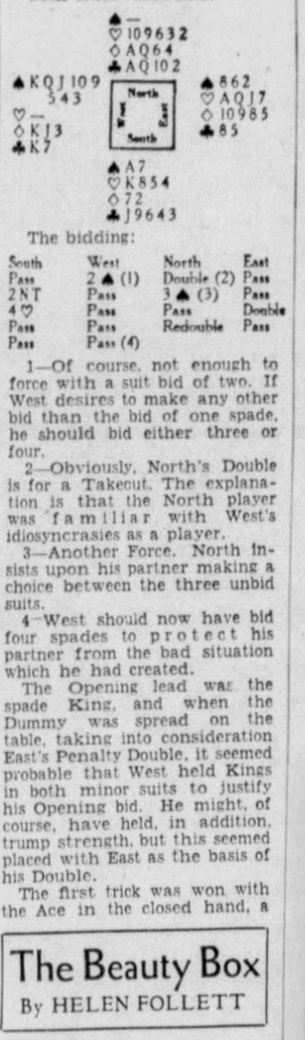
Contract Bridge -:- -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Poor Opening Bid

Violations of the accepted standards laid down governing Opening bids, particularly Opening bids of two in a suit, which carry with them a clear promise of great honor strength, usually result in disaster for the player who takes a chance. The West player on the hand below, holding, as he thought, 7 sure trumptricks and the probability of 3 tricks in other suits, elected to violate a rule of bidding by opening with Contract's strongest bid—the Opening Forcing bid of two in a suit. The sequel, in the bidding and play, disclosed the unwisdom of such a course.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	2 ♠ (1)	Double (2)	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 ♠ (3)	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass (4)

1—Of course, not enough to force with a suit bid of two. If West desires to make any other bid than the bid of one spade, he should bid either three or four.

2—Obviously, North's Double is for a Takeout. The explanation is that the North player was familiar with West's idiosyncrasies as a player.

3—Another Force. North insists upon his partner making a choice between the three unbid suits.

4—West should now have bid four spades to protect his partner from the bad situation which he had created.

The Opening lead was the spade King, and when the Dummy was spread on the table, taking into consideration East's Penalty Double, it seemed probable that West held Kings in both minor suits to justify his Opening bid. He might, of course, have held, in addition, trump strength, but this seemed placed with East as the basis of his Double.

The first trick was won with the Ace in the closed hand, a small club led, and the Queen finessed. A small heart was led from Dummy, upon which East played the 7, and South the 8. The deep finesse appeared the best way of assuring the contract. A club was returned, won with the Ace in Dummy, and another heart led. East now played the Ace, but the fate of the East and West partnership was sealed. Not only did South, aided by an unsound Opening Forcing bid, make his contract, but an overtrick as well, as East, even though he held four trumps including the Ace-Queen-Knave, was able to make but two of them.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

South is Declarer. During the play of the hand he leads a club from Dummy when the lead is in his own hand. He has no clubs in his hand. What is the rule covering this situation?

Answer: Having no clubs, the penalty is considered paid, and he is free to lead any card he chooses from the closed hand.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Club Sandwich

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly advise how one should eat a club sandwich, or any three decker sandwich?

Should one cut the sandwich with a knife and use a fork to eat it? I don't see how one would use one's fingers. S.

The careful and correct eating of a club sandwich or any other kind of "skyscraper" sandwich demands the use of a knife and a fork and a lot of patience. We shouldn't use our fingers . . . you are right . . . for usually sandwiches of this kind are goo-y, and if we use our fingers in eating them our fingers become messy and the whole business of eating the sandwich becomes unattractive.

What we should do is to cut off a small mouthful at a time, eating this before we cut off the next piece. We can, if we wish, place our knife down on the plate after we have cut off the piece, or if we are "non-fork-shifters," we can hold the knife in our right hand and convey the mouthful with our fork in the left hand. This fork in the left hand. This latter method means that there isn't so much fussiness about the proceeding.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Anxious to Begin Search for Girls

"No," Dr. Barnes said, "we can find no one who has seen either Marion or Carolyn since 40 minutes before dinner time, when they promised their two mates to bring them back some autumn leaves."

I saw that uncontrollable shaking of Lillian's hands begin again, but her voice was steady.

"The hospitals?" she said.

"This evening I had a trusted friend in the village call up every hospital, under the pretense that a young relative of his had not come home from a motor trip and he was worried about an accident. This was less than an hour ago, and no young woman had been received at that time at any hospital within a radius of 30 miles of here. He also called up the police departments of the larger towns around here and the nearest office of the state constabulary."

"You have covered every point," Harry Underwood said approvingly. "And will these hospitals and police stations report to your friend if any accidents to women occur?"

"Immediately," Dr. Barnes replied.

"Then," Mr. Underwood rejoined, "I do not see that there is anything else that we can do tonight."

"We can search the roads," Lillian broke in vehemently.

Her husband apparently acquiesced at once.

"Of course we can, dearest," he said, "and we will start in a very few minutes, if you so decide. But, have you thought that it is pitch dark, and that it will be impossible to see anything except the roads, of which every inch has been traversed many times by different cars since the girls left? Don't you think you had better save your strength so that we can start at daylight?"

BRIXTONS ON WAY

"Of course, you are right," she said. "Besides, your father, Madge, will be here some time before morning. He will telephone here from the next village and find out where to meet us. What time will Wynne and Brock arrive?" She turned to her husband.

"They ought to be here within an hour or two. Each is coming in his own car." He turned to Dr. Barnes. "I told them to come here and call for us, figuring that your pupils would all be in bed. Should I have had them telephone first?"

"Oh, no, indeed!" Dr. Barnes said quickly.

"The Brixtons?" Lillian asked.

"Mr. Brixton said they were starting immediately." Dr. Barnes said. "I telephoned them immediately after I telephoned you. I do not know how long their journey will take."

Harry Underwood looked at his watch and made a mental calculation. "They should be about two hours behind us," he announced.

"Will you wish to see them when they come?" Dr. Barnes asked Lillian.

FOOD OFFERED

"Oh, of course," Lillian said quickly. "Poor Helena! She must be nearly insane."

"They both are, naturally," Dr. Barnes rejoined. And again I heard that note of restrained anxiety in his voice. "Mr. Brixton wished me to send out a general police alarm at once throughout the country, and I had great difficulty in persuading him to wait until they could see you people here. If you had not given me explicit instructions for a contrary procedure I could not have withstood him, but he finally agreed, when I told him of your opinion, to wait until he could see you."

"We have rooms already prepared for you," she said. "Will you not go to them and get what rest you can until the others come? But first you must have something hot. It is all ready. I kept my most trusted maid up to see to it."

"I can touch nothing," Lillian said chokingly, but Mrs. Barnes smiled at her reassuringly, as she touched the bell.

"I don't expect you to eat a meal," she said. "I know that is impossible. I only have a little something hot to keep up your strength."

The trays which a pleasant-faced, slightly lame woman brought in a minute later bore out her statement. Hot coffee, hot broth, tiny crackers and plates of delicately browned toast showed that she understood the repugnance any of us would have to hearty food.

With her big husband standing over her, begging her "for Marion's sake, to keep strong for the work in front of her," Lillian managed to swallow a few spoonsful of broth, a half cup of coffee and a half slice of the toast. The rest of us did a little better, but we were soon finished, and Mrs. Barnes, tactfully refraining from urging us to eat more, rang for the maid to clear away.

There was a slight delay in the answer, and when the maid came in there were traces of strong excitementt in her face.

"Rose is here," the girl said quickly. "She said you asked her to report anything that she had heard."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Startling make-up became a general practice just after the war, and think how long ago that was! Time the gals chucked dizzy batik.

Women who go on a reducing spree, cut out fats, sweets and starches, observe a change in the complexion weather, which goes suddenly dry. That diet deficiency has something to do with scaly scalps, chapped skins, brittle finger nails and itchy body surface is a pretty well established fact. Oily applications — heavy massage creams—supply the skin with a substitute for its natural exudations of oil, so necessary for the satin finish. Ice rubs are in order so that, as reducing goes on, facial tissues and fibers won't fall flat, take on folds and creases. Gaining the new figure doesn't mean much if the price paid is an older-looking face.

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis, of Detroit, writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drug store in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you.

Household Hints

Fuller's earth should be used instead of soap for cleaning paint that is very dirty.

If milk puddings get burned, remove the burned skin, add some more milk and a little butter and rebake in a gentle oven.

If you should blunt your machine needle and have no other on hand to replace it, stitch for a few inches, through fine sandpaper. It will sharpen the point beautifully.

Cold ABORTION

(with lemon juice)

Have you ever tried aborting a cold? When you abort your cold, it's gone; the system is rid of it! The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to halfway remedies.

EACH DAY THE WOMEN OF AMERICA

vote for their favorite COFFEE

What political candidate could stand the searching test of a daily vote—and stay very long in office? But that's the test the A & P Coffee Trio stand.

Their taste and quality cannot vary or their popular favor would be lost. For taste and quality alone, the women of America buy more of the A & P Coffee Trio than any other three coffees in the world. And every day more women rally around the A & P Coffee Standard. And remember, the coffee you like best is the best for you, no matter what it costs.

Studio Gives Voices to Beasts

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndi., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.

Studio sound departments are used to reproducing thousands of queer noises, but the most bizarre assignment of all has just been completed by Murray Spivak, of R-K-O.

This expert has given voices to eight prehistoric monsters which fellow technicians had visually reproduced and animated for the picture, "King Kong."

Several of the country's most distinguished scientists were stumped when Mr. Spivak asked them what kind of noises you might expect from a dinosaur, a triceratop or a pterodactyl.

George Brent

O. A. Peterson, curator of mammalian paleontology at Carnegie Museum, argued that modern reptiles are so limited in their abilities for reproducing sounds that it would be futile to speculate upon the vocal aptitudes of their ancestors.

Refusing to give up, Mr. Spivak appealed to J. W. Lytle, vertebrate paleontologist of the Los Angeles Museum.

Dr. Lytle was less discouraging. He said:

"That is no proof that these monsters made sounds, yet it would be presumptuous to say they didn't.

"For the dinosauria, I would suggest you reproduce various degrees of hissing sounds; for the mammals, such as the arsinotherium, an admixture of grunts and groans would seem in order."

And so Mr. Spivak set to work. The first hisses of the tyrannosaurus were too effeminate. After may efforts, he finally turned the trick by forcing columns of air pressure through various sizes and shapes of apertures. And to give the hiss even more menace, he re-recorded it at a subnormal speed. This lowered the sound an octave.

The arsinotherium was vocalized by blowing a column of air through a vox humana pipe of an old organ. Because this was a recognizable sound, Spivak reversed the noise track. A simple little trick, but it produced an awful bull-like groan.

Mary Brian

Eight times the expert taxed his ingenuity to the limit and eight times his efforts met with final success. Many months of labor, but just an incident in the great romance of film making.

HOLLYWOOD PARADE

Latest polo casualty in Hollywood is George Brent. He twisted two vertebrae in his neck. But he will not give up the game . . . Arthur Loew, M. G. M.'s air-minded executive, cables the studio that he hopped in a single day from Hanoi, French Indo-China, to Calcutta. By boat this would have taken eight weeks . . . Charles "Buddy" Rogers is giving Mary Brian a terrific rush. They had another date Saturday night at the first Mayfair party of the year . . . And Jackie Cooper spent the weekend on Tom Mix's ranch . . . You have to admire the philosopical way in which George O'Brien takes his many injuries.

When Helen MacKellar arrived in town, photographers wanted to get a picture of her against a truck-load of baggage. As luck would have it, they picked the grips belonging to Ruth Taylor (Remember, "Gentlemen prefer Blondes?") such is Hollywood.

Tech to Give Ibsen Play

Under the direction of E. W. Hickman, students in the Department of Drama at the Carnegie Institute of Technology will present Ibsen's "Pillars of Society" as the second production of the season in the Little Theater of the College of Fine Arts. It will open Friday and will run until Thursday of next week. The opening will be a special performance for the alumni. The first production, Lewis Beach's "Ann Vroome," played to record audiences last week.

"Pillars of Society" is one of Ibsen's earlier plays, written during a period of transition from the poetic and romantic ideal to the concrete presentation of the real problems of life, and while he was definitely under the influence of Scribe, the inventor of the well-made play. The plot, therefore, is melodramatic, and many scenes are effectively theatrical, especially according to the older ideas of good theater. Action is laid in a small Norwegian community, and deals with the hypocricy, the gossiping, the narrow-mindedness of the petty bourgeoisie.

A double, and in some cases a triple, cast will take the roles, following the aim of the department to provide as much opportunity for acting as is possible for the students. Thomas Gorman and Franklin Heller play the lead, Karston Bernick, whose lofty position in the community is based on a living lie. Johan will be played by Boyd Crawford and George McCalmon; Dina Dorf by Jane Witmer, Audrey Kelley and Mary Dingfelder. Thirty-five others will take part, in addition to the student staff in charge of technical arrangements.

Checks Hats

Hollywood Designers Setting Styles

In Paris and other noted style centers suffering a setback and is Hollywood becoming the monarch of the fashion world?

There are those who claim that Paris, Vienna, London and even our own New York are fast sinking into second place as providers of the popular type of feminine habiliments and that the clothes of the film stars are fast becoming the ruling passion.

There is no doubt but that Hollywood designers have the edge on their competitors across the sea.

Producers have often been accused of going back even as far as Joe Miller's grandfather for their comedy, but Earl Carroll went back into prehistoric times for one of the bits in "Vanities," ninth edition, coming Monday to the Nixon. That is, if you can call a dinosaur a "bit." It is 60 feet long, operated by man-driven mechanism, and it is said to be quite realistic. Seats for "Vanities" will be on sale in the b. o. on the morrow.

The Shetland pony that Eddie Vail has been promising to give to some kiddie will be awarded at next Saturday's matinee performance of "The Good Fairy" in the Pitt. The Vail Players this week are rehearsing "Unexpected Father," comedy that will be presented next week in the Penn avenue theater. Betty Hanna, the new leading woman, will be featured. For the week following, which will be that in which Thanksgiving Day falls, Mr. Vail has engaged Blanche Ring to appear as guest star. She will be seen in "Cradle Snatchers."

"Red Dust," the Jean Harlow-Clark Gable picture in the Penn, is attracting more customers than any film in that house in eight months . . . Maurice Chevalier will begin a week of five appearances daily in the Paramount, New York, Friday . . . Ruth Etting, who has made a series of two-reel Vitaphone films, will go to Hollywood about the first of the year to make a feature picture . . . William Harrigan, at present appearing in "Criminal-at-Large," in New York, is a member of a stage family of 300 years standing in the theater, and, as a child, he never thought of being anything but a player . . . Another member of the same company, Alexandra Carlisle, has just been awarded the gold medal for good diction by the American Academy of Arts and Letters, of which Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler is president . . . George White's new production, "Music Hall Varieties," will open next Monday in Philly.

Murray Signs for 'Air Hostess'

James Murray, who created his first sensation as the boy in "The Crowd," was signed this week by Columbia Pictures for the principal part in "Air Hostess." He will play opposite Evalyn Knapp, who portrays the heroine—one of the intrepid young women who fly the great transcontinental lines for their living.

'Life Begins' to Open In Enright Friday

For this week only, the Enright will open its week-end picture attraction Friday instead of Saturday, the usual opening day. This will give "Life Begins," with Loretta Young, Aline MacMahon and Eric Linden, a four-day showing.

Engineers to Discuss Employe-Owned Cars

"Use of Employe-Owned Cars in Business" will be discussed at a meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers in the Fort Pitt Hotel Thursday night. John M. Orr, manager Equitable Auto Company, will make the principal address. Frederick K. Glynn, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, also will speak.

Ostrowsky Reading To Be Given Sunday

A program of Yiddish, Hebrew and Russian folk music and dramatic readings will be presented by Chaim Ostrowsky, Palestine artist, at the Y. M. & W. H. A., Sunday night. Ostrowsky is a former member of the Moscow Habima Theater.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Saturday Night Trouble

THIS ISN'T a strange story. Neither is it unusual. I've seen dozens of cases just like it come and go in Night Court. I've heard of countless others from readers. The characters aren't fancy. They might be the lady and man next door. But the story appealed to me. And I thought it might help you to pass a minute or two, wherever you might be.

We'll call the man Johnny. And the woman—let me see—Myrtle. There you are. Johnny and Myrtle. Man and wife. He's tall and thin. She's short and fat. Could anything be sweeter? I think so.

They've been married five years. And anyone who has been married that long is a veteran and a hero. Especially Johnny. For he had a sense of independence . . .

Myrtle was a good woman. She loved her husband, and if he didn't love her, I don't know my characters. Now, Myrtle had but one fault to find with Johnny. Saturday Night Trouble.

Ever hear of it before? Sure you have. The guy who is meek and mild all week blossoms out on Saturday night with the boys. And at 3 or 4 in the morning, he rolls home in a taxicab, full of smiles and beer.

Myrtle hated that. Hated it with all her heart. And the moment Johnny came in the front door, she was standing there to meet him.

"Well," she'd say, tapping one foot. "You've been drinking again. Out with 'the boys,' eh? You're a fine looking sot."

Johnny would stand there, grinning foolishly and fumbling to put his keys in his pocket. That grin always came home with him on Saturday night. He was a cheerful little beerful.

Then Myrtle's voice would change.

"Oh, Johnny," she would say, "why do you do this? Every Saturday night it's the same. The boys. The boys. What do they ever do for you? Would one of them help you out if you needed a dollar? Of course not.

"What does it get you, Johnny? Nothing. Nothing but a headache on Sunday morning. Besides, you spend $10. And $10 these days is a lot of money. You're not a millionaire. You're a shipping clerk. You only make $35 a week.

"Then, too, you should think of me once in awhile. I'd like to go out on Saturday night. Like tonight, for instance. Greta Garbo was playing at the Bijou. I wanted to see that picture.

"But I wouldn't think of going alone. If my own husband wouldn't go with me, I'd rather—Johnny! Are you listening to me?"

By this time Johnny would be dozing on a bedroom chair. His head would slowly fall to one side. Then, suddenly, it would straighten up with a jerk. Then it would slowly slip to the other side. But when Myrtle said "Johnny!!! Are you listening to me?" he always came to with a snap.

Then he would try to look dignified. He would wet his lips with his tongue to lend fluency to his speech. His eyes would squint in the bedroom light.

"Baby," he would say, "Saddy night b'longs to me. Unnastand? Saddy night is mine. I work hard all week, doan I? Sure I do. You're darn tootin' I do.

"An' the oney money I keep outta my sal'ry is ten bones. The res' goes to you. Ammi right? You're darn tootin' I'm right. Now Saddy night is my one night. It's mine. I go out with my frens. I get a 'lil' bun on. Any harm done? 'Course not.

"Why doanshoo go out on Saddy nights, baby? Get a lil' un on y'self. Sure. Attsy idea. Does ya lotsa good. F'get yer worries. The devil with evvything. See, baby? No harm done. Saddy night is my one night. Okay?"

Myrtle wouldn't answer. She was already in bed. She knew that little speech by heart. And thus they lived for five years. With the exception of Saturday nights, they got along as well as most couples.

Funny thing. When you're not personally concerned with an argument, you can see both sides very clearly. I can understand how Myrtle felt. And I can sympathize with her. But I also see Johnny's side of the story. I think that he wasn't wrong when he asked for one night a week to himself and suggested that she do likewise.

But they didn't consult old man Hellinger about their troubles. Which was probably just as well. Instead, their argument grew worse until Myrtle walked out one day.

She figured that Johnny would hold out for a few days and then come running for her.

But he didn't. He was very much peeved. He couldn't see how he had committed any great crime. Therefore, there was no reason why she should leave him. So he stayed home every night—except Saturday.

After three weeks, Myrtle came back. The homecoming was great, Johnny cried. Myrtle cried. And they wound up by arguing about next Saturday. Johnny became stubborn. Saturday night now meant more to him than ever.

The fact that she made such a fuss about it made him determine not to give it up. It became his sense of independence. If he gave in now, he would be a mollycoddle. He would lose all his self-respect. And so on, far into the night . . .

Myrtle had one ace left to play. She determined that, mean as it was, she would play it. Her one solace lay in the fact that she was sure that this final resort would cure him of Saturday night drinking.

Johnny must have been surprised when he walked into the house that night. There was the cop, right in the hallway. He grabbed Johnny and marched him to the station house before he could even speak to Myrtle.

In court, Johnny refused to say anything, beyond the barest truths concerning his name, age and residence. Myrtle took the witness stand and said that he came home drunk very often and beat her. The judge asked Johnny if it was true. Johnny shrugged his shoulders.

The judge gave Johnny three months in the workhouse. Myrtle smiled when the judge passed sentence. She turned to Johnny. He gave her a contemptuous glance.

"How could you do this to me?" he asked.

Myrtle shrugged her shoulders.

"I'm curing your Saturday night trouble," she replied indifferently. "After this, you'll stay home." . . .

The first month in jail, Johnny kept digging up schemes for revenge. But the second month changed him. He began to feel that she had only done it to help him. By the time the third month rolled around, he wanted nothing more than to be home with Myrtle again. He forgave her completely.

And that's all there is. Were you expecting a surprise ending? Well, there's none that I can offer you. Johnny went home to Myrtle. They're still together.

Oh, yes—Myrtle won her victory. Johnny stays home on Saturday nights now. There's nothing else he can do because he hasn't any money. As soon as he was convicted his company fired him. And now he can't find a job! . . .

'Chain Gang' Has Muni

Paul Muni, last seen in "Scarface," is the star of "I am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," film that will begin an engagement tomorrow in the Stanley. This story was taken from the sensational book of that title by Robert E Burns, who twice escaped from a chain gang and who is still a fugitive. More than 37 players have prominent roles in the production and more than 600 are seen in one sequence of the picture.

It was Burns' book, "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang" that received so much publicity recently in newspapers throughout the United States. Intertwined in the picture story is the romance of Muni with two women.

Besides Muni the cast has Glenda Farrell, Helen Vinson, Preston Foster, Allen Jenkins, Oscar Apfel, John Wray, Hale Hamilton, Robert Warwick, Walter Long and many others.

Three Women Stars Exchange Roles

Three of Hollywood's leading women have exchanged roles as the result of a shift in Paramount production schedules. Carole Lombard will have the role in "No Man of Her Own" originally planned for Miriam Hopkins, while Constance Cummings has been awarded the featured role in "The Billion Dollar Scandal" which had been scheduled for Miss Lombard. Miss Hopkins was released from the cast of "No Man of Her Own" so that she might begin preparations for an important part in "The Song of Songs."

'Acquitted' Role Goes To Mae Clarke

Mae Clarke was engaged this week by Columbia Pictures to play the leading feminine role in "Acquitted" opposite Alan Dinehart, is a story of a ruthless and masterful criminal lawyer, who seeks to commit the so-called perfect crime. Written by Keene Thompson and adapted for screening by Jo Swerling, it will go into production immediately under the direction of R. William Neill.

DAMP-SET YOUR HAIR

NEW HAIR-CLEANING AND WAVE-SETTING DISCOVERY BY OFFICIAL HAIRDRESSER OF UNITED ARTISTS STUDIOS

Damp-setting has spread to every movie lot. We owe this discovery to Miss Beatrice Mabie, in charge of the hairdressing salons for United Artists. Those perfect coiffures you see in the newest pictures were damp-set. You can give your hair this same treatment at home, and make your wave last indefinitely.

This astonishing discovery saves hours of time and many dollars spent in frequent washing and waving. It makes any wave last for weeks. It keeps the hair fastidiously clean. And it's done in two minutes without disarranging your hair!

Here's all you need for the treatment: any small bowl, a tiny sponge or pinch of cotton for a "pat" and about an ounce of Danderine. (If you haven't any Danderine in the house, a bottle costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store.) And here's all you do: with hair combed just as you wear it, dampen locks by patting (not rubbing) in between waves, to set them. Pat backward where wave goes back; forward where the wave comes toward the front. Keep the little pat merely damp, never wet.

Do this once a week and you'll always have a ripple in your hair; and never any grease, for Danderine is a solvent and cuts grease. Your wave will always look fresh and new; a light finger-wave holds for several weeks. And Danderine is already famous for the sheen and lustre it imparts to any hair.

PITT HEADS WEST TONIGHT

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Brilliant Career Ending. Trojans Survive Losses.
Heller Consistent Star. Majors Reserve 530.
Never Plays Poor Game. Old Ring Date Revived.

PANTHER BACK RANKS WITH GREATEST

PITTSBURGH HAS AN individual as well as a team among the standouts of the year in American football. With only three games left to play, Warren Heller, Panther left halfback, is nearing the end of a career that rivals any in the country for consistent excellence. Competent observers regard him as the equal of any Pitt halfback of recent seasons and of any one now playing the position in the entire college field. Not many Hellers are running around anywhere.

Warren Heller

Here's a lad who never has played a poor game for Pitt. He is beautifully consistent, despite a brilliance that usually is not associated with that steady dependability. From the standpoint of game-in-game-out quality, he ranks any halfback that ever wore Panther togs. And as to durability, the capacity to stay in there and take it and still be playing topnotch football, think over the list and find any one else, save perhaps John Anderson 10 years ago, who has so regularly played all of every important game, or at least always until Pitt had a safe lead. As a finished football player, he is a coach's dream come true.

HELLER IS THE best passer that Pitt ever possessed, one of the coolest and most accurate that ever played for any team. There have been few better ball carriers, better in the sense of consistent ground-gaining, in the ability to get that extra yard or two with a lunge when tackled, to pick holes, to follow interference, to reverse a field, or to escape a tackler single-handed when need be.

There has been none, absolutely none, more valuable on defense, against both passes and running plays. The Steelton boy's tackling is deadly, his ability to sense the direction of an enemy play remarkable. In the opinion of many, the only Pitt back of recent years comparable to Heller is Gibby Welch, who was heavier, stronger, and equally brilliant. But with all his unquestioned all-America class the great Gibby now and then had an off day. Heller has none.

THE PRESENT PITT star can pass all around any other Panther back who might be compared with him, blocks better, plays as well or better on defense. Those who know what players of various types mean to a team would hesitate before picking any predecessor over Heller.

Incidentally, Warren had so little self-confidence and so little experience when he came here that he failed to make the freshman team. Dr. Sutherland, in the spring practice following that season, saw his potentialities, and before the middle of the first varsity season Heller was a regular.

HELLER, IN CONSEQUENCE, may be termed a true Pitt product. He acquired all of his gridiron class right here. Perhaps for that reason, and perhaps because of an innate modesty and sense of the fitness of things, he is one of the best team players and most popular lads that Pitt ever had on a pigskin squad. Fandom regrets that his career is closing, sorry to see the last of one of the greatest players the city ever knew. And there is a general feeling that if Heller is not given very serious consideration when the all-America team builders make their selections, justice will not have been done.

Howard Jones

WITH OREGON TO be met Saturday, and Washington on Thanksgiving Day, it looks as though Southern California, having won all of its six games to date, may struggle up to the Notre Dame tilt on December 10 with a perfect record.

The success of Coach Howard Jones in producing what is so far another undefeated team is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that his national champion machine of a year ago was wiped out almost in its entirety and he was forced to build all over again.

OF ALL THE leading performers in that drama of last fall, when the Trojans scored 16 points in the final period to end Notre Dame's long undefeated streak, only one still wears a Southern California uniform. He is Ray Sparling, left end. Tay Brown, Ernie Smith, Aaron Rosenberg and Larry Stevens are left of the linemen, but they were not among the standouts in the overthrow of the Irish.

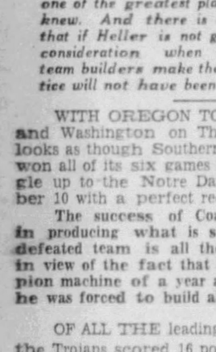
Missing are Johnny Baker, who kicked the winning field goal; Bob Hall, who gathered in a long pass to set the stage for Baker's kick; Gaius Shaver and Orv Mohler, who starred alternately; Ernie Arbelbide, crack end, and Stan Williamson, center.

THE MAJOR BASEBALL leagues have set a new low for number of players carried on their off-season rosters. The rules require the clubs to file their reserve lists on November 1, each year. Each club is permitted to reserve 40 eligible players, but from the office of Commissioner Landis comes the information that the reservations in both loops total only 530, an average of but 33 to an outfit. Only one club, Brooklyn, is up to the limit. Pittsburgh has reserved only 29, the Braves 24, and the Browns 22.

OUTFIELDER GERALD WALKER, of the Tigers, had several run-ins with Manager Bucky Harris last season and was twice suspended for insubordination. For that reason many fans were inclined to believe reports out of St. Louis that the Browns were going to trade Hadley and Schulte for Walker and Whitehill.

However, President Frank J. Navin, of the Detroit club, insists that the rumor is unfounded, at least in so far as it involves Walker. Navin declares he has no thought of letting the young outfielder go.

IN SUGGESTING THAT his proposed fight with Young Corbett on the coast for the world welterweight championship be set for Washington's Birthday next year, Jackie Fields, the title holder, names a date that has been the occasion of many famous glove battles. February 22 used to be a feature date in the ring game.



Jackie Fields

It was on that day in 1912 that Johnny Kilbane defeated Abe Attell in 20 rounds at Vernon, Cal., for the featherweight championship, which he held for 11 years. On the same afternoon, Frank Klaus whipped Sailor Petroskey, a tough customer, in 20 rounds at San Francisco, and Frank Mantell outpointed Billy Papke in 20 rounds at Sacramento.

STANLEY KETCHEL won the shortest Washington's Birthday fight when he knocked out Mike Twin Sullivan in the first round in 1908. Knockout Brown, once a lightweight sensation, had three fights on that holiday, outpointing One Round Hogan in 1911, shading Matty Baldwin in 1912 and being knocked out by Joe Rivers in 1913. There were many other notable bouts on that date in earlier years. Martin Flaherty knocked out Danny McBride in 1896 and fought a 20-round draw with Oscar Gardner in 1899. Tommy Ryan then middleweight champion, beat Tom McCarthy in 1899. George Gardner knocked out George Byers in 14 rounds in 1900. Terry McGovern beat Dave Sullivan in 15 rounds in 1902.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The championships of Section I and Section II of the City League will be up for settlement tomorrow afternoon when the 12 members of the Walsh circuit wind up their regular schedules.

Westinghouse, coached by O. H. Burton, is riding in the driver's seat of Section I, while Perry, coached by Chester Smith, is heading the parade of contenders in Section II.

Nothing less than a defeat at the hands of Taylor Allderdice will prevent the Silver Lakers of Westinghouse from winning a place in the post-season playoff, while Perry must defeat Langley to assure itself of a chance to play for the city crown.

PEABODY HAS CHANCE

Peabody and Oliver each has a remote chance of emerging winners in their respective sections. If Westinghouse should be upset by Allderdice, Peabody can take the title by defeating Schenley at Peabody.

In Section II, Oliver can capture the title by defeating Allegheny at Oliver, provided Perry bows before Langley at Perry.

With three games offered by both sections, the contests tomorrow should prove a magnet for the scholastic fans. The Westinghouse-Allderdice and Schenley-Peabody games will attract the fans in Section I, while the headliners in Section II bring together Allegheny and Oliver at Oliver and Perry and Langley at Perry. South opposes Fifth Avenue at Schenley High Field and Carrick plays South Hills at Langley Field in the other City League games.

MAY SET NEW MARK

Westinghouse has an opportunity to set a new record for City League championships in football by winning the local crown this year. The Silver Lakers are tied with Schenley at present, each winning the title four times. Schenley, however, holds the edge in titles won since the league was divided into two divisions in 1924, the Bellefielders winning the title four times to Westinghouse's three.

Both Schenley and Westinghouse have held the local crown four times. Westinghouse was the champion in 1921, 1927, 1928 and 1930, while Schenley captured the laurels in 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1929.

The City League has been in operation since 1919, the circuit being divided into two groups in 1924.

School Notes

The Coraopolis Varsity "C" Club will honor the members of the school's football team at a banquet tomorrow evening in the Coraopolis Methodist Episcopal Church. The dinner is being held prior to the annual football classic with Sewickley High, scheduled Friday at Coraopolis. A. G. (Whitey) Clark, coach at Coraopolis, is advisor of the Varsity Club.

Jeannette, coached by Markley Barnes, and tied with New Castle for the lead in the Class AA Conference, can break the deadlock for first place Saturday by defeating Turtle Creek Union at Turtle Creek. New Castle plays a non-league game with Youngstown South.

Bill Sullivan, coach at McKeesport High, still believes the Tubers compare favorably with the strongest teams in the district despite the fact his eleven was held to a deadlock by New Kensington. Sullivan is willing to back up his claims in a post-season game with any school disputing this contention.

The withdrawal of the Uniontown quintet from the W. P. I. A. L. basketball race is regretted by followers of the sport in this vicinity. Coach Everhart's passers of the past years have rated with the best in the district. The Fayette countians won the W. P. I. A. L. title in 1925 and 1926, winning the state crown in 1925.

The Arnold School football team is hard at work preparing for its battle Saturday with Western Reserve Academy at Bradd son, O. The game will be played on the Braddock avenue grounds. Paul M. Hevelin, former coach at Braddock High, is mentor at Arnold.

One of the best night games offered local fans this season will be staged tomorrow at Scott Field, when Coach Bradford Hudson, Johnny Reed's Blue and White machine opposes Coach McHenry's McKees Rocks combine. While McKees Rocks is not as strong as it was last season, the Roxmen will give Scott plenty of opposition.

Dropping two out of its first three games, Homestead High has taken a new lease on life and has scored four straight victories over some of the best elevens in the district. Mt. Lebanon, Scott, Duquesne and Clairton all have fallen before the Campbell boys. One of the reasons for their fine showing has been the work of Walter Miller at fullback. Yes, he's the same boy who starred at center on the basketball team.

Freedom to Play East Pittsburgh

Freedom High School, leader in the race for the Class B championship of the W. P. I. A. L., has booked a game with East Pittsburgh, to be played on the latter's gridiron on Saturday, November 19.

East Pittsburgh, despite its defeat by Springdale, 7-6, ranks as one of the best Class B teams in the district.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: VOTING FOR 23 PRESIDENTS—Josef Crele, who at the time of his death at the age of 140 was termed the "Oldest Man in the World," voted for every President of the United States between Washington and Johnson. He arrived at the number of 23 Presidents of his choice by counting each presidential term individually. He was 49 years old at the time of the Declaration of Independence and, at the age of 130, testified in court to an occurence which had taken place 89 years previously. Curiously enough, he ascribed his extraordinary longevity to an oversight on the part of the Angel of Death.

JOCK TO TAKE 33 PLAYERS TO NEBRASKA

By JESS CARVER

Pitt's Golden Panthers will set forth tonight on the first leg of the long and tiresome trip to the apalling open spaces of Nebraska, where Saturday, in Lincoln, they'll bump up against another tough football team, the hefty Cornhuskers of the University of Nebraska.

Coach Jock Sutherland and his aide-de-camp, Jimmy Hagan, will chaperone a squad of 33 players out of the city tonight. Tomorrow will be spent in Chicago, where the lads will play pool all morning in the lounge room of the Hotel Windemere and hop through a workout on the University of Chicago's practice field in the afternoon.

Then they'll entrain for Omaha, where they'll put in Friday, working out there either on Creighton University's field or, if the weather is bad, in the shelter of the huge Ak-Sar-Ben auditorium.

PITT STARS BATTERED

Coach Sutherland gave his Panthers their initial workout of the week yesterday, and it wasn't much of a drill at that, as Pitt drills go. The team is tired and battered, as it should be, after having faced Army, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Penn on successive Saturdays. Izzy Weinstock, the regular fullback, and Ted Dailey, star left end, are so bruised and battered that it is doubtful if they'll be able to start against the Cornhuskers. If they ride the bench, their places will be taken by the less experienced Heinie Weisenbaugh and Harvey (Fireman) Rooker.

One thing about playing Nebraska, it isn't so much experience and brains you need as it is beef and brawn. Though it may cause Duck[illegible] times to do a flip-flop, yet the fact remains, that Cornhuskers teams in the past never have been exactly at the head of the class when prizes for smart football teams were being handed out.

Reports from Lincoln indicate that Coach Dana X. Bible has herded his squad into the Nebraska Stadium, locked the gates and swallowed the key. His practices this week are secret, so secret that even 'planes have been barred from the vicinity of the field. The Huskers arn't going to miss a trick as they essay to stop Pitt Sat'day. Not a trick.

RECALL '31 DEFEAT

At that, you can't blame 'em much. It will be a feather, nay, a whole chief's headdress in their hats, if they can stop the Pitts, who have taken Army, Notre Dame and Penn, among others, and are riding along at the very crest of the wave toward the mythical National championship. As though that were not incentive enough, how about that trimming the Westerners received here last Turkey Day? How about it—that 40-0 walloping they took back to the wide open spaces with them. They've forgotten that whipping like Sharkey has forgotten Dempsey.

The squad, which will be named after this afternoon's final home workout, will depart over the good old P. R. R. tonight at 10:30. It will pile back on the choo choo after the ball game, ride all night and all day Sunday and arrive back home Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock. And if the boys win, what a homecoming that will be.

The Tipoff

Coach Jock Sutherland, of the desh ol' Panthers, is turning over various things in his mind these days as he preps his footballers for the tough ball game Saturday with Nebraska. Among other things he's planning is some shakeups in his lineups, shakeups necessary, not because the boys haven't been playing good football, but because they are so tired and so battered and so black and blue they resemble a flock of accidents going somewhere to happen.

If Jock starts the regular lineup against the hefty Cornhuskers, it will be a team 99 44/100 per cent black and blue. This won't do, because Pitt's colors are blue and gold and besides, a black and blue football team isn't exactly the kind that one needs to beat a team such as the Cornhuskers. So Jock is planning to use some of his replacements, and it will not be at all surprising Sat'day if a strange combination of ball players trots out on the field.

Heinie Weisenbaugh and Fireman Rooker are almost certain to start at fullback and left end respectively. This shift will give Rooker and Ted Dailey some needed relaxation on the bench. Then, he may put Johnny Meredith in at Paul Cuba's left tackle position and send Mongan to Weisenbaugh's. Ken Ormiston may get a chance to hear the kickoff whistle at one of the guards, probably at Doc Hartwig's place, and Shotwell may start in place of Joe Tormey at center.

That ball game at Uniontown Friday afternoon between Waynesburg and Geneva will be a honey, a pip, a wow or what have you. Look back in the book and see just when Geneva-Waynesburg games have NOT been tough. Geneva holds an edge over the Jackets, but there never has been a game between the two schools that hasn't been hard and interestingly fought. The one this week should prove no exception.

In the first place, Waynesburg has a sweet defense to toss in front of the fast-stepping Covenanters. Shorty Trioana, Geneva's clever little halfback, will know he's been in a ball game after he finishes running into the big Waynesburg line, if the forward pass defense of the Jackets stands up. Geneva's running game is going to be for a misery old afternoon. And meanwhile, Geneva must keep its collective peepers on Rab Currie, the Waynesburg triple threat star, who has not been stopped all season. He is about as dangerous a halfback as there is in the district, for he's always a threat.

Another game that will be well worth watching will be the Grove City-St. Vincent game at Latrobe. The Bearcats, with a fine record to date, including a near-victory over Geneva, will enter the game the favorites over Bill Amos' hard-trying but hapless Crimson. In Johnson, at left halfback, the 'Cats boast a ball lugger very much on the order of Pitt's Warren Heller. Indeed, on a stronger eleven, Johnson might be quite the potatoes. He's tough enough as it is.

PREXIES DRILL FOR BISONS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 9.—The peak of Washington and Jefferson College's 1932 football season will be reached Saturday, when the Presidents clash with Bucknell University here in the feature event of a Homecoming Day celebration.

Hundreds of W. & J. and Bucknell alumni are expected to make this play a mecca and final arrangements for a gala occasion are rapidly being completed.

Banquets for alumni of both schools will be held following the game, with President Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison to address W. & J. men and Dr. Homer Price Rainey, Bucknell president, to deliver the principal address at a dinner honoring the Bucknell squad sponsored by the Bucknell Alumni Club of Western Pennsylvania.

Wash-Jeff settled into intensive preparation for the Bisons with all thoughts of last week's 19-to-0 reverse at the hands of Duquesne cast aside.

Coach Hank Day lost little time in starting to remedy the faults of the Duquesne struggle, but other than jacking up his regular line for their failure to charge and block effectively, there were no radical changes instituted.

Bert Gray, center, and Carl Johnson, end, have been given a rest and will not likely be back in togs until Wednesday. Gray had an old injury aggravated and Johnson suffered a severe head injury.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Is football being over-officiated, or overruled, to the detriment of the games from the viewpoint of the spectators and the standpoint of the players? . . . An eastern newspaper recently conducted a broad symposium on this question, including in the field of those interviewed officials, players, coaches and fans, and the division of opinion was striking . . . The officials begged off, asking that the new rules be given at least a full season's trial . . . The coaches and players almost as a unit declared there is too much hasty whistle-blowing by the officials and too strict an interpretation of the rules . . . Some of the fans declared the game now was being played by the men in charge and not by the players.

Here are a few excerpts from the cash customers: . . . "It is difficult for the fans to understand the rulings of the officials." . . . "The players are not accustomed to the rules and the game is suffering as a result." . . . "Football is over-officiated. The players now are playing the whistle instead of the ball." . . . "Give the game back to the public. Let's have less rules." . . . "The officials are spoiling the game. They blow the whistle too quickly." . . . "The rules are slowing down the game. There is little hope for a long run any more." . . . "They ought to let the rules alone." . . . "The rules are too difficult for the layman to understand."

And from the coaches: "Too many penalties are being called. This is the fault either of the officials or the rules, and I think the blame lies with the former." . . . "The players caught onto the rules faster than the officials." . . . "The rules are all right. The game is under-officiated, if anything. The officials do not call enough penalties." . . . "It is obvious to the players and fans that the game is over-officiated. The fault is a combination of the rules and officials." . . . "The men who handle the games today are too officious. The rules are fine." . . . "There is nothing wrong with the rules." . . . "The game has become too complex."

There you are . . . Take either side and you can start an argument that will last until the next election day . . . The fact remains, nevertheless, that one of the great all-America sports is that of beefing by coaches after a game . . . Generally it is the beaten coach who moans about the officiating . . . Frequently both sides will kick . . . On the surface, there is little general satisfaction . . . Could the same coaches do a better job of officiating if put on the spot with the same set of rules? . . . It is unlikely. Rules are meant to be enforced . . . The official is in the middle . . . He's damned if he does and double-damned if he doesn't. . . . The only thing he can do is call them as he sees them, without fear or favor, and then bow his head for the ax.

Undoubtedly there will be further changes in the rules at the end of this season, some of them suggested by the officials themselves . . . You can't apply the rules of ping-pong to football, and you can't overlook transgressions without getting a call from the coach of the offended team . . . Perhaps there are too many rules in the sport . . . If so, the coaches should aim for a more sensible codification and vent their spleen upon the rules committee and not the officials whose duty it is to work with what the rules committee hands them.

So far as that goes, we are

SEALS DISCUSS SCHOOL TEAMS

The thousands of followers of high school football elevens in Western Pennsylvania who are intensely interested in their favorites, with the season entering its closing stages, will be given a dish of dope on the situation during the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Julius Levin, in charge of scholastic sports for the Sun-Telegraph, will review the races in the City League and the various divisions of teams in the entire district, touching all of the high spots of the coaches, players and teams.

As a prelude, Herb McGee, WCAE announcer, will continue the recital of his mythical exploits as a football star for Siwash, back in the "good old days." Miss Marian Salmon will be at the piano, and Harry Keck, sports editor, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Rangers Prepared To Lift Ice Lid

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Concerned only over the absence of the holdout, Earl Seibert, Manager Lester Patrick and his New York Rangers made final preparations today for the opening of the hockey season tomorrow night.

The squad will go through a stiff workout this afternoon, with the late holdout, Frank Boucher, taking part, after which the team will entrain for Montreal, where they meet the Maroons in the opener.

POLOISTS TO CLASH

One of the feature events of the Armistice Day program at Charleroi Friday will be a night polo game between the Charleroi Veterans and the 107th Field Artillery. The program is being staged by the American Legion of the Monongahela Valley.

ANDERSON PREDICTS NEBRASKA VICTORY OVER PITT

By HEARTLY W. (HUNK) ANDERSON,
Notre Dame Football Coach.

I'm picking Nebraska to win ar Pittsburgh this week. Pitt s defeated Ohio Northern, West Virginia, Duquesne, Army, Notre me and Pennsylvania, and tied h Ohio State. If that is not enough to make a team overconfident, despite whatever Coach Jock Sutherland may say, I miss my guess.

Hunk Anderson

I believe Pitt will be off stride at Lincoln Saturday and that Nebraska will be at the peak of its form. Pitt, I believe, will be just like we were when we played them at Pittsburgh, instead of the great team Sutherland really has.

Nebraska has great potential rength, strength which has been ansformed for the potential the actual as the season has ogressed. The Nebraska boys ould be at their strongest Saturday.

We have great possibilities at otre Dame, but the Pitt game d subsequent scrimmages have own that we haven't learned yet ow to capitalize on our power. orthwestern is weaker this year an last, but has been playing he ball in most of its games.

ILDCATS DANGEROUS

With Rentner and Olson in the ackfield, the Wildcats are likely break loose at any time for a ng run which may break up the all game, just like Sebastian's an against us at Pittsburgh. We ay do the same thing, with heeketski, Roken, Lukats, Menkovich, Banas, and Brancheau kely to tear loose at any time.

I see Ossie Solem has been uggling his lineup to get more trength at Iowa, but Purdue will e too strong for the Hawkeyes. obe Kizer has a great combinaon at Purdue, with men like ardonner and Horstmann in the ackfield and Moss at end. Here s all-American timber, and Kizer nows how to use it.

Missouri hasn't clicked yet this eason while Kansas has won ore games than it has lost, but pick Frank Carideo's team in his game. Missouri is going to et real sore one of these days and o out and win a ball game. I hink it will be next Saturday.

Ohio State should win from ennsylvania, since Pitt has oftened up the Quakers. I don't ean to say that Pitt doesn't play lean football, but they do play ard football at Pitt. There will e a natural let down in the Penn ame after this game, and besides his fact, I think Ohio State would e too strong for Penn under ordinary conditions.

INNESOTA FAVORED

Minnesota and Wisconsin will eet in one of the features of the ig Ten race. Both have new oaches at the helm, Doc Spears t Wisconsin and Bernie Bierman at Minnesota. Both of them ave shown before that they know heir business, but never have hey shown it more clearly than his year, when they took new aterial and moulded it into two eams which are push-overs for obody. This will be a great game, and I pick Minnesota to win by a close score.

Indiana should win from Illinois. Illinois has played one inspired game, against Chicago, but I don't think that Zuppke can get them at their peak again to win from Indiana. Gil Berry is a great back, but the Chicago game was the only instance where the rest of the Illinois team helped him go places.

Centre should win from John Carroll, and I pick Detroit by a comfortable margin over Villanova.

JONES' STATUS UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—H. H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association, today expressed surprise concerning reports that Bobby Jones, in preparing a new series of movie shorts entitled "How to Break 90," was definitely turning his back upon amateur golf—because this latest feature came under the head of professional instruction. Ramsay said:

"He turned his back upon amateur golf long ago. I said two years ago, in accepting his motion picture contract, he no longer was eligible to compete as an amateur. I'll say it again now."

President Ramsay said that any application for reinstatement must undergo a three-year test, during which the applicant is required to abide strictly by the amateur code. He added that Jones' connection with a sports goods house was a further violation of the code.

JOCK, HARPER DEFEND ARMY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The Yale Daily News may not approve of the athletic eligibility code at West Point, but this view doesn't find agreement with two other rivals of Army football. Their spokesmen are Jesse Harper, athletic director at Notre Dame, and Jock Sutherland, head coach of the successful Pitt eleven, and they do more than merely approve. They practically applaud. Harper said:

"I have only one comment to make on the Yale article. My comment is this: We have always enjoyed our athletic relations with the Army."

Coach Sutherland said:

"Conditions are different at the United States Military Academy than they are in a typical college or university. We are quite in accord with the Army and have no criticism whatsoever to make concerning regulations there."

National Horse Show Opens Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—The forty-seventh national horse show opens in Madison Square Garden tonight with more than 1,300 equine thoroughbreds and the pick of Army jumpers in the entry list.

Holding topmost interest in the crowded program will be the military jumping championship next Monday night. A strong United States team will defend the title it won last year for the first time against the challenge of the Irish Free State, France and Canada. After the team title has been decided, the same officers, mounted on the same horses, will compete Tuesday night for the individual championship.

We thought we had a dizzy football game in the Pitt-Penn frolic over in Philadelphia last Saturday, but it seems that was just a breeze compared with a show they put on in Cleveland at the same time between Case and Western Reserve, time-honored rivals . . . Reserve won, 13 to 7, on a 40-yard pass and a 55-yard runback of a punt, the latter by Franz, who beat Case last year with an 85-yard gallop . . . Now, here is what happened . . . Case, the loser, rolled up 18 first downs against one for the winner . . . Case gained 251 yards against 85 . . . Case completed five forward passes against one, lost only 25 yards in penalties against 70 for Reserve, and kept the play in Reserve's territory during 55 of the 60 minutes . . . And Reserve never gained more than six yards in any series of plays from scrimmage . . . Yet two plays decided the issue.

That's football, a team game, if you will . . . Yes, football, the uncertain gamble upon which the more hardy souls bet their hard-earned pelf.—HARRY KECK.

CHAMP DEFEATS GREENWOOD

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, the 1931 winner, hung up his second straight victory in the Eastern sectional three-cushion billiard tournament yesterday, by beating William Greenwood, of Pittsburgh, 50 to 36, in 49 innings.

Scoville's high run was five; Greenwood's four. It was Greenwood's second defeat of the day. He dropped a 50 to 42 decision to Kinrey Matsuyama in the first afternoon match.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

—By GIB MARSH—

The first groups of big game hunters in Pennsylvania will be in the mountains tomorrow for the opening of the bear season. And, with so many sportsmen now having the time to spend in the woods, there will be hundreds of them on hand to crack at the bruins. All bears over one year old will be legal, and the limit is one bear per season.

In past years, some large bears have been killed in this state, some of them weighing as much as 600 pounds. It was common to bring them out of the mountains weighing 300 pounds. However, the hunters prefer the smaller type, weighing 150 pounds, and before cubs less than one year old were protected cubs of six months to eight months were desired. Bears always have been plentiful in this state.

CUBS ARE PROTECTED

Prior to the enactment of the resident hunters' license law, bears were not given much consideration by the state conservationists and the Game Commission. However, when the deer hunters invaded the mountains 200,000 strong, they started to thin out the bears, which resulted in the writing of the cub protection amendment to the code and eliminating the December shooting of bears. As many as 700 head have been shot during the former long season, November 10 to December 15. With the short season this year the former larger kills will not be duplicated.

It was the December shooting of bears which resulted in so many being bagged. When the deer hunters made their drives over the mountains many bears were routed, which no doubt evaded the hunters' observation during the November shooting period, when there were not so many hunters in pursuit of them. However, as there will be seven grouse shooting days included in the bear season, and, as bear and grouse favor the same character of country, it is likely many grouse shooters will include a bear hunt in their program this year.

TAME HUNTING SPORT

The bear does not include the excitement which is experienced in hunting deer, because the hunter spends much time in waiting for the bear to appear along its customary daily trail.

SID SILAS AIMS HIGH AGAINST BOJARSKI

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Sid Silas wants to get somewhere in the fight game, that's why he's taking a chance against the hard-hitting Erie southpaw, Frank Bojarski, in the eight-round main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Sid, a young Jewish orphan, who blew in here last winter from New York and registered a hit, and then returned East, came back with the intention of making good in a big way. In his most recent start, he belted around Matty (Popeye) Oldach, Bojarski's stablemate, at the Garden and looked to be in finer condition than in any bout in Pittsburgh. He was fast, fresh and hit hard. If he can do the same thing to Bojarski, who is a good hitter himself, but doesn't take hard punches so well, Sid will be up where he belongs, crowding Battling Gizzy, Johnny Datto, Joe Marcus, Charley Baxter and the other lightweights who have been hogging the spotlight locally.

THOMAS IN SEMI-FINAL

Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, who had a contract for a main bout with Eugene Huat at the Garden last Monday night canceled, is being rewarded with a semi-final against one Juan Cruz, of Mexico, also an eight-rounder.

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, Frank Klaus' protege, who recently defeated Buck McTiernan a third time, is all set for his clash with Jack King, of Little Rock, Ray Alvis' new hope, at the Arena, Friday night. He has trained well, and will get in his final hard licks today. He believes his greater experience will prove the determining factor against his rangier foe. Nick Venore, of Philadelphia, and Frankie Goosby are in the other 10-rounder.

Between Rounds

Boxers on the all-local talent card of 10 four-round bouts at the Arena next Tuesday night will have the purses split evenly between them instead of having the big end go to the winner and the small end to the loser in each event, as planned. This change was made today to avoid conflict with the law, which designates fighting for a winner's purse "prize-fighting."

Johnny Datto, local Filipino lightweight boxer, will box Frankie Cheek in a 10-round bout in Milwaukee on Christmas Day.

Joey Reynolds will try a comeback in one of those bouts at the Arena next Tuesday night. Joey is a lightweight who started out as an amateur at the Willow Club along with Jack and Pete Zivic, Jack Burke, Jack Katkish, Boo Ryan and Georgie Thais and then went to Philadelphia and Atlantic City to campaign, and returned home for a series of bouts a few years ago. Among those he has boxed are Johnny De Marco, Jerry O'Donnell, Philadelphia Bobby Burns, Mickey Duris, Freddie Boylstein and Johnny Brown. He has been working out recently with Johnny Datto, Phil Zwick and Jack Wilson, and declares he is in good shape to swing back into ring action.

Stanley Poreda has canceled his bout with George Godfrey, scheduled for Convention Hall, Philadelphia, tomorrow night, because of a back injury suffered in training.

Tony Marino, Duquesne flyweight, injured his left arm in his bout with Ernie Maurer in Toronto last week and has had to cancel his match with Johnny Edwards at Youngstown tomorrow night. He will be on the shelf, or wherever it is that fighters with bad arms are kept, for at least two weeks.

Lou Scozza boxes Jimmy Braddock at San Francisco tonight.

Ray Foutis says it is true that he turned down 22½ percent for Ted Yarosz' end to box Eddie (Kid) Wolfe at the local Garden next Monday night—after he had been promised and had agreed to 30 per cent. What is this, a "steamup?"

Jimmy Wilson, of Chicago, is in town with another Jimmy Wilson, Denver middleweight, and Joey Pearce, Philadelphia featherweight, in tow. His boxers are working out at the Lyceum and the pilot may be reached by calling Grant 0778.

CASEY FAVORS YALE OVER PRINCETON

Boston Col. over Western Maryland.
Amherst over Williams.
Tufts over Boston U.
Columbia over Brown.
Dartmouth over Cornell.
New York U. over Fordham.
Harvard, Holy Cross toss-up.
Rutgers over Lehigh.
Navy over Maryland.
Yale over Princeton.
Colgate over Syracuse.
Army over N. Dakota State.
Villanova over Detroit.

By EDDIE CASEY
Member, All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

Last Saturday, for the first time this year, most of the favored football teams came through with victories. Columbia barely eked out a win over the Navy, but they still remain undefeated. Pittsburgh and Brown, both with clean slates, came through triumphant in very close games, and Colgate won in a trot. These four teams are on top of the pile in the East.

Eddie Casey

This week-end will eliminate at least one of the four, because Columbia and Brown are meeting in New York, in a game that should determine what teams are to remain in the National Sweepstakes. Brown had to use all her resources last week to defeat Holy Cross, and I think the effects of this game will tell on the Brown players. On the other hand, while Columbia just managed to get by the Navy, some of the best Lion players were not in the game, and will be all set for Brown. The game will be played on Columbia's home lot with a cheering student body in the stands, and I am picking the New Yorkers to win.

The season is now in the home stretch and some teams will be playing their last game this week. The Princeton-Yale game is foremost on the calendar. Starting slowly, Princeton has progressed week after week, and now has a fine attack and defense. Yale has gone along in a similar manner, and the New Haven team is noted for being a good November team. The Elis had a rest last Saturday, as they did not play, and they should be primed physically for this encounter. Princeton had an easy game with Lehigh, so both teams should be at their best. I am inclined to think that Yale will win, but it will be a mighty struggle and the margin of victory should be small.

LAST GAME FOR GREEN

Dartmouth will be playing her last game when she meets the big red Cornell team. The game has a crucial objective for both teams. In recent years Dartmouth has consistently beaten Cornell by way of an air attack. Dartmouth is an outstanding forward passing team, and Cornell heretofore has not been as strong against passes as it should be. However, this year the Ithicans are not weak in this detail, and if Dartmouth wins it must employ other weapons besides the passing game. The Green will be ready for this game, and as they have not won a major contest this year, I think Cornell will have a tremendous task on its hands to hold Dartmouth back. Dartmouth should win.

Fordham and New York University meet in what promises to be one of the hardest-fought games of the day. Fordham seems to have recovered from her slump, and this is the game they want. New York is equally desirous of winning, and you can be sure that neither team will hold anything back. In guessing this one I lean to New York, but only by a shade.

Harvard takes on Holy Cross in the Stadium, and it does not look promising for the Crimson. Beaten by Brown and overwhelmed by the Army, Harvard has a hard row ahead. Holy Cross lost to Brown, but only in the last few minutes of play. If there is a favorite in this game, it certainly should be Holy Cross. But don't be surprised if Harvard makes an impressive comeback.

Colgate should defeat Syracuse without much trouble. The Army will win from North Dakota State. In my opinion this year's Cadet team, at this time of the season, is the best in the East. I believe that the Navy will break into the win column on Saturday in their game with Maryland. Navy will not roll up a big score, but the result should be decisive.

Try-for-Point Kicking Neglected Art—Harpster

By Howard Harpster
Geneva College Coach; All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1928.

One of the mysteries of football is why a majority of teams, and I include Geneva, will devote hours upon hours of practice to develop offensive plays with which to score touchdowns, and then practically neglect the all-important part of perfecting the kick for the point after touchdown, which decides the outcome of a great many games each week. It seems so utterly ridiculous that teams will put forth the great amount of effort and team play necessary to march for touchdowns, and then, after the difficult part has been accomplished, either will lose or fail to win the games merely because they are unable to make good a comparatively easy kick.

Mr. Harpster

Of course, the kick for point after touchdown is more or less of an individual feat usually, although often times the kick fails because of a bad pass from center or because the line fails to hold and the kicker is rushed. However, it is plainly evident that in a great many cases the kicks fail because the play hasn't been given the polish which is rendered the other plays of the offense. There is little question that the weekly average of successful kicks would be greatly increased if all teams placed more importance on them, and, accordingly, allotted more practice time in which to perfect them.

SCORING AVERAGE LOW

I have before me the football scores of last Saturday's games as recorded in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and, without wishing to arouse the enmity of any of the district coaches, I am going to illustrate my point by using the nine games in which teams of the Western Pennsylvania selection figured. This is done merely to illustrate the weakness of teams in general in kicking for points after touchdowns and not to point out any glaring weakness of our local teams or to criticize said teams, for, to be perfectly frank, my Geneva team is none too adept at scoring the extra points.

In the nine games in which the Pennsylvania elevens took part, 24 touchdowns were scored, and out of 24 attempts to convert the extra points only seven were good, which gives, if my arithmetic is not incorrect, the rather poor average of slightly more than 29 per cent. The outcome of three of the nine games hinged upon the conversion of the try-for-point, and two of the teams lost because of failure to make good their attempts, while either team in the third game could have won by kicking the extra point.

PLACEMENT VS. DROP-KICK

The question often has been raised as to whether the placement kick or the drop-kick is to be preferred in attempting to convert the extra point. Although at one time I was a confirmed believer in the drop-kick, probably because I had practiced it most of my playing time, I since have become convinced that the placement kick is quicker and more accurate for making a short goal. The pass from center is lower, and, therefore, faster, the holder of the ball places it immediately upon the ground in position, and time is not required to get it in position and then drop it as in the drop-kick, and, finally, there is not the same chance that the ball will not be in a good position to be kicked as often as the case with a drop-kick when the ball is not dropped accurately.

For long-range field goals, I think that the drop-kick is superior because the kicker gets more leverage in the kick and therefore can kick farther, and also because of the fact that at long range the kicker has more time for the kick because he has an extra blocker in front of him to hold off the defensive linemen.

Navy Will Face Ton of Dixie Gridders

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The Navy football team will face a human wall weighing 10 pounds less than a ton when the Maryland eleven is met on the Baltimore Stadium gridiron here next Saturday.

The average weight of the Maryland players is about 180 pounds. Al Woods, veteran halfback, is the lightest. He tips the beam at 162, and Paul Rouzer, the heaviest, weighs 214.

PAPALES ADD STRENGTH TO LINEUP

By TOM BIRKS

Owner Charley Papale certainly is bolstering his East Liberty squad for the battle with the J. P. Rooneys at Peabody High School Field Friday afternoon. He and Manager Mark Knapp travelled up the Allegheny river on a secret mission yesterday, and when they returned, Red Davis and Seyburn, two of the classiest independent gridiron stars up the valley, had signed on the dotted line, and will be in the lineup when the Papelles clash with Champions.

There is a rumor prevalent that another outstanding star would cast his lot with Papale for the remainder of the season.

Seyburn will be quite an asset, with Kaiser, Boots Klinzing, Morbito and Politz to help toting the pigskin.

Sunday, Manager Art Rooney will take his machine to Olympia Park, McKeesport, to meet the Olympics. This will be the supreme test for the Champions. They will take a bumping around in the East Liberty game, and then to stack up against the Olympics.

Where do you want HAIR?
DECIDE NOW!
Why does baldness begin to appear? Why do ordinary tonics fail to help? In most cases of baldness the hair roots are dormant—sleeping through lack of nourishment. And tonics fail to help simply because they treat only the surface skin. To make a tree grow, you don't rub "growing fluid" on the bark. You get to the roots. That's the simple secret of my scientific treatment. It goes beneath the surface—nourishes dormant roots directly—stimulates them to new activity—encourages quick and healthy growth of new, vigorous hair.
At the former Merke Institute, 5th Ave., New York, many people have paid high prices for results obtained. Now you can secure equally beneficial results as long as 8 treatments for $10.00. Some cases of baldness are hopeless, I admit it. But so many thousands have benefited through my remarkable treatment that the facts are certainly worth knowing. DUKES DRILL ON DEFENSE

JOHNSON STAR OF RABBITS' BACKFIELD

Fred Johnson, nicknamed "Snooze" star right halfback of the South Dakota State College football team, which comes to Forbes Field Friday in the Armistice Day attraction, is expected to give the fans some spectacular football when the Jack Rabbits meet the Dukes. Johnson is considered the fastest and shiftiest ball carrier in the North Central Conference. And Coach Cy Kasper is proud of Johnson's kicking.

The Dukes worked long hours yesterday to strengthen the defenses against a lightening-like running attack. The famous "Blue Streak" backfield of the Jack Rabbits is reputed to function particularly well against the Notre Dame style of play, since Coach Kasper learned his football under Knute Rockne at Notre Dame.

USE TECH SYSTEM

The South Dakota coach is said to be able to fathom the wiles of the Rambler system coaches. Kasper has installed the Carnegie Tech style of play at his own institution.

Some of the wags on the Bluff who have heard of the powerful line of giants who comprise the South Dakotan forward wall, including Isadore Ginsberg, who weighs only 160 pounds and stands but five feet two inches at the left end, while Big Boy Peterson at right end towers six feet four inches in height, have remarked that the visitors will have an unbalanced line.

TO ARRIVE TODAY

The Westerners, who have been working out in Detroit since their game with Ypsilanti last Saturday, will arrive in Pittsburgh late this afternoon instead of tomorrow, as planned. They will make their headquarters at Webster Hall and will work out at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Kasper will lend an additional touch of militarism to the Armistice Day celebration, since he was state commander of the South Dakota American Legion last year. He is expected to attend Legion celebrations here on Friday, following the game.

M'KEAN VICTOR AT EDGEWOOD

W. A. McKean, with a score of 84-14-70, led a field of more than 200 golfers who competed in the Election Day sweepstakes at Edgewood yesterday. He won low net honors. The low gross prize went to Dr. W. L. Thunhurst, who carded a fine 81.

Trailing McKean by four strokes was J. M. Irwin, with 83-9-74. S. J. Ratcliffe was third with 89-14-75.

GRID PRICES STYMIE FANS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Unseen, unheard and, in some notable cases, apparently unrecognized, there is a tacit state of war on here and elsewhere between the public, who want the introduction of cut-rate football, and college athletic authorities, who do not, and so far it's all even. The customers haven't been seeing the football games. But, then, the management hasn't been seeing the customers.

It isn't a boycott. It isn't an organzed movement. One doesn't need an organization when one has $1.79 and a handful of trolley tokens and they ask $4 for a seat behind a stanchion. One, in fact, simply stays away very firmly, nor can one become greatly interested in compromises, although a few of the managements have been broadminded. For $2, they'll even give one a seat behind two stanchions.

PRICES SCARE 'EM

Coast writers, including Pat Frayne and Al Santoro, were amazed last week, upon entering the Polo Grounds, to see acres of open spaces glaring down upon the combat when St. Mary's, of California, played Fordham. The answer is that 5,000 seats behind the goal posts were sold out at $1.65, whereas they held the others at $3.30 and $4.40. Incidentally, they're still holding them.

Of course, there are games like Pitt-Pennsylvania, Pitt-Notre Dame, Southern California-Stanford and Brown-Columbia where you couldn't keep them away with an order from the Board of Health. These may or may not be worth $4, quite according to whether you have it, but the commonplace, run-of-the-mine football game hasn't a chance unless the price is right.

Columbia, for instance, has a championship contender for the first time in almost 30 years and old grads go about in stupor, muttering strangely. However, the team has yet to play to a turnaway crowd, although on three occasions this year the end-zone sections have been sold solidly at $1. New York, in fact, has become strictly a dollar town, except for prizefights, in which case spiritual eczema sets in and invariably it loses all self control.

ARMY GAME A FLOP

But it would have no portion of the Pitt-Army game at the Point a few weeks ago, only about 12,000 attending. I was surprised at the time. I'm not now. They tell me the "rap" was $5.50 for that one, and all I have to say is that anyone who pays $5.50 for an early-season football game ought to be rapped. In fact, he ought to be hit with a railroad tie.

DARK SECRET BOWIE VICTOR

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 9.—(A.P.)—Dark Secret, the Wheatley stable's good mud running son of Flying Ebony, possessed a bit too much speed and class for the small field in the Bowie Handicap here yesterday. Under Alfred Robertson's heady handling, the $3.80 for $2 favorite led for the entire mile and a half through heavy mud to register by 1½ lengths over the Shandon Farm's Evergold. W. W. Vaughn's Canron was beaten by five lengths.

Magyar and Rehoboth brought up in the rear of a field below the standard of other years. This was the second Bowie triumph for the Wheatley establishment. Diavolo having won the fixture in 1929.

Dark Secret covered the distance in 2:37-5. The winner's share of the purse was $3,950. The election day crowd was of fairly good proportions considering the inclement weather.

Quaill Scores K. O. In Keystone Bout

Members of the Keystone A. C. and their friends witnessed a special election night program of nine amateur boxing bouts in the gymnasium of the downtown club last night. The results:

112-pound class—Young Molnar, Braddock Library, defeated Leonard Patton, Finleyville.

Dukes Cut Ticket Prices for All Legionaires

Duquesne University athletic authorities announced last night that special price concessions will be made to all members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars who present their membership cards at the ticket windows Friday for the South Dakota State game. They are urged to buy their tickets in advance at the Duke athletic offices but cards will be honored at the Forbes Field wickets as well.

All American Legion bands in uniform will be admitted to Forbes Field free of charge for the game Friday. Commanders wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity for their men should make arrangements with John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics as soon as possible.

TECH MAY USE SUBS AGAINST XAVIER U.

Several of Carnegie Tech's reserve football players are being primed this week to play against Xavier University in Cincinnati Saturday. With the entire Tartan squad rested, and in prime physical condition, intensive practice started again this week after almost an entire week of rest following the Temple game.

Starting hard drills again on Monday, Coach Waddell indicated that he would start his regular array against Xavier, and make numerous substitutions if an early lead is obtained. Carnegie has had few opportunities to give her regular backs any relief in the games to date, Captain Kavel having been the hardest worked player of the team. He has played through every game.

Tom Coulter, track captain, has yet to make his appearance in a game, and it may be that he will get his chance in Cincinnati. Nor has Joe Brewer been used this season. Johnny Sayles is also ready after early-season injuries spoiled what promised to be a great season for him.

If the opposition by Xavier proves to be weaker than expected, there will be no tendency to run up a score. The coaches want to safeguard their players' condition for the all-important fracas with Pitt on November 19. It will represent Tech's biggest chance to atone for a somewhat disappointing season.

PURPLE STRONG FOR IRISH

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The oft-defeated Northwestern University football squad today looked forward hopefully to Saturday's game with Notre Dame. The optimism was born of the announcement that George Potter, whose injuries have kept him out of most of the season's contests, will be in shape to resume his quarterback duties at South Bend.

PURDUE CRIPPLED

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Two backfield stalwarts, it was indicated today, will be missing from the Purdue lineup at Iowa City Saturday when the Boilermakers face the Iowa Hawkeyes. It was not held likely that Jim Carter, brilliant sophomore ball-toter, will be sufficiently recovered to participate in the game. Doxie Moore, right halfback, is still out with a broken collar bone.

HAAS IN GOPHER LINEUP

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 9.—(INS.)—Jack Manders and Francis Lund, Minnesota's backfield stars, were nursing slight injuries today which may slow them up in Saturday's game with Wisconsin. The return of Capt. Wally Haas to the backfield, however, will offset this disadvantage.

Stanford Due Here Tuesday, Nov. 22

Word has been received from the West Coast that Pop Warner's Stanford eleven, scheduled to battle Pitt here on November 26, will reach Pittsburgh in special cars over the Pennsylvania Railroad at 8:30 p. m. on Tuesday, November 22.

The Californians will leave Oakland on November 19, arriving in Chicago the morning of the twenty-second and in Pittsburgh that evening.

Bucknell Captain Out of Action

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Capt. Ned Bucknell tackle, is definitely out of the Washington and Jefferson game because of a dislocated shoulder, suffered in the Western Maryland contest. Owen James, guard, has been shifted to tackle, with Seiss at guard.

The team went through a short scrimmage yesterday, polishing up its passing offensive.

Madden to Play For Fox Chapel

Sheve Madden, well-known local horseman and polo player, will ride for the Fox Chapel polo team Saturday night against the South Park team at the Hunt Armory, making his first appearance in indoor polo in three years.

Madden will be at No. 2, with Perritt at No. 1 and Linton playing back. Linton and Perritt will play with the 308th Cavalry team in the Indoor Polo League.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 9.—The market was due ½d higher. Opened ⅝d lower, but at 1:20 p. m. was unchanged to ⅛d up. At 2:15 p. m. the market was up ⅛d to ¼d. Wheat closed ⅛d to ⅜d lower compared with Monday.

CANADIANS WIN 'CYCLE RACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(INS.)—The fact that Democrats copped the political sweepstakes meant little or nothing today to Jules Audy, of Montreal, and William Peden, of Vancouver, who wheeled away with first honors in the twenty-eighth international six-day bike race in the Chicago Stadium.

A spectacular rush during the last hour enabled the Audy-Peden combination to break into a mileage tie with the Italian-American pair, Alfredo Binda and Norman Hill. The Canadian outfit's victory was due to superiority in the point column.

Frenzied sprinting, marked by jamming and several spills, provided a bang-up finish for 15,000 spectators. The final standings:

A high head wind and Oakmont's renowned hazards held no terrors for Mrs. Frank H. Stephens yesterday as she scored a hole-in-one on the 164-yard thirteenth hole. Mrs. R. T. Hambleton, playing with Mrs. Stephens, witnessed the latter's feat, achieved with a spoon.

Roosevelt's Son At Tackle in Game Today

GROTON, Mass., Nov. 9.—(AP.)—When Groton School lines up for its annual football game today against St. Mark's School, Franklin D. Roosevelt will be at right tackle. Of course, there is a "junior" attached to his name, and he is the son of President-elect Roosevelt.

Young Roosevelt's 175 pounds of weight and his aggressiveness have proved a power in the Groton line all season, and he was reported in excellent shape for the big game today.

The game will be the forty-fourth annual meeting of the two schools, and Groton is considered the favorite.

LOW EXCHANGES ALTER TRADE PICTURE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—Cheap and cheaper foreign exchanges, in the opinion of some economic experts, are rapidly changing the export trade picture for both gold and nongold standard nations.

British hopes for a revival of her textile business are coincident with a further drop in the pound sterling to below the $3.30 level and rumors that stabilization may be achieved at a lower rate.

At the same time the Japanese, who joined the English in booting the gold standard, have permitted the yen to slide to a historic low level of some 21 cents, and the cotton goods mills in Osaka and along the Yangste are beginning to show real signs of life as competition with British textiles boils.

Along with these currency depreciation evidences, the Australian pound and the Argentine peso slipped substantially while the Canadian dollar descended to somewhere under 90 cents. With these three countries the material results show in increased wheat exports to those countries that switch their orders to the cheapest markets.

SOVIET COSTS UNKNOWN

The drastic leveling of exchanges is exemplified by the par rates of some of those currencies that have divorced gold. On a gold basis the British pound is valued at $4.86⅔ and the Australian money the same; the Japanese yen at 49.8 cents, the Argentine peso at 42.44 cents (now 25.80 cents), and the Canadian dollar at 100 cents.

The Russian ruble, although an outcast among other foreign exchanges, has a nominal value of 51½ cents, but it is not negotiable outside the Soviet republic. As all Bolshevik workers are paid in rubles (which they can't use except at Soviet state and co-operative stores to purchase limited amounts of products) the Russians have no way of figuring the cost of production and, consequently, they can undersell any other foreign currencies at a profit. Only the lack of production, at the present time, is preventing them from figuring importantly in the present exporting race.

WHEAT EXPORTS LOW

Just how far the drop of various foreign exchanges has affected commodity prices in the United States is a matter of argument. Grain dealers point out that the recent sagging of December wheat to the unheard of price of 41⅞ cents a bushel was due principally to an almost complete lack of export demand.

With the sinking of American prices, Canada, her dollar down to about 90 cents, shipped more than 9,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad. The United States at the same time exported only a few thousand bushels to Greece.

At the beginning of this year 12 countries were off the gold standard and their currency depreciation was 31.2 per cent. These 12 countries, it is estimated by Moody's, held about 36 per cent of world trade. The percentage, it is said, may be considerably greater by the end of 1932.

Apathy Responsible For Corporation Misdeeds

APATHY ON THE part of stockholders may account to some extent for the missteps of officials of corporations which have come to light during the years of the depression.

The Krueger and the Insull affairs attracted particular notice but there have been many other less sensational cases of corporate mismanagement which have been exposed under current trying business conditions.

The fact that American stockholders take so little interest in the organizations in which they have invested their money may account for at least some of the laxness on the part of the managements. So far as the average corporation executive can see, his stockholders do not care what he does with their money. Of course, they do care but they do not evidence any first hand interest in the matter until something has gone wrong and until it is too late to do anything about it.

No Interest Seen At Annual Meetings

EVERY CORPORATION has an annual meeting. At this meeting the board of directors must give an account of its actions during the year. Officials must answer any reasonable questions about the business.

With thousands of persons vitally interested in the activities of our leading corporations, one would think that a stockholders' meeting would be thronged with individuals who wanted to hear how their money was being handled—who wanted to ask for specific information about the policies of the institutions in which they had entrusted their savings. But such is not the case. At the average stockholders' meeti there are about 12 persons attendance. Usually eight these are directors or officia one is a stenographer, and t remaining three are holders 10 shares each.

English Example Might Be Followed

IN ENGLAND STOCKHOLDers' meetings are momentous affairs. Almost invariably a larg number of the joint owners o the corporation appear to b told what is being done wit their money. They ask questions. Some of the questions are foolish, some of them are embarrassing to the management but they do let the directors know that there is a great group of investors whose money they are handling—to whom the management must answer for its actions. The mere fact that these investors are interested enough to come to the stockholders' meetings keeps the board of directors in touch with the fact that it is acting as a trustee for the money of thousands of individuals. It keeps the board constantly in mind of the fact that it may be called to answer for its stewardship at any time. Undoubtedly this reminder keeps the management of a company from doing many foolish things which might lead to disasters of the Insull and Krueger variety.

It might be worth while for American stockholders to take the time at least once a year to go to the annual meetings of the companies in which they are interested, not only for what they might learn about their investments, but to remind the management, which is working for them, that it may be called upon to answer to its bosses if it makes a serious misstep.

Brushing Up On Ol' Will Shakespeare

STOCKS DROP AS TRADING SLOWS UP

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP.)—After edging higher at the start, then quickly settling back under a moderate flurry of selling, the stock market degenerated into a dull, highly professional trading affair today.

Wall street was not greatly surprised by the result of the election, as a Democratic victory had been rather widely predicted in the financial district during the past week, and attention turned to business prospects over the remainder of the year and the possible developments at the December session of the old Congress.

The market encountered a fair accumulation of buying orders at the start, and there were some reports of foreign orders in the market. Brokers described the morning selling as representing a combination of "disappointed" liquidation and profit-taking on the advances of the three sessions which preceded the election day market holiday. Firmness of American stocks in London before this market opened probably was a factor in the early rise. In foreign exchanges, the dollar was firm against most currencies, notably the continental gold currencies.

Among corporate and trade news, declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents by Eastman Kodak was notable. Freight car loadings reports for the week ended November 7 show further seasonal recession. Chicago and Northwestern handled 20,502 cars in that week, against 22,024 in the preceding week. Weakness of American Telephone may have been in part due to larger losses of telephones in October, amounting to 105,000, against about 90,000 in September. In July, however, the loss was 268,000. Crude oil production last week gained a little.

COTTON EASES AFTER RISE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Cotton futures opened steady, 2-6 higher on steadier Liverpool cables and trade buying. December, 6.28; January, 6.34; March, 6.41; May, 5.63; July, 6.63; October, 6.77.

The initial demand which carried December up to 6.29c and May to 6.53c was readily supplied by southern selling or pre-bureau liquidation, and the market soon eased off under these offerings. By the end of the first half hour, December was down to 6.11c and May to 6.36c, making net losses of about 12 to 14 points.

The southern selling and pre-bureau liquidation continued and when trading was suspended to receive the government crop report active months were about 14 to 18 points net lower, with December ruling around 6.09 and May 6.32. The official figures placing the indicated crop at 11,947,000 bales and the ginnings prior to November 1 at 9,245,534 bales, were both above expectations and there was a further break of some 10 to 12 points on the more active positions when trading was resumed after their publication.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 9.—Cotton—Receipts, 5,000 bales, including 2,200 American; spot in fair demand; prices unchanged; quotations in pence; American strict good middling, 6.30; good middling, 6.05; strict middling, 5.80; middling, 5.60; strict low middling, 5.45; low middling, 5.30; strict good ordinary, 5.10; good ordinary, 4.80. Futures closed steady; December, 5.11; January, 5.10; March, 5.13; May, 5.15; July, 5.16; October, 5.19.

COPPER, LEAD PRICES RISE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Electrolytic copper is materially higher abroad. Sales have been made at 5.625 to 5.65c today, compared to 5.30 to 5.35c Monday.

Copper is unchanged in the domestic market at 5¼c delivered to the end of 1932 and 5⅜c for the first quarter 1933 shipments.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The American Smelting and Refining Company has advanced the price of lead 15 points to 3.15 cents a pound, New York.

British Employment Increase Reported

ELECTION LIFTS ECONOMIC ILLUSIONS

MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—With the exaggerations and distortions of the election behind us, it becomes a national task to dissipate some of the illusions created.

The first big blunder was over-emphasis of the contribution which a president makes to national prosperity, and corresponding under-emphasis of the importance of John Doe, the average man. The economic affluence of the country springs less from the first name of the President than from the ability of vast social groups, like urban factory workers, and farmers, for example, to carry on barter with another. In the power age, the character of trade has become complicated, and the task of leadership is to eliminate the barriers, such as disparity in compensation (and hence buying power) to labor on farm and in factory.

Mr. Rukeyser

ADJUST BUYING POWER

The over-emphasis on the chief executive was heightened four years ago in the super-man campaigning, but the course of economic events in the subsequent years has shown how finite are the capacities of one personality against the baffling problems which must be met co-operatively by large groups working toward common objectives.

One modest head of a great and successful industrial corporation, in discussing the ballyhooing of leaders with me, said:

"We executives merely collect commissions on other people's labors."

Unless the economic machine is adjusted for full employment, the profit-contributing ability of any executive is lowered. Broadly speaking, it is impossible to maintain net profits when gross income has been drastically reduced.

CONFERENCE PLANNED

Having voted, what next for the American public, in connection with raising itself from the slough of economic depression?

The American Academy of Political and Social Science and the Taylor Society are to be commended for their promptness in calling a post-election conference, which will be held at Philadelphia Friday and Saturday of this week to air the views of specialists on "Next Steps: A Post-Election Stock-Taking." As is fitting, they will place chief emphasis on the immediate unemployment problem and also on the long-run unemployment problem. There will also be consideration of reduction of public expenditures, of proposed new approaches to the problems of industry, and of co-operation versus competition in business.

There are of course other post-election problems, which are not on the program, including banking reform, supervision of new security issues, inter-allied debt, and the whole board question of distribution of the profits of production in a manner which will sustain consuming demand.

THREATS DISPELLED

What about the reaction of the stock market to the news of the election? Writing before the result was known, the sagacious and wary Alexander Dana Noyes commented:

"No prophet who knows his business will risk a forecast."

Inasmuch as this paragraph is being written before the votes have been counted, comment must accordingly be tempered.

This much, however, can be said. The market is relieved of uncertainty, and now has certainty about the outcome with which to deal. In the second place, the market henceforth will be spared the nerve wracking experiences which occurred within the last few weeks of campaigning when politicians somewhat unscrupulously unearthed dire realities and frightening myths to stir the emotions of the people.

Seeks to Enjoin Midwest Transfer

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Suit to enjoin the Midwest Refining Company from transferring or conveying its assets to another company has been filed in the Denver District Court by T. A. Pedley, a former officer of the company. Pedley charges that his five shares of stock will be endangered by dissolution of the company.

He asked that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and Standolind Oil and Gas Company be enjoined from accepting any conveyance of Midwest assets.

Committee Favors Texas Oil Measure

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—The oil and gas conservation bill has been reported favorably by the House committee with an amendment which provides for proration of natural gas on the market demand from each separate field rather than on a state-wide basis. The committee also adopted an amendment that the measure shall not affect the common purchases act, the marginal law, nor the anti-trust laws.

THREE WOMEN

By FAITH BALDWIN

Lennox Becomes Seriously Ill, After Marriage To Elizabeth

CHAPTER XVIII.

The church was well filled. It was a beautiful wedding, people said, craning their necks. A great many women cried, as women will, when Elizabeth, on the arm of Diedrich Lennox, paced slowly up the ribboned aisle, preceded by her sisters. It went off very well indeed, said the people. Louisa thought, expressionless, "There should have been a rehearsal—how very clumsy Alice is with the train."

Presently they came down the aisle, having made their vows—for better—for worse—in sickness and in health. The audience, with a rustling, surging sound, stood to see them. Lennox, it was observed, was flushed, his eyes bright. The girl on his arm, a little eclipsed by her draperies, was as white as her veil. People saw how he put his hand over the hand on his coat sleeve and held it there. "The darlings!" observed Mrs. Van Alstyne, a bit of lace and linen to her eyes.

Then they went back to the house. The reception was to be small, owing to the change in plans. Not more than a hundred guests, Louisa had decided.

Lennox and Elizabeth in the carriage.

LENNOX STILL SICK

He smiled at her as he got in and sat beside her, there. He fingered a spray of valley lillies in her bouquet and said, half shyly, "Mine—now."

He leaned back against the plum colored upholstery and shut his eyes for a moment. The false excitement had left him. He was short of breath, there was a pain in his breast, it stabbed like a knife.

Elizabeth looked at him, cast herself upon him, smothered him in her fragrant whiteness.

"Lennox—oh, what is it?" she implored. "You're worse? You're—Tell me, dearest!"

"Don't worry—I'll be all right," he answered with an effort. He held her, and went on thoughtfully. "I'm sorry. I don't think I can go to that reception."

"You needn't," she answered him instantly. "Why should you? Then, on a little sigh, "Lennox, I'm so frightened."

At this appeal, the strongest from beloved to lover, he rallied.

"Why, I've not kissed you! Not since there, in the church, with all the people watching—and that didn't count. And I mustn't kiss you—"

"You must!"

"No—"

IS EXHAUSTED

"I always have been."

"Elizabeth you don't regret?"

She knew. She cried out, "Never—never!"

They smiled at each other, a little sadly. They thought, "we're married"—but there was no amazement in the thought. They had known for so long, the sense of belonging, the union, the one-ness. They had reached the house. Fred Van Alstyne waited for them. As the carriage stopped, as the door was opened, he saw Elizabeth's face. He looked away, he was a reverent young man. But he never forgot.

Lennox spoke to him as he reached the sidewalk, wondering how he managed to walk at all.

"Fred—I'm all in."

Van Alstyne, a worried frown between his blonde brows, took his friend's arm. They went upstairs to his room and shut themselves in.

Elizabeth, claimed by her mother and sisters, was taken to her room to repair any damage to the wedding gown, the veiled mass of hair. The orchestra, hidden behind palms in the big hall, was already playing. People were arriving, the house was filled with the heavy, warming scent of roses and lilies.

"Lennox is pretty sick," said the young man, abruptly, when he had found her. "You'd best send for the doctor."

"That ill? But he was better—" She paled slightly.

"Well, he's worse now," said Van Alstyne, who had always disliked her.

"The reception?"

Louisa went to a telephone.

Ten minutes later she knocked on Elizabeth's door. The girl opened it herself, she was ready to come downstairs. The flowers were held against her breast, her face had a faint color.

"Isn't she beautiful?" asked Ella.

Louisa ignored this, she spoke briefly.

"Lennox is ill. The doctor is on the way. You will have to go down and receive the guests. I will wait until the doctor comes."

Elizabeth's hands opened, the flowers lay on the floor.

"But I must go to him," she insisted.

"No—go and receive your guests."

Elizabeth pushed past Louisa.

"I will go," she cried. "What do the people matter?"

Her mother-in-law's hand fell on her arm.

"You will go downstairs," she repeated. Then she lowered her voice, spoke scarcely above a whisper but harshly. "Don't you understand? Have you no common sense? People must not know how ill he is."

SERIOUS AILMENT

Every last vestige of color drained from Elizabeth's face. She stood a moment, tall in the wedding gown, a white figure, turned to stone. She understood. Everything. The last implication. The final danger.

"Very well."

The doctor came immediately. He had not been difficult to find; he had been at the church, had gone home a moment before coming on to the reception. He made his examination in the room from which even Val Alstyne had been barred.

Threatened pneumonia.

Louisa joined Elizabeth shortly afterwards, stood beside her in the receiving line. Ella stood there too, the sisters, some of the Lennoxes. The room was hot, it was crowded, the music sang above the chatter, the murmur, the rise and fall of well-bred voices. People pressed through into the library, beyond into a small music room where the presents were displayed. Elizabeth stood, docile. She smiled, she gave her hand to clasp, her cheek to kiss. She answered sedately, repeating the names her mother-in-law spoke. "Thank you, Mrs. Sheppherd—thank you so much, Mrs. Vreeland; thank you, Mrs. Drummond, Mr. Carstairs."

The guests talked among themselves—too bad about Lennox—such a beautiful wedding. Just what was the matter with him? Oh, a very heavy cold—a fever? I see—the doctor has advised—but what a pity. No, South, some one said—isn't the food good?—quite a pretty bride, don't you think? Oh, of course these very fair girls wash out in white—yes—such a pity about young Sheldon.

They were not much concerned.

Louisa Sheldon and Elizabeth Sheldon stood side by side. Sometimes their hands touched in the brush and sway of the crowd. They spoke to one another pleasantly, mechanically.

They could neither of them go to him, stay by him. No one must know how ill he was.

Synopsis

Mrs. Louisa Sheldon, aristocratic widow, who idolizes her son, Lennox, above all things else on earth, is arranging details of his wedding to Elizabeth Howland. Mrs. Sheldon in secret decided to marry off Lennox to some nice girl more than two years before when he attended a party where giddy girls of no social standing had made merry with the boys. Mrs. Sheldon took command of wedding plans and sent Elizabeth home to visit her family for a few months. Lennox goes to Boston to see Elizabeth. They decide to elope, but Louisa spoils their plans. Louisa orders an almost immediate marriage and rushes the wedding plans. Lennox suffers from a severe cold the night before the wedding. Elizabeth is worried.

Now Go On

It was a beautiful wedding, people said.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

When the members of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club attended the meeting last Saturday they said "Hello" for the first time in months to Frank Roberts, who formerly managed this theater and who returned to the Enright last week to take up his duties as of old.

As each member entered the theater they were presented with a prize—the boys a bag of marbles and to the girls a set of jacks.

After much shouting and laughter the first of several contests was started on the stage. This was the "poison" game for the boys. Bill Einsman was the winner, followed closely by Domenic Liberto.

Then Dolly Fritz, who has succeeded Ruthie Miller as instructor of the Enright Dancing School, put the pupils through a strenuous half hour of work.

The next contest was a dodge ball game for the boys and the winners were William Caplan, who received a complete tennis set for winning, and Joseph Broady a large rubber ball for being the runner-up.

GIRLS IN CONTEST

Then the girls participated in a dodge ball contest and the winners of this contest were Alexia Cunningham, who picked as her prize a telephone and Pauline Caplan took a large rubber ball for her prize.

Then came the highlight of the day. This was a banana-eating contest in which 12 youngsters competed. The bananas were half peeled and then tied just above the heads of the youngsters competing, so that they had to stand on tiptoes to reach the fruit. After much stretching of necks and dancing on toes Alan Broudy finished his first and received as his reward a large pumpkin pie. After receiving the reward Alan said that that old saying, "A feast before a famine," must hold good because after eating the pie he would have to fast for a couple of days. Bill Einsman was second and received a large candy bar for his efforts.

The girls then played "poison" and Ruth Reck ran off with first honors. Buth by this time must have been hungry after seeing everyone who had competed in the various contests eating pie, cake, bananas and candy, so she took a large candy nut bar for her prize. Marjorie Leach was second and she received a small candy bar.

The boys not to be outdone by the girls decided that they wanted to compete in a rope-jumping contest also, so Manager Roberts, always ready to please, told them to go ahead. The winner in this was Alfred Pagano, of the famous Enright twins. Raymond Rabinovitz was second.

This completed the day's activity and Manager Roberts told the youngsters to take their seats and listen carefully, as he had a very important announcement to make.

So when everybody had taken their places Manager Roberts told them that, starting next Saturday, the Junior Komic Club of the Enright Theater would meet not at the Enright but at the Sheridan Square Theater just two blocks up the street.

Bugs Baer

The Bug Improves Politically

Well, The Bug was defeated for the presidental race but managed to finish third by a spurt in the outlying districts.

We overtrained. Too many promises. The voters looked over our hypothetical exaggerations and figured we made some promises we couldn't keep and that we made more we didn't intend to keep.

So, here is one candidate who is back in circulation again looking for new fields to conquer and conceding the voters are right.

Now, that two-apple-dumplings-on-every-cafeteria-platter was the bunk. But it made a good campaign slogan and we worked it till the boiler exploded. It is difficult enough to handle one apple dumpling on a platter. The average citizen hasn't got the knack.

It made great publicity for us all over the land. It is one of those safe slogans that ain't heckled much. Nobody was ever smart enough to yell "Why?"

In fact, our campaign would have stopped automatically in June, July or August if any heckler had hollered "Why?"

That's a mono-interrogation no candidate can answer. We learned it early in life when an orator in our town proclaimed that he was for right, justice and equality.

A feller roared "Why?" and the speaker didn't know.

He was just for those things. That was all. He must have read it somewhere and forgot to bring the book along. That's what we admired about Huey Long at the Democratic convention in Chicago. He had all the proofs with him. Books, papers and records as far back as the time Admiral Noah led the first fleet. He was ready to read those books, or throw them. Nobody asked Huey "Why?" so he asked himself. Then he read the statistics out of the book.

He was prepared. But we'll bet if you catch Huey unawares in a bathtub or playing golf and holler "Why?" he will be so flustered he will cancel his next speaking engagement, and that's what you call self-sacrifice.

Anyway, The Bug was defeated all along the line by a huge popular vote in which his relatives joined with might and main. We have been repudiated by a nation. Which is an improvement. The last time we got it it was from only a small town.

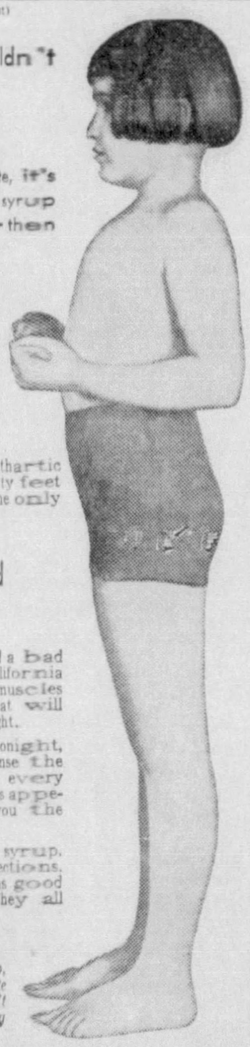
The little Girl who wouldn't

EAT

When a youngster has no appetite, it's probably due to stasis. A little fig syrup will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat.



Nature knows best! Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Not to correct this is inexcusable. It is so easy to do, if you will only use the "California treatment." Read what it is doing for listless children in every part of the country!

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children any constipating cathartic that drains the system and weakens twenty feet of tender bowels! California fig syrup is the only "medicine" they need!

Sluggishness ended in 2 Weeks!

That girl or boy with a furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts! California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food, digest it, gain weight.

Try the California treatment! Begin tonight, with enough of the pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week until the child's appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone.

Be sure to get the real California fig syrup. Any druggist has it, all bottled, with directions. It's a natural, vegetable laxative. Just as good for babes of two years as boys of ten. They all love its taste!

NOTICE TO MOTHERS

There are imitations of California fig syrup, and those who would sell you some substitute care little for your child's health is concerned. Don't accept any bottle that is not plainly labeled CALIFORNIA.

Above telephoto shows dramatic scene enacted late last night on the White House lawn. By previously arranged signals, the two girl scouts representing the citrus belt flashed the news of election results to anyone who cared to peek out from behind the tightly drawn blinds of the Executive Mansion. Now for the Advance!

The Issue Is Settled; Close Up the Ranks

The American people have spoken; the Nation has made its choice. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has been elected by a landslide.

Let us all, winners and losers alike, now push forward with the single purpose of restoring prosperity and making ours a BETTER, HAPPIER and SAFER country.

Partisanship must be buried.

Every man and woman must strive with wholehearted devotion to pull this great republic out of the mire of depression and to set it again on the high road of progress.

The fears and uncertainties of the months before election are over. The issue has been decided. The way is now clear for a nation-wide advance.

That advance must go on UNCHECKED.

The major offensive against depression is on.

With unity, co-operation and courage they will smash the forces of hardship and hunger and DRIVE THEM EVERLASTINGLY FROM OUR LAND.

Get Down to Cases!

Specific Instances in Which the Budget Controller Saved Money for the City Are in Order.

John D. Houston continues to have the best of it in his controversy with City Council over the question if the position of Budget Controller is a useful one or is, as Houston charges, a waste of the taxpayers' money.

City Controller J. P. Kerr has given support to Houston by telling Council his department needs no assistance.

Houston contends that Council created the position of Budget Controller for no other reason than to find a lucrative place for former Councilman Robert J. Alderdice after he had been defeated in his campaign for re-election, and that the job should be abolished and the money saved.

In view of Controller Kerr's statement he might well be credited with having proved his case, but for the fact that the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and the Building Owners and Managers Association both assert that the Budget Controller saves the city far more than his position costs.

The two organizations are leaders in the demand for economy in municipal affairs. They have been willing and eager to go farther than anybody else in doing away with jobs, services and projects in the city and county governments and in the public schools, in order to cut down the tax levy. When they declare a position is worth all it costs, their opinion commands respect.

But it is now time to drop generalities and get down to cases. Houston's challenge should be met. He calls for specific instances in which Alderdice effected economies which could not or would not have been effected if he had not been on the job.

Council, and the Real Estate Board, and the Building Owners and Managers, should furnish such definite proof of the Budget Controller's usefulness, if they can.

If they cannot, Houston should be conceded victory in the debate, the job should be abolished, and he should be urged and given every opportunity to elucidate his additional charge that 35 per cent of the city payroll represents "graft."

Celestial Fireworks

The Meteor Shower Scheduled for Sunday Brings to Mind That a Meteorite Was Found Near Here.

If a great mass of metal were to drop from the sky upon Pittsburgh, even in broad daylight, there would be no reason to regard the phenomenon as supernatural. The object, while passing through the air, would be a meteor; after reaching the earth it would be a meteorite.

A small meteorite was found near Pittsburgh in 1850. Four other meteorites have also been discovered in Pennsylvania, the largest, weighing 847 pounds, in Adams County. R. W. Stone, assistant state geologist, has published a bulletin, describing them.

Pennsylvania's meteorites are brought to mind by the announcement of astronomers that the earth is due to pass next Sunday through a cloud of meteors, known as the Leonides, because they seem to radiate from the constellation Leo.

On November 12, 1833, the Leonides gave a great show of celestial fireworks. The sky was filled with shooting stars, thousands upon thousands of them, for five or six hours. There is a possibility that the show may be repeated early next Sunday morning; the place to look for it is in the eastern sky.

The chances that any of these shooting stars will fail to be consumed as they rush through the air are remote. Meteorites are rare, and seldom do any damage. The only well authenticated case of a fatality caused by one is that of a man at Mhow, India, who was struck by a meteorite in 1827.

Where the Blame Lies

Responsibility for the Prevalence of Vice Rests Squarely On Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Judge Frank P. Patterson declared in an address before the Traffic Club that "men high in the police department" who fail to co-operate with "the man on the beat" are to blame for the prevalence of vice and racketeering in Pittsburgh.

Judge Patterson could have gone farther and placed the blame on Mayor Charles H. Kline. For there can be no doubt that the police inspectors and Supt. Peter P. Walsh and Director of Public Safety James M. Clark take their cue from Kline. It is the Mayor who dictates the police policy.

Judge Patterson, working through the constables and county detectives, is doing a good job in his effort to clean up Pittsburgh. But a much better job could be done if Kline would co-operate.

Men may admire a brilliant woman or a beautiful woman, but they LIKE an amiable woman. A sweet disposition has carried many a girl through life in a limousine, who would otherwise have been running her own second-hand flivver.

Somehow, when a woman begins boasting about her husband, her list of his virtues appears to consist almost entirely of the faults he "HASN'T got" or the naughty things he "DOESN'T do" . . . his virtues of omission.

It is safer to kiss than to shake hands, according to French doctors, but no handshake ever led to a breach-of-promise suit or the alimony jail.

Fashions in Romeos change, just as fashions in girls change. Women have always loved men according to type; and their fads in heroes have run the gamut all the way from knights and troubadours to football favorites and crooners.

Predicting the rise and fall of the stock market is a kindergarten game besides foretelling the fluctuations in the feminine waistline —or the rise and fall of the sartorial meridian.

Isn't It So?

Sometimes about the only cool thing about the weather is its reception.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The turn of the Rialto's fortune wheel has spun players into bewildered helter-skelter, especially lesser vaudeville performers. Their only oasis now is the "grind show"—and how appropriately named!—where the programs are a continuous grind.

Whereas one headliner appeared at vaudeville's last stand, the Palace, five, sometimes six, now stud such temples as the Capitol, Paramount and Loew's. And they toss in a feature picture and a run of news events for good measure. Increased expenditure is met by increased patronage.

Topnotch players must appear at four shows a day and, for most, it means idling about their dressing rooms in costumes from 11 a. m. until 10 p. m. If they go anywhere, they must rush back for the next performance. Sometimes they go to dinner and cocktail parties in costume.

But most of the artists have become reconciled to backstage tedium, and indulge in backgammon and bridge with their stage partners or those on the same bill. Even old-fashioned jack-straws has been revived. Salaries for "grind shows" have not increased and are not likely to.

A preposterous mistress, the theater! Any other class of artists would have turned to other pursuits for a livelihood, with the stage as it is. Yet the most sensitive people in the world hang on and on. What to many is tough luck, to them is an exhilirating gamble.

It exists in every calling I suppose—hanging on when the public yawning a finis, looks the other way. But it seems more pronounced in the theater. Twice this season I witnessed the calvary of splendid souls. Each was a deservedly popular star of other days, but the fickle parade had passed them. There was no material need, but they simply could not quit on the top wave. So, the undertow took them. I can think of one star who quit in time—Maud Adams. And she clouded her lustre with a farewell tour.

Thingumbobs: Alexander Woollcott writes Neysa McMein, longtime friend, a letter every day when traveling . . . Hugh Walpole likes a dish of ice cream for breakfast after a night out . . . Fifi D'Orsay's notes to all boyfriends are signed: "Your Fifi" . . . Somerset Maugham and the late Arnold Bennett, both pronounced stutterers, never stuttered when they met . . . Barney Gallant quits the Village for uptown next season.

There is meaty stuff for a high-tenored philosopher in a new harness shop—of all things!—along that fashionable strip of Madison avenue in the 50's. I remember the proprietor in a clean but shabbier shop in West 47th street. I once mused before it, cogitating the certainty of its eventual extinction. Then, one day, I stepped in to have a harness made for a dog. I not only was impressed with the service but the quality of workmanship. Now, with a burst of early Victorian nerve, he opens on a grander scale. A bigger and better saddlery and harness shop jetting out of a cataclysmic downshoot! That's something over which a few of us thin-skinned grumblers, merely waiting to slip back into primeval ooze, might ponder.

And on an upper reach of Broadway, opposite the Ansonia, is a pert botique that heralds itself as "My Man's Shop." In a hurried passing, it offered a bright gusto, entirely in tune with a torch singing era.

Gilbert Miller no longer is the greatest tran-Atlantic commuter. His place has been usurped by the boudoir dramatist, Frederic Lonsdale, who also has added Hollywood to his itinerary. He has so budgeted his time that, with mathematical precision, he spends one-third of his time in London, one-third in New York and one-third in Hollywood.

I notice the renaissance of growler rushing in the bilious-fronted Yorktown bier-stubbles. Walking across East Eighty-sixth street the other dusk, I saw a half dozen emerging from this place, and with foaming pitchers and buckets.

In my self hair-cutting hall-room days with Wilson Burke, in Cincinnati, one of our minor deceptions was larding or buttering the inside of the growler. This reduced foam and resulted in more of the solid article. In other words, a well-greased nickel growler produced six glasses, instead of four. And stop that screaming and wringing your hands!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

God,
Help me live, NOW!
Not in the future,
Nor in the dead past,
But NOW—
Within the mood
And meaning of TODAY.

To live
Within the present;
That's a simple thing
To ask,
But hard,
So grimly hard,
To do!

For I'm a coward, God.
I hate to face
Things as they are;
The dull decisions
And the dreary chores
Which fill each hour.
Instead,
I like to duck,
To crawl away
And hide,
Yet still pretend
That I am
Being brave;
AND, FOR THE COWARD,
THERE'S NO HIDE-AWAY
SO PERFECT
OR DREAMS

So easy to go back
Back to the happy days
When life was sweet
And simple;
So easy
For a shirking heart
To say:
"Those were the good years,
"These are evil times;
"I will forget
"The muddle we're in now,
"And live once more
"In the bright yesterday!"
So easy to say this,
And so escape
The duty we all have
To take our place
Within the trenches
Of TODAY.

So easy, too,
To hide away in grief—
A grave holds, often,
Both the living
And the dead—
Or smugly hide
Within the shadows
Of remorse,
And so disguise
Our selfishness,
Our laziness and fear.

And easier yet
To find escape in dreams
Of romance or achievement—
Bright visions of the things
We'll "sometime do"—
And so avoid the things
We ought to do,
Yet still pretend
That we are doing things.

I know!
For all my life
I've tried to get away—
And so have you!

So help me, now
Dear Father;
Help me live, TODAY!
Give me the courage
To abstain from dreams,
The valor to resist
The drug of memory;
And help me face
The challenge of this hour,
Meeting each dawn
With all I have of faith
And energy and joy,
Until, at last,
When all the dawns
Are over, I can say:
"So now
"It's time to die.
"Well, death, I'm ready.
"I have no regrets.
"Blunders?
"Yes, many;
"But I never hid!
"I met it all.
"All that each hour held;
"And now, perhaps,
"I pass—forever?
"But I go triumphant
"WHILE I LIVED,
"I LIVED!"

Text For Today If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O King.—Daniel, iii:17.

Roosevelt Campaign Free From Blunders

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 9.—I am writing this article as the ballots are falling all over the land, but the result of the election, even now, is known, and the betting is 7 to 1 on Roosevelt.

The fight is over and it is possible to reflect with some clarity of vision on the character of the campaign waged by the successful candidate.

In the early part of the campaign I commented on the usual futility of an extensive swing around the circle by a presidential nominee, and called attention to the fact that in almost every instance the man making the most spectacular swing lost the battle. I suggested that it would be wiser for the nominee to make no more than five or six major speeches in as many sections of the country, and Mr. Roosevelt did nothing of the sort. He challenged fate by going forth and making a continental tour as spectacular and extensive as any man in history with the exception of Mr. Bryan.

It was, or in the case of most men would have been, a perilous experiment. It is such an easy and natural thing for a man, no matter how wise and cautious, in the enthusiasm and excitement of a tumultuous crowd, to give utterance to sentences open to dangerous misinterpretation. The fact that Mr. Roosevelt went through it all without making a single blunder is comforting thought for all of us who wish him well in the heavy responsibilities soon to be assumed.

Roosevelt Speeches Were Effective

In many respects, the Roosevelt speeches have been the most effective in history. Mr. Bryan was a great orator. He could whip a crowd into the greatest enthusiam. He seldom prepared a speech entirely, and spoke without notes. He played like a master on men's emotions and spoke the language of the hearts of millions. But in the fervor of his oratory he frequently used expressions so strong that many, unfamiliar with the oratorical temperament, conceived the notion that he would be a firebrand in office. I do not think he would have been; but unquestionably millions did.

Woodrow Wilson made no such speaking campaign as Roosevelt. His speeches were all prepared with great care and they all were masterly expositions of principles and explanations of policies couched in the purest English. He had more magnetism, too, than one would have thought possible in one whose life had been that of cloistered scholarship so long. But his speeches went over the heads of most of his audiences. These knew they were in the presence of a great man and took much for granted. It was the thoughtful who appreciated to the full the statesmanship of his utterances.

Understandable to The Mass Mind

But Roosevelt, weighing every word, had the knack of putting his thoughts in language more understandable to the mass mind. It is not a secret that every speech was prepared with meticulous care; that every subject touched had been studied from every angle; that experts on every subject were consulted. That made for the soundness of his speeches. Some of these speeches dealt with subjects more or less technical, and the genius of Roosevelt was in ability so to phrase his thought that the man in the street could understand. No human being ever has mastered that secret quite so well as Alfred E. Smith. But Roosevelt is a close second.

Then, too, his personality got over to the crowds. His has always been a pleasing personality. This is due in large measure to his real feeling of good will toward men. He felt everything he said, and that put upon his talks the stamp of deep sincerity which the audience did not miss.

A Slip, But Not a Blunder

Looking back, now that it is all over, he made but one possible slip in the whole campaign and that was not a blunder. I have never been able to see anything not 100 per cent right in his comment that under the regime in power for 12 years there has been a "forgotten man." That expression will be remembered historically as the one that best set forth the tone and temper of Roosevelt's entire campaign. He used it in close connection with a reference to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and it was possible to interpret the comment on the "forgotten man" as an attack on the R. F. C. Nothing of the sort was intended. But it gave his enemies, playing for the business vote, an opportunity to make the charge.

But, if that was a slip, it is the only one made in one of the extensive campaigns in history.

And out of this ordeal, which has worn many robust men down to a rag, he emerged cheerful, strong, able to smile. The original plan to whisper it about that his health is not good was thus reduced to an absurdity, and if this propaganda was used at all it thus lost its effect.

Farley Emerges A Commanding Figure

Out of the campaign has emerged another commanding figure in politics who is so unusual as to be unique among campaign managers. James A. Farley, the national chairman, differed notably from the general run of managers. He was not a veteran politician; he had not grown up in an atmosphere of dissimulation and intrigue; he had none of the earmarks of the professional politician. His geniality and good fellowship had always made him popular among those who knew him, but these qualities do not always make for competent leadership.

Some of the greatest captains have been ill-tempered fellows. I remember—now it can be told—my own misgivings the first time I talked with him. His absolute frankness was startling. There was no subject, no matter how delicate, that could be asked which he didn't answer right from the shoulder, even when the answer could not have given him gratification and was calculated to disturb the interrogator. My fear was that he was too utterly frank, too completely honest. He has shown by his success that in politics honesty is the best policy.

But there was something else in Farley that enormously increased his power for good. He had lived most of his life in a small city in New York state, and he had what few politicians in the metropolis have—an intuitive understanding of the psychology of the average man from coast to coast. The westerner found him as frank and breezy as himself; the southerner found him as courteous and hospitable as one of his own; and both found that he understood the problems and the feelings of their section.

Recently I spoke in an Indiana city where he had spoken the week before. The people there, unconventional, informal, hearty, open, found him one of their own kind. When they entertained him it was as though one of their neighbors who never had journeyed far had just dropped it.

I found that everyone thought of him as an old friend and none called him Farley or Mr. Farley—they all remembered him as "Jim."

But beneath all this was rare organizing ability and—what is just as important—a capacity for creating confidence and enthusiasm in his workers. He has played a mighty part in the campaign.

Howe a Master Of Strategy

And there is another, whose part has not been so apparent to the public eye, buried most of the time in a little room, who was a master of strategy—Louis Howe—one of Roosevelt's most intimate friends. Concentrating with intensity on the campaign problems, tireless, sleepless much of the time, cautious, calculating on every move, the general public never may know the importance of the part he played in one of the most successful campaigns in history.

So—as the ballots fall—we may pause before commenting on the results we soon shall know, to pay tribute to three men who have been masters in their fields.
